JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Nancy Wynne Goes to the Judson Tea—She Sees Several Smart Frocks in Her Various Trips About Town. She Talks of the Voting Yesterday

THAT was a beautiful tea at the Judsons yesterday afternoon when Charlotte Starr made her debut. Charlotte looked perfectly sweet in the dearest frock of rose pink taffeta, trimmed with little rosebuds. Now you know that was a darling dress. She's very dark and the frock gave her just the right coloring in that lighted room. She carried Sweetheart roses and was so vivacious and charming I was very glad I had gone out. Mrs. Starr wore a gown of dark blue satin which was most becoming, and Mrs. Judson's dress was of periwinkle blue charmeuse.

There were quantities of flowers in bouquets sent to the debutante, and then, too, Mrs. Judson had had the rooms decorated with yellow chrysanthemums and golden brown dahlias, which made a brilliant and colorful background for the others.

HELEN SEWELL is being entertained quite a lot. She's an awfully nice girl, I think. I saw her in town the other day looking very well in a smart sports suit of English tweed which was semi-fitted, showing her graceful figure to advantage. She wore a good-looking sports hat made of the same material as the suit. Helen is extremely attractive, so wholesome looking, too. She reminds me of spring. She is quite an athlete, you know, and a crack tennis player. Her eyes are very blue and her hair is gold. She has the most beautiful manners, and is just as nice as can be to every one; she couldn't be otherwise. Her younger sister, Beatrice is perfectly lovely, too. All the Sewell girls have been so well brought up. Their parents are perfectly charming people.

I SAW Katherine Ogden at the Bellevue the other day in a smart frock of dark brown duvetyne made quite plain with white collars and cuffs. It had a narrow belt of the material and her hat was a rather large turban of henna duvetyne, which was very sporty looking. Katherine is so dark, the henna was most becoming.

WE COMBINED voting and social duties yesterday didn't we? That is most of us voted in the morning and went teaing in the afternoon.

And honestly I felt sorry for some of the officers where there were women watchers. Why on earth, because we have the vote, women have to make themselves catty and disagreeable is more than I can understand. One poor man who had voted for years, of course, came in with his wife at the time I was there, and he asked an innocent question about the nonpartisan judges, that is, where they were to be marked on the ballot? And another innocent soul who was looking up the names told him where it was. Good night! One woman watcher nearly snapped the head off the poor man who asked the question and said, "The officers of the election are not allowed to answer questions. We are," indicating another woman and herself. And said poor officer sat quiet, but I do think he must have said something with a large "D" in it, under his breath.

Men have not gone into the polls all these years and raised Cain because a newspaper was on the floor or the windows were not hung with silk curtains. And the sooner women realize that men have equal rights the better. After hearing all this yesterday, I did not blame some of the men for not wanting woman suffrage.

DID you know that Lorraine Graham Bacon is coming on next month to spend the Christmas holidays with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Elden Graham? You know she was married some time last February to Edward Bacon, and they are living in Milwaukee, Wis. Won't it be nice to see her again?

I think Lorraine is so pretty. She has such beautiful eyes and such a graceful manner. I used to love to see her in amateur plays. She has decided talent and is so good to look at.

NANCY WAYNE.

Isn't it pleasant to know that in these days of high prices you can still have lovely shoes at a reasonable cost?

This smart boot of Black Kid, for instance—slim, with pointed toe and graceful Cuban heel—is priced most moderately when you consider the fineness of its materials and workmanship.

And you'll find it delightful to wear—snug fitting, soft and flexible—comfortable from the first minute you slip it on. May we not fit you with a pair?

Try Standing in Your Stocking Feet—with your toes turned far out. See how the weight is thrown on the inside of the foot, how the foot is flattened to the floor.

Then stand with your toes pointed straight ahead. The arch curves up. The weight is shared by the heel, the ball, and the outside of the foot.

That is just one contrast between ordinary shoes and Cantilever shoes. Ordinary shoes, which twist the foot to point the toes out, cause fallen arches because they throw all the weight on the inside of the arch—its weakest point.

The Cantilever Shoe is patterned from the outline of the foot. The natural inner sole line allows the toes to point straight ahead, as they normally should. The weight is distributed so that no strain comes on the arch. They encourage correct posture and easy carriage.

Cantilever Shoes permit the muscles to exercise with perfect freedom. The shank is flexible. It does not restrict the movement of the muscles, but gives with the foot. In a Cantilever Shoe the muscles surrounding the bones of the arch grow strong from use. Cantilevers correct and prevent fallen arches by exercising the foot.

This graceful boot is made in black kid, brown kid, brown calf, or white canvas. Also in brown or black kid with cloth tops.

Put a spring in your walk, a smile on your face. Buy Cantilevers this week. Good looking, trim lines, fine leathers. Widths from AAAA to E.
