

CONGRESS TO MISS FAMILIAR FIGURES

Even Champ Clark Went Down in the General Democratic Rout on Tuesday

ESCH AND SIMS BEATEN

Washington, Nov. 4.—Once familiar faces will return to the halls of Congress and political characters long associated with affairs under the great white dome at Washington will pass from the scene as a result of Tuesday's congressional contests.

Champ Clark, who missed being nominated for President of the United States by the narrowest of margins in 1912, will slip back into the ranks of those political ghosts that stalk the chamber of the House. He will join the group of silent figures that attained the heights of the speaker's rostrum but could go no farther, as James K. Polk alone of all wielders of the gavel was able to climb from the speaker's chair into the White House.

Speaker Gillett remains the father of the House, due to his unbroken service now running into fifteen consecutive terms. "Uncle Joe" Cannon will continue to strut up and down the center aisle, vest open and the long black stogie out ahead. He is not the Cannon who once was czar, but he has lived to witness the return to power of his political associates who went down with him when the insurgent movement split the Republican party eight years ago.

"Uncle Joe" Will Be on Hand

"Uncle Joe" will be a solitary figure. Danville seems inclined to keep him in Congress until he cries "hold, enough," but he has been forced, reluctantly, into the role of comparative youngster amidst a quorum of comparative youngsters who believe in prohibition. His cronies, General Isaac Sherwood, of Toledo, will be among those failing to descend to the speaker's pit to take the oath of office in the sixty-seventh Congress. The driveways of the national capital will miss those splendid bays General Sherwood drove with such pride and the civil war veterans will lose a valued friend of pensions. Woodrow Wilson tried to beat General Sherwood in 1918. The effort failed then; it succeeded on Tuesday.

Senator "Charlie" Thomas, the weather prophet of the Senate and one of its best story-tellers, will cease to stroll up and down, hands in hip-pockets, tobacco in his jaw, and disperse on problems of the day. He refused to run on the Democratic platform endorsing the League of Nations. He ran as a Nationalist but the united Republican vote of Colorado won easily over the split forces of the Democrats. The coming and going of "Charlie" Thomas's train meant more to Washingtonians interested in the weather than all of the forecasts of the bureau.

Plumb Plan Sponsors Retired

Thetus W. Sims, of Tennessee, who sponsored the Plumb plan of railroad control, and John H. Esch, of Wisconsin, who fought for it successfully and gave his name to the transportation act, will not be there. Esch and Sims led their party membership on the House committee on interstate and for-own commerce. Each may return to Washington as a secretary of commerce in the Harding cabinet. The gossip has it that way. Sims became famous in the capital as the only Democratic congressman who believed sincerely in protection. The story was that when attacked by a hostile adversary he sought safety in a tree and called for protection.

Senator John Walter Smith, of Maryland, whose silvery hair and polished manners always prompted women visitors in the galleries to inquire as to the identity of "that senator who looks like such a fine old gentleman," appears to have given way to a Republican, and "Jimmy" Phelan, of California, who always knew everything about oil and Japanese and California wises, will be among the absentees. It was the dapper Phelan with his trim beard who inspired a woman of national prominence to suggest that his whiskers reminded her of a kitten after finishing a bowl of cream.

Cochran and Burton Sent Back

The silver-tongued Bourke Cochran and the long-winded Theodore E. Burton, will return to the Capitol after long absences. Both will be in the House, but it is safe to predict that Burton will not be missing from his old haunts in the Senate when advised that some ambitious filibuster seeks to equal his record for long-distance oratory. One has it that after Burton had spoken for several days against a rivers and harbors "pork barrel" bill a colleague brought him raw eggs in a glass to sustain him in his fight to hold the floor. Senator John Sharp Williams, upon seeing the eggs, said in a distinctly audible undertone: "Don't be egging him on."

Alvin T. Fuller, the motor magnate of Massachusetts, who refused to draw his pay and allowances during two terms of congress and paid for his stationery and other office essentials, will be able to contribute in the same manner to the lowering of state expenses in Massachusetts. He was elected lieutenant governor of the Bay state.

Wisconsin Returns Two

Henry Allen Cooper, who led the famous fight over the armed neutrality bill when relations with Germany were at the breaking point, has come back from Wisconsin, after serving on a "lame-duck" commission, following his defeat two years ago.

William H. Stafford will be back from Wisconsin, but Washington will hope he has lost some of his legislative curiosity during the two years he has been in retirement. He had the habit of inquiring into more provisions of bills and of making more points of order than any man in the House. During the days of Democratic control, when "Jim" Mann was Republican floor leader, Stafford was known to his colleagues as "the volunteer minority leader."

ELECTION RIOTERS QUIETED

Former Service Men Keep Order in Florida, Where Eight Were Killed

Orlando, Fla., Nov. 4.—(By A. P.)—Former service men patrolled the streets of Orlando, Ocoee and nearby towns throughout the night to prevent renewal of the race clash which is known to have resulted in the death at Ocoee Tuesday night of two white men and six negroes. Quiet prevailed today and the authorities said they did not expect any further outbreak.

Deputy sheriffs who were called to Ocoee by the riot, which was the outgrowth of the election, said they believed the death toll would exceed eight. They said they were convinced the bodies of several negroes would be found in the ruins of twenty-five houses destroyed by fire.

COX TO SEE EUROPE IN 1921

Meanwhile He Is Preparing for Hunting Trip in Mississippi

Dayton, Nov. 4.—Governor Cox, the defeated presidential candidate, looking forward to the time he will surrender his state office in January, announced last night he was considering a trip abroad early next year to study conditions in Europe. Meanwhile, he said, he planned to work and rest, leaving here for the State Capitol tomorrow and starting the middle of next week for a hunting trip in Mississippi.

Today found the governor apparently in the same mental state as when he watched the returns Tuesday night, bringing in continuous unfavorable news. His smile was still apparent to-day and the mass of telegrams seemed unanimous in declaring he had made a "good fight."

The governor's first act yesterday was to send a congratulatory message to Senator Harding.

"I have not had a chance to travel much," the governor said last night, "I began work quite young and I think I'll soon go to Europe to study conditions there."

The governor's voice seemed rather husky, worse than at any time in his long campaign, and he explained that "it must be due to a let-down of the vocal cords."

ZAYAS WINS IN CUBA

Late Returns Give Presidential Candidate 10,000 Majority Over Gomez

Havana, Cuba, Nov. 4.—Dr. Alfredo Zayas, coalition candidate, has been elected president of Cuba. This is based on returns received by the government from three-fourths of the voting precincts, showing a majority of 10,000 over Jose Miguel Gomez, Liberal.

War Department reports showed eleven persons killed and eight wounded on election day, a record much below the average. The dead, as classified by parties, were five Coalition, one Liberal, four Neutralists and one Chinese. Four years ago forty-two presidents of election boards were killed. This time all men escaped attack.

Steinway Pianos

Piano Beauty

Steinway has been "the most beautiful piano in the world" every one of the seventy years since it was first produced in the city of New York. Its pre-eminent mark of beauty is a quality of tone that has never been approached in any other musical instrument—higher, yet deeper; louder, yet softer; tragic, yet most delicately playful—underlying richness, tenderness, solidity—a tone of individuality that can be produced only from the Steinway keyboard. This tone beauty remains with the Steinway because of the consistent beauty and permanence of its mechanism. The cases are gems of rare beauty wrought in woods that are seen only in cabinet work that passes from generation to generation along with jewels and plate of the family.

If you haven't received your copy of "Steinways of Today" we shall be glad to mail it at once.

Steinway pianos may be bought on monthly installments
