

COLLINGSWOOD PLANNING FOR WAR MEMORIAL WEEK

Will Erect Shaft to Men From Town Who Served in War

The committee arranging the collection of funds for a fitting memorial in Collingswood, N. J., to the soldiers and sailors, living and dead, who served in the world war from there, has designated the week beginning next Monday as "War Memorial Week" in the borough. During this period a house-to-house canvass will be made by town-folk who have volunteered to aid the plan. Six teams will make the drive, each led by a captain and made up of prominent men and women.

It is the idea to have all subscriptions and pledges in the hands of the committee by January 15, so that a contract can be awarded then to insure the completion of the memorial by the Decoration Day of next year. The memorial to the 300 service men and women from Collingswood will be a monument. This will be erected either in Knights Park, midway between East and West Collingswood, or on the high school plaza facing the park. It will contain the names of all who served in the war with a star after the name of each who died in the service. The committee appointed by Mayor Thomas W. Jack, president of the Collingswood Fire Co., which is fostering the project, is composed of Philip G. Kuebel, chairman; William Kuehn, A. J. Livingston, Harry J. Bels and Joseph Reinert. Harry W. Smith, treasurer of the fire company organization, is treasurer of the memorial committee.

FATHER PUNCHES ELOPER

Son-in-Law Told by Court He Invited Parents' Attack Recorder Stackhouse, in the Camden police court, justified the action of a father in punching the jaw of an unwelcome son-in-law, who eloped with his fourteen-year-old daughter. Lewis Mason, of 1430 Ferry avenue, was the undisciplined son-in-law who received the blow on the jaw. He caused the arrest of the father-in-law, William Metzger, forty-one, of 1138 South Fourth street. The recorder dismissed the charge and stated Mason invited the attack.
