

SEEK TO SAVE CITY JOB CLASSIFICATION

Civil Service Reform Body Asks Hearings on Griffenhagen Report

SEND LETTER TO WEGLEIN

The Civil Service Reform Association today announced its purpose to save from the scrap pile the Griffenhagen or Philadelphia classification of municipal jobs as it will hereafter be referred to.

A letter was addressed to Richard Weglein, president of Council, asking a public hearing before that body upon the classification report.

A brief is being prepared by the Civil Service Reform Association, said its secretary, Albert Smith Faught, which will contain arguments in support of the classification and will supplement the address of the association's representatives at the proposed councilmanic hearing.

The most recent issue of Citizen's Business, the weekly publication of the Bureau of Municipal Research, asked Council what it was going to do about the report which cost the city $25,000.

Council began consideration of the 1921 budget at a special session this afternoon. The Civil Service Commissioners have demanded a hearing at which they will present their recommendations of the classification recommendations in next year's budget.

An attack on the present listing of municipal jobs was made today by the Civil Service Reform Association which pointed out that city payrolls are enormous, clerks, stenographers and telephone operators under the menial title of miscellaneous helpers.

This department, according to the association, "in its budget statement made earnest efforts to follow the recommendations embodied in the Philadelphia classification report."

The salaries requested for 1921 for twelve principal tax clerks in the department of receiver of taxes range from $1800 to $2300, or through a range of 28 per cent. In 1920 their salaries for substantially the same services ranged from $1440 to $2300, or 63 per cent.

Under the principle of equal pay for equal service a variation from the lowest to the highest of 28 per cent is more equitable than one of 63 per cent.

The City Council can without difficulty obtain the budget estimates already prepared by various departments in accordance with the accurate and simplified titles contemplated by the new charter.

Flames Attack Furniture Warehouse Adjoining Home at 1418 Spruce Street

SERVANTS GUARD PAINTINGS

Many valuable paintings in the home of J. G. Cassatt, 1418 Spruce street, were threatened by fire last night, which did several thousand dollars worth of damage to the Knysner & Allman warehouse at 1416 Spruce street.

The fire began on the third floor of the warehouse. It was discovered by Mrs. G. S. Newlin, who conducts the Richelieu Apartments at 1414 Spruce street, when she heard the crackling of the flames, and, looking out a rear window, saw smoke issuing from the warehouse.

She ran to the street and had a patrolman summon fire companies. When they arrived the fire had gained much headway and for a time it threatened to communicate to the Cassatt home and the apartment house. Servants in the Cassatt home stood ready to remove the paintings.

The damage was confined to the warehouse, a suite of furniture on the first floor, which was valued at $2000, being badly damaged by water.
