Nancy Wynne Talks of the Dinner-Dance to Be Given for Miss Sullivan Tonight—She Chats About the Wurts Class, Too—Many Dinners to Be Given

ONE of the interesting affairs of the season will be the dinner-dance which the James Francis Sullivans will give tonight in honor of Elaine, who is their youngest daughter and a debutante of the year. Elaine is very pretty, fair, with lovely coloring and a very pretty manner. She has a particularly lovely smile and is very popular with the other girls.

The Sullivans were in deep mourning last year, so Elaine did not go to the younger set parties then, but before that she was a member of the Wurts class of the Saturday Evening. Her mother was Miss Lulu Nichols, of New York, a sister of the late Mrs. Henry Clegg and of Mrs. Charles Emory Smith, who several years ago her husband's death became a sister in a convent, where the members devote their lives to the care of those suffering from cancer.

Elaine is a sister of Frances and Livingston Sullivan. Her cousin John Nichols, of New York, married Delia Franklin several years ago. The Sullivans will move into town later in the winter and will have apartments at the Ritz-Carlton. They will give a dance for Elaine at that hotel on January 20.

Isn't it funny how many of us have got mixed about the opening night of the opera, and so I wish to get out my cloak and see to my long gloves and fasten my rocks generally for the opening night. Not that I could wear more than one frock, but that as it were, I did begin to prepare, and here yesterday I found a slightly queer in the head. Oh, yes, I insist only slightly, and that it won't be until November 30.

I suppose it was also because I knew that the foyer of the Academy is open on Tuesday and I had an idea that was in connection with the opera. As a matter of fact, the foyer is to be opened on Tuesday, and with a formal concert given by Mr. and Mrs. John F. Brady.

And have you heard that it is to be opened on opera nights that the guests may promenade there between the acts if they so desire? That's a wonderful idea, I think, for as I have said before, that is some room. Have you ever been to Versailles? If you have, you remember the salon of Marie Antoinette. Well, I'm not saying anything, but I believe you have something that will please your eye beyond anything and your aesthetic self as well.

The gavottes for the younger set have started, or rather will have started, tonight with the first meeting of Mrs. Wurts' dancing class. You know how the school set loves that class and what has the members have. Tonight the cotillon will be led by Charles Bache and Woodford Bankson. Mrs. Wurts has named a committee of boys to lead the cotillions through the season and to assist in running the dances. They include Stewart Valentine, Thomas Story Jenks, Richard Henry Reeves, Charles Bache, Woodford Bankson, Lloyd Henshaw, Thomas C. Foster and Mackell Ewing Brooke. There will be a lot of entertaining in connection with the class tonight. The Wurts Hopkings will give a dinner for the cotillon on Tuesday, and the Wells will entertain for their daughter Elizabeth, the Francis Strawbridge will give a dinner for Mary Strawbridge and Edith Henshaw, and the Henry Michells will entertain for their daughter Florence.

NANCY WYNNE.
