THE Plays and Players will have their forty-eighth club night tenight in the playrooms at 43 South Eightmenth street, and me, I'm going. Somehow, as I have variously and upon occasion said, I like said club and said club night, and usually I like said plays. But I cannot, of course, state at this moment that I am going to like to-

and it is one of the most brilliant events in Philadelphia's year.

This year it will be more beautiful than ever with the new foyer open and the renovated opera house. The Academy is a thing of beauty these days. It always was marvelous for acoustic properties. The Mormon temple leads in acoustic properties, La Beals Opera House in Milan is second on the list and the Academy of Music is third. And I hear that Mr. Stokowski says the acoustics in the foyer are as perfect as in the opera audiare as perfect as in the opera auditorium itself. Of course, one does not care about acoustics for a ball, but one does for opera. How glad I am I will not have to go way uptown any more, mays Nancy, snobbishly. . NANCY WYNNE.
