Schools That Translate Fragments of Time Into Power, Money and Manhood

The demand for the unskilled worker, so prevalent during the war period, has ceased. On the other hand, there is an unprecedented call for trained workers now in every sphere of activity. The schools on this page offer unusual opportunity to young people employed part of their time to obtain mental equipment and technical knowledge in qualifying for an honorable and lucrative position in life and to parents to invest in the development of their children. They will welcome you and help you. Consult the one that fits your needs and enroll at once, or communicate with the Public Ledger Educational Bureau.

The Maher Preparatory and Tutoring School

OFFICERS Francis J. McDonald, President, Board of Directors Dr. John F. Maher, Head Master Francis J. McDonald, Jr., Honorary Secretary

This Institution has purchased the building at 117 S. Thirty-seventh street, through the kindness of the President of its Board of Directors, Mr. Francis J. McDonald. Here the School will continue its old work on a much larger scale.

The morning sessions will be devoted to those giving their entire time to preparation for college.

The afternoon will be devoted to young men and women attending other schools and colleges and needing help in special branches.

The evening will be given to those employed during the day and wishing to fit themselves for entrance into higher spheres, such as Law, Public Accounting, Medicine, Dentistry and Pharmacy.

The building purchased is a three-story house, well-lighted and ideally located for a school of this character. It is within convenient distance of West Philadelphia Station and about fifteen minutes of City Hall by various trolleys. It will be remodeled with all the latest appliances for classroom work and lectures.

Expressions received by Public Ledger Service Bureau

It was my privilege as a boy to be tutored by Dr. Maher, and all through the years since I have felt grateful to him for what he did for me. No man has ever come into my life that exerted a greater influence upon me and was more potential in arousing in me the ambitions to make the most of my opportunities. Not only while I pursued my studies under his skillful and tactful direction but ever since he has been a genuine inspiration to me. No young people who feel the need of tutoring should be thankful for a school such as he is conducting. RALPH GETELMAN, M. D., 2011 Chestnut St.

It was my good fortune to be one of Dr. Maher's pupils during my college career and have always been grateful for it. As an instructor, I should describe his work as excellent; perhaps I can better express what is in my mind when I say that I received from him more than any student could expect from a tutor. After having been with him for a period, I passed my examinations at the University of Pennsylvania in a way as to surprise myself. Young people who need tutoring should be thankful for a school such as he is conducting. J. C. O'CALLAGHAN, 927 Chestnut St.

Before taking my course in Drew Theological Seminary it was my good fortune to be one of Dr. Maher's pupils. I cannot speak too highly of him as a man and an instructor. The time I spent with him made my future work much easier. I have always felt grateful to him for giving me a better grasp of any line of study I have since undertaken. His work as an instructor is of such a character that I feel that I would be conferring a special favor upon any young person whom I might influence to study under him. REV. CLARENCE FULTON, Pastor, Methodist Episcopal Church, Ridley Park, Pa.

Dr. Maher assisted me during my freshman year at the University of Pennsylvania in mathematics as tutor. I always feel grateful to him for enabling me to pass unconditionally into the Sophomore Class, College 1-78. His method of teaching obliged a student to grasp the requirements of a problem in such a way as to enable him to solve it. J. BERTRAM LIPPSCOTT, Sixth Street below Walnut.

I consider Dr. Maher thoroughly equipped intellectually to do the work of tutoring in all academic studies and also in law. As a pupil of his he helped me to pass my examinations in a way that was a great satisfaction to me. My relations with him were so cordial and delightful and the results wrought by his skill as an instructor so satisfactory, that I have always felt deeply indebted to him. I wish him the success in his future work which he so richly deserves. JAMES F. HOYLAN, Attorney, Land Title Bldg.

Dr. Maher tutored me in Constitutional Law, which enabled me to pass final examination for admission to the bar satisfactorily. I consider him competent and capable as an instructor and feel assured that the venture that he is about to embark upon will be successful in every particular. THOMAS F. MCNICOL, Judge, Municipal Court.

YOUR OPPORTUNITIES for success do not come by chance, nor by good luck. You grow into them and they become yours because you fit into the job and use them.

You get the job not because you need it, but because the job needs you. If you have stopped growing, your opportunities for advancement in your present position have stopped also. In fact, they are dead, and so are you. But you need not be a dead one. Your spare time—an hour here, a half hour there, your evenings used intelligently, used to increase your power to do, always used to make yourself more valuable in your own work—will, without fail, increase your opportunities for success—and an opportunity used is success. There is no chance about it.

Our Evening Class can be of great service to you in helping you to develop into bigger things. Our course includes all the preparatory work in languages, mathematics, history and science needed for college entrance, the professional schools and the State Board exams. Also bookkeeping, typewriting, shorthand and mechanical drawing. Some of these are exactly what you need.

Plan to be big. Build to be strong. Think what you would like to be ten years from now, then build to make that success real. Begin now.

A NUMBER OF OTHER SCHOOLS ARE SENDING THEIR GRADUATES TO US TO TAKE POST-GRADUATE WORK

Our instructors are picked men, endorsed by leading manufacturers. An inspection of our shops and classrooms will give you a clearer idea of the work you must cover than two weeks' instruction at any other school in Philadelphia. You owe it to yourself to visit the school if you consider taking up this work.

Things to Think About in Deciding to Enroll

More than 100 satisfied students now in our day classes and over 200 in our night classes. Successful graduates now employed in most of the city's largest shops and many have their own business. We are anxious to have you ask one of our graduates concerning the school before enrolling. We teach Auto Mechanical repairing on all types of cars. Also automobile electrical starting, lighting and ignition repair. We also teach auto-driving on cars equipped with double control. Our mechanical repair course covers all types of cars and units. In our motor room we have Cadillac, Chalmers, Silent Knight, Hudson, Buick, Maxwell, Oldsmobile, Studebaker and other well-known makes of engines. These are assembled complete from the crankcase, every part fitted, the valves timed, the magneto installed, wired and timed, and the engine tested under its own power.

Read This Letter and Investigate

370 West 118th St., New York, N. Y. October 5, 1920. Mr. Hugh Quigley, The Quigley Institute, 1727 Master St., Philadelphia, Pa.

My Dear Mr. Quigley: It is with the greatest of pleasure that I am writing you this letter, as it is inspired by a feeling of the deepest gratitude for what you have done for me. A chronic stammerer for 23 years, I had had all hope of ever overcoming this handicap. I had tried another institution and they had failed. To my surprise and delight I was able to talk straight, from the day you gave me my first instructions. You worked wonders with me. You cannot cure the Italian person who expects you to work some great miracle and instantly cure him of his speech defect, but you absolutely can cure the person who comes to you with the earnest desire to be cured and follows your instructions. I cannot recommend your Institute too highly. I wish it were in my power to inform every stammerer in the world concerning the wonders that you perform. You will cure the person who wishes to be cured. With sincerest good wishes for your future success and to your magnificent work, I remain, Gratefully yours, J. A. FLEITZER.
