SHIP PROBERS HEAR OF DOWNEY NOTES

Bank Cashiers Tell of Papers Amounting to Nearly $21,000

RECALL BOLLING ACCUSER

By the Associated Press

New York, Nov. 26.—Tucker A. Sands, a former Washington bank official, who last week testified that R. W. Bolling, brother-in-law of President Wilson, and Wallace Downey, president of the Downey Shipbuilding Co., were implicated in an alleged transaction involving payment of $10,000 by the shipbuilding company to obtain shipping board contracts, was recalled to the witness chair before the Walsh committee today.

Prior to his testimony today, Edward S. Malmar, cashier of the Corn Exchange Bank here, and Jacob Norman, assistant cashier of the Hanover National Bank, at Washington, testified to seeing notes signed by Downey, which had been received by their institutions.

Malmar said his bank had received two notes, one on September 16, 1918, for $10,380, and the other on March 17, 1919, for $10,600, both signed by Downey. The witness did not state to whom the notes were payable. He said that he had not been questioned regarding them by any department of the government or the shipping board.

Norman testified that the bank received for collection two notes signed by Downey, one for $10,000 from the Tacoma Park Bank, in September, 1919, and the other for $10,000, which was finally paid after it had been protested. The total amount of the second note, Norman said in the end, amounted to $10,605 including interest.

Bolling and Downey were summoned here and are expected to testify this afternoon at the hearings which are being held in lieu of a more formal practices of the shipping board. Both had expressed a desire for the opportunity to refute Sands' allegations. William R. Bowen, counsel to the Emergency Fleet Corporation, also is expected to give his testimony today.

SEE U. S. REJECTION OF ARMENIA PLEA

League Does Not Expect America to Agree to Act as Mediator

FRANCE LIKELY TO ACCEPT

By the Associated Press

Geneva, Nov. 26.—The attitude among delegates of the assembly of the League of Nations toward the appeal of the league to President Wilson to act as mediator in the Armenian situation appears to be one of hope without expectation that the United States will relieve Europe and the league of an embarrassing question.

Behind the admitted necessity of doing something for Armenia there is a conflict of European interests involved. Great Britain, it is understood, would look with great disfavor on intervention by any power having rival interests. Action by the United States in Armenia, it is held, would involve no such complications.

In default of action by President Wilson, general opinion here is that France is the country most likely to offer favorable reply to the mediation appeal made by the council of the league yesterday to the various powers to forward this message to President Wilson was sent. Acceptance by France, however, it is understood, would be on condition of full support by the other powers.

The Council of the league today overruled the British objections to the provision by which countries not holding mandates from the league for the administration for the colonial possessions of enemy powers or other territories to be administered under mandates, are to have a majority on the permanent mandates commission. The Council ratified the decision taken at the Brussels meeting providing for a commission of nine, four of which shall be the representatives of nonmandatory nations.

The activities of the assembly have been transferred for the time being from the Hall of the Reformation, where the first sessions of the body have been held, to the headquarters of the secretariat. Here the committee and subcommittees of the assembly will continue their labors until Tuesday next, when the assembly will reconvene, hear the first reports of the committees and take up the question of George Nicol Barnes, of Great Britain, asking the council to explain why it did not intervene to prevent the clash between the Poles and Bolsheviki last summer.

Committee number six of the assembly has finally settled upon the principle of its report on disarmament, the French viewpoint prevailing. The recommendation will be that disarmament be imposed only with due regard for the security of the different states.

While a subcommittee is drawing up this report the committee is taking up the question of an economic blockade as an arm of the league against offending nations.

Washington, Nov. 26.—(By A. P.)—President Wilson received today the report of the League of Nations council on the Armenian situation. The message reached the White House last night from Geneva and was delivered to the President this morning.

Mr. Wilson already has consented to the humanitarian aims of Armenia, but there was no information at the White House as to his views on the subject of mediation.

SIGN SMASHERS CAUGHT

Garish Billboards Not Wrecked for Art's Sake, but for Money

New York, Nov. 26.—Gotham's militant authority, after cutting a garish billboard on Broadway last Friday night, cancelled the wrecking job in Flatbush, one famous as yesterday. Four of them, bearing pistols held off six detectives who had stood guard over the billboards since the first attack, while confederates hacked and sawed at the supports of commercial monstrosities.

When the demolition job was done there were two men and two cars. The others fled in automobiles. One of the two captives, who had been here on "strenuous" duties advertising, was a chauffeur; the other a laborer. It was not the latter's skin they slaughtered the signboard, but on a promise of "easy money" they told the police.

DETECTIVES CAPTURE MAN AFTER BATTLE ON ROOF

Prisoner Is Subdued With Blackjack and Charged With Theft

After a desperate fight on the roof of a house near Nineteenth and Federal streets, two detectives captured a Negro who was charged with stealing a manicure set from a drug store. It was also alleged he had attempted to pass a counterfeit bill.

The prisoner, who gave his name as Claude Filmore, twenty-nine years old, 2001 Jefferson stret, is alleged to have entered the drug store of Charles and William Graff at the northwest corner of Twentieth and Dickinson streets, where the police say he presented a $2 bill that had been raised to $20. William Graff questioned the Negro, who, it is said, made a break for the door.

As he left, the police say, he grabbed a manicure set. Closely pursued by Graff, he sped along to Federal street, where the pursuit was taken up by Detectives Hagan and Dalzer, of the Twentieth and Federal streets station.

Near Nineteenth and Federal streets, the fugitive, it is said, darted into a house and ran to the roof, closely pursued by the detectives. Here a fierce battle ensued, in which the detectives were forced to resort to their blackjacks before the Negro would submit to arrest.

Magistrate Dougherty held Filmore in $1000 bail for court, on a charge of stealing the manicure set which was found, the police say, in a garbage can.

JAZZ FOR HARDING

"S O S" From Ship Interpreted to Mean "Send Out Saxaphones"

President-elect Harding's ship, the Parisienna, sent out a wireless message stating that she was in distress.

The message was relayed from place to place and finally landed in this city yesterday. It reda, "S O S" and was interpreted readily enough as meaning "Send out saxophones."

Whether the President-elect prefers local jazz music or whether he could not make enough noise to suit himself with his tuba is the question. At any rate the message was addressed to Myer Davis, musical director of the Bellevue-Stratford, and already five experts of syncopation are on their way to put an end to the President-elect's distress.

They will meet the ship on its return voyage at a southern port. The five men who will supply the music for the next President on his trip are all well-known musicians in this city. They are: Samuel Kornman, W. Spencer Tupman, Anthony Luizzi, Jules Landé and S. Szambothy.

RUSSIAN EXILE RETURNS

Dr. William Fetler Heads Missionaries to Home Country

Dr. William Fetler, banished from Russia five years ago because he taught the doctrines of the Baptist faith, left Philadelphia at noon today with twenty-six missionaries, to take up the mission work in his native country.

He came to Philadelphia three years ago and founded the Russian Mission Bible Institute. The twenty-six missionaries who left with him today to sail tomorrow on the Olympic from New York city are graduates of this institute.

Most of the missionaries are Russians, although there are several Americans. Among these are Miss Maud Cooly, of Chicago, who was a Red Cross worker in France during the war, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Craighead, also of Chicago. The missionaries will be gone at least five years. If they are unable to enter Russia immediately, they will work among Russian refugees in France, England and Germany.

N. J. FIGHTS 10-CENT FARE

League of Municipalities to Combat Trolley Companies

Trenton, Nov. 26.—(By A. P.)—A state-wide fight in New Jersey against ten-cent trolley fares is indicated by the filing with the state Public Utility Commission here a request by the Trenton and Mercer County Traction Co., serving Trenton and vicinity, for an increase in trolley fares from seven to ten cents, and a reported move by the Public Service Railway Co., operating in North Jersey and as far south as Camden, for a similar increase.

Mayor Connelly, of this city, said he would have an immediate conference called of the New Jersey State League of Municipalities with the view of obtaining the best legal talent procurable to combat the proposed increase.

HUNT FOR ROBBERS OF CHANDLER HOME

Gems and Family Heirlooms Worth $800 Taken Away in Truck

DOG PREVENTS A BURGLARY

Motortruck robbers are being sought today by Special Detectives Maloney and Nolan, of the Fifteenth and Locust streets station, for the robbery of the George Edward Chandler home, at 1728 Rittenhouse street, Tuesday night.

William Y. Duncan, of 2228 Pine street, a watchman, scared the men away after they had packed many household furnishings and objects of art preparatory to hauling them away.

The robbers obtained jewelry valued at $800.

Mr. and Mrs. Chandler were visiting at Hot Springs, Va., when they received a telegram notifying them of the robbery. They had gone to Hot Springs Tuesday. On learning of the robbery they returned immediately to this city.

Recently, Mrs. Chandler had sent her silverware and many rare art objects to a safety vault. She withdrew some of her jewelry, including several treasured heirlooms, believing she might have use for the gems on the trip to Virginia.

At the last minute, Mrs. Chandler decided not to take the jewels with her and hid them in her home.

"Bubbles," a dog, scared robbers off after they had almost succeeded in drilling a hole through the floor leading to Wenger's fur shop, 1211 Walnut street, Tuesday night, police learned today.

The robbers were in a closet on the first floor of the Walnut street building and were drilling their way into the fur shop when the dog's barks attracted Mrs. Elizabeth Cassidy, the janitress, who lives on the third floor of the building.

She came down the stairs in time to see two men run from the building. In their haste, the men abandoned a kit of burglar's tools. The police say the men had pawned to drill their way through the floor of the closet, and then saw their way up through the floor of the basement.

GRUNDY AND CROW HERE

Political Opponents Almost Meet at Bellevue-Stratford

Persons interested in state politics were somewhat excited by the appearance this morning of Joseph R. Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, at the Bellevue-Stratford, where Senator William E. Crow, Republican state chairman, is stopping.

A conference between the two men, who are at odds over the question of the speakership of the next state Legislature, seemed possible and various hopes of harmony and lying for were expected by those who saw the two men under the same roof.

Nothing happened, however, and the men did not meet.

Governor Sproul is expected in the city later in the day to confer with Senator Crow.

James McNelly, thirty-two years old, was struck by an automobile and had his skull fractured last night as he crossed Spring Garden street near Eleventh, at 10 o'clock. He is in a critical condition at the Hahnemann Hospital.

Police have no clue to the identity of the automobilist, who drove away quickly after the accident, and left the injured man lying in the street. They have not located any one who saw the accident.

Philadelphia is to be one of the Atlantic coast seaports to be visited by the "Floating Fair," now being organized at The Hague. It is not expected that the vessel housing the "Floating Fair" will reach this country before spring.

The commercial attache at The Hague has forwarded to this country the following details:

"The steamer Macedonia, a four-deck passenger ship, 6100 tons, will be rebuilt into an exhibition ship.

"The aim is to call during the first voyage at all the principal harbors on the east coast of North and South America, and in every harbor there will be an industrial fair lasting at least ten days."

BOY FALLS FROM AUTO

Police Hold Driver to Await Outcome of Victim's Injuries

Tumbling from the running board of an automobile last night as the machine was passing Broad and Dickinson streets, Vincent Marconi, eight years, of 1440 Dickinson street, suffered severe lacerations of the face which necessitated treatment at St. Agnes' Hospital.

The driver of the car, Dickson Kresge, 601 North Thirty-second stret, lifted the child into his machine and drove to the hospital. Later he gave himself up to the police of the Fifteenth street and Snyder avenue station. It was said that the child had asked permission to ride. Kresge was held to await the result of Marconi's injuries.

JUVENILE DISEASES SHOW BIG INCREASE

More Than 5000 Cases of Scarlet Fever and Diphtheria Reported This Year

PARENTS GET WARNING

Outbreaks of scarlet fever and diphtheria, which occurred several weeks ago and have continued to increase in number since then, have assumed such proportions as to cause the health authorities to arouse public interest, particularly of parents and school teachers, in the effort to stay the spread of the two diseases. In the first ten months of the present year 2898 cases of scarlet fever and 2559 cases of diphtheria were reported. At the present rate of reporting, scarlet fever rapidly is approaching epidemic form.

During last year 2858 cases of scarlet fever were reported, as compared with 1348 in 1918, and 3762 cases of diphtheria, an increase of 1286, over the previous year. That was the largest number of cases of these diseases returned for a number of years.

"Parents are cautioned particularly," says Dr. C. Lincoln Furbush, director of the Department of Health, "to look upon trivial complaints among children at the present time with suspicion, and to call the family physician at the first sign of illness. The symptoms of scarlet fever at the present time are so mild as easily to escape attention of parents. It is because the symptoms are so mild, and children with slight sore throats, croupy coughs and running noses are permitted to attend school and to mingle with others in moving-picture houses and dancing classes, that the spread of the disease is making such rapid progress. Every mother and school teacher should look upon sore throats among children with suspicion, because that is an early sign of both diphtheria and scarlet fever. Diphtheria also may have as its initial symptom a croupy cought, or coryza. Scarlet fever, on the other hand, has as its early manifestations, fever, vomiting, sore throat and the appearance of a rash upon the body, and in many cases during the present period, children show the mildest form of symptoms."
