

SCHAFFER URGES STATE PROHIBITION

Attorney General Says U. S. Dry Law Will Fail Without Commonwealth's Aid

WOULD REPEAL BROOKS ACT

The repeal of the Brooks high license law and the enactment of a state law making it a crime to sell liquor were advocated today by William I. Schaffer, attorney general of Pennsylvania, in an address before a meeting of representatives of many women's organizations at the Civic Club, 1300 Spruce street. The attorney general explained the physical impossibility of combating the liquor business with the small federal forces now allowed and urged independent state action along the same lines.

"There are three things which should be done here," Mr. Schaffer said. "First, make it a crime to sell liquor containing more than one-half of 1 per cent alcohol, and provide that the state can prosecute."

"Second, repeal the Brooks high license law."

"Third, grant no licenses at all for the sale of alcoholic beverages."

"Certain parts of Pennsylvania are awash with liquor. There are notorious, flagrant violations of the law. Many people save their consciences by the claim that their licenses under the Brooks law entitle them to sell. But if you take away these licenses you should provide a refund so that these people will not feel that it is an injustice."

"I am not in favor of state legislation so elaborate as the Volstead act. I am also opposed to a simple endorsement or re-enforcement of that act. Our plan should be independent."

"There must be some provision so that any place where liquor is sold can be proceeded against in a civil suit, so that we can enjoin the proprietor and the place. Then, if liquor is sold, the proprietor would put himself in contempt of court."

"The women of the state should organize for the adoption of such a law. If you will do that, you will be upheld by the better element among the men."

"With only three federal courts and five federal judges to handle this immense problem in Pennsylvania, you can see what a herculean task they have and how necessary it is that the state take some action if prohibition is really to mean anything."

Besides representatives from women's clubs in the city and surrounding counties, the meeting included women from the Y. W. C. A., the W. C. T. U., the women's Republican committee, and the League of Women Voters. A resolution was adopted endorsing the eighteenth amendment.

BOK FOR CHRISTMAS AID

Sends No Presents, but Gives Money for Europe's Children

Edward Bok's friends will receive as Christmas remembrances from him this year the following card:

"Instead of sending you a Christmas gift this year I am giving its money equivalent to Mr. Herbert Hoover to send to the starving and clothesless children of Europe. Won't you kindly do the same if you have it in mind, as in previous years, to send me a gift, and make my Christmas a day of real happiness?"

He points out that Mr. Hoover will soon start in this city a campaign for Philadelphia's share of $25,000 for children of central Europe and the Balkans.

For $10 Mr. Hoover takes care of a child all winter. Mr. Bok points out, and asks if $10 could be spent on a better Christmas present.

Children to Debate Mitten Plan

An interesting feature of the annual meeting of the Germantown and Chestnut Hill Improvement Association next Friday in the auditorium of the Germantown High School will be a debate by boys and girls students on the question, "Resolved, that Mr. Mitten's plan for a universal five-cent fare without transfers or exchanges is better for the public than the present plan."

A short business session will precede the address, at which time officers of the association will be elected.

Wills Probated Today

The Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church in America benefits by the will of Dr. William Erwin, whose home was at 4840 Cedar avenue. The estate is valued at $18,000. One-third is left to the widow, Kate W. Erwin, and the residue is held in trust for the benefit of the religious organization. Other wills filed were those of Henry J. Fisher, 225 South Fourth street, disposing of a $25,000 estate, and of Catharine Dowling, 5033 Woodland avenue, disposing of a $7500 estate. An inventory of the personality of Catharine A. Gales, totalling $10,080.25. Letters of administration have been granted in the estate of Jacob Winepot, of 647 South street. This estate is valued at $5000.

ARMSTRONG HADDEN DIES

Manufacturers' Agent Victim of Blood Poisoning After Scratch

Armstrong Hadden, widely known as a manufacturers' agent, died early yesterday morning in the Orthopedic Hospital from the effects of blood poisoning. Mr. Hadden lived at 5108 Springfield avenue. A month ago he went to his cottage at Stray Beach, N. J., to pass a week-end. While walking along the beach he stumbled and fell. As he sprawled on the sand, his hand came in contact with a clump of grass stubble and he was scratched slightly. A short time later blood poisoning developed. Four specialists who were called on the case said that Mr. Hadden's condition was caused by an unknown germ of the most destructive type.

Mr. Hadden was forty-eight years old and was a native of Uniontown, Pa. For the last thirteen years he represented the Royal Worcester Corset Co. in Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and Washington, D. C.

Mr. Hadden was a member of the Fourth Presbyterian Church. He also was a member of Delta Lodge, F. and A. M., of Wilkes Barre; Wilkesburg Chapter, No. 253, of Wilkesburg; Mary Convent, Knights Templar of Philadelphia; Syria Temple of the Mystical Shrine of Pittsburgh; the Pittsburgh Consistory, the Manufacturers' Club in this city and the Pennsylvania Corset Club, of which he was president in 1919.

Mr. Hadden leaves his widow, one daughter, Miss Louise B. Hadden, and two sons, Armstrong Hadden, Jr., and William H. Hadden; his father, Thomas Hadden, of Uniontown; two sisters, Miss Mary H. Hadden and Miss Helen Hadden, and a brother, Edgar Hadden.

The funeral will take place Tuesday. Burial will be private in the Westminster Cemetery.

Largest Old Book Store in America

A Great Sale of Books

Starts Tomorrow Tuesday Morning

Last December we thought we had reached the peak in offering the largest quantity and choicest selection of books in the history of our store. But we are still climbing! This year we have exceeded last year's record by thousands of volumes and hundreds of transactions. It has been impossible to display these books until now, but beginning tomorrow, Tuesday, November 30th, after weeks of preparation, we are going to show, on temporary tables, as many as we can at one time of the greatest collection of books any bookseller has ever had the good fortune to secure. There are more well-known private libraries in the lot than we have ever had. Many of these are large collections—the hobbies of their late owners, who spent many delightful hours and a great deal of money in the collecting. A few of these, purchased from the Executors of the Estates, are:

Judge Charles B. Staples, Stroudsburg, Pa.

Dr. Emery Marvel, Atlantic City, N. J.

William S. Lloyd, Germantown, Philadelphia

Col. Charles E. Hasbrook, Editor and Publisher, Times-Dispatch, Richmond, Virginia

Frederick Charles Todd, Garrison, Maryland

The library from Richmond alone required 43 large packing boxes to ship to us. And remember—these are only a few of the many hundreds of our purchases during the past year, purchases ranging from a few volumes to thousands. The showing will be particularly rich in Sets of Standard Authors, in both attractive cloth and handsome leather bindings; also Americana, Biography, Travels, History, Poetry, etc., including an especially choice collection of Extra Illustrated Books.

Don't forget, we can show only a portion of this collection each day. But as sales make space, the tables will be replenished from the reserve stock. It will take at least two weeks, we estimate, to display all of this truly remarkable gathering of books. We advise and invite you to drop in every day while the stock lasts, if you wish to get a correct idea of the character of the gathering. Everybody will be welcome. So come in and enjoy the books at your leisure, whether you buy many, few or none at all.

Tomorrow Tuesday, November 30th Store Hours, 9 A. M. to 5:30 P. M. Leary's Book Store Ninth Street below Market (Opposite Postoffice)
