

FROM HERE NAMED IN DRUG CHARGE

Dr. Crafts Says Powers-Weightman-Rosengarten Sent Morphine to Far East

DENIAL BY COMPANY

Washington, Dec. 1.—Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts, superintendent of the International Reform Bureau, which is seeking legislation to prohibit the export of morphine and other derivatives of opium to the Far East, today named the Powers-Weightman-Rosengarten Co., of Philadelphia and New York, as one of the principal exporters of this drug from the United States.

He declared that the drug reaches China through Japan in violation of the American-Chinese treaty agreement, and that British and American smugglers, in collusion with the Japanese, are shipping opiates into China "by the ton."

Dr. Crafts displayed a copy of a memorandum on this subject presented to the American congressional delegation which visited the Far East last summer by the directors of the International Anti-Opium Association in Peking. The directors are all British or Americans located in Peking.

The memorandum asserts that many tons of morphine are being shipped annually and that the Powers-Weightman-Rosengarten Co. is one of the principal exporters from this country.

According to the Peking committee, the boxes of morphine reaching China are labeled with the firm's name. It was not charged that they were shipped to China directly, as evidence was presented that the opiates are first sent to Japanese, frequently transhipped to Osaka, Japan, their original destination.

Dr. Crafts said that he had asked "several Philadelphians" to protest to the company named against the practice of sending opiates to China, but that they refused to do so. From other sources it was learned that two of those with whom he had communicated are Dr. Homer W. Tappan and Dr. Howard C. Stanton, the latter secretary of the Presbyterian Missionary Association of Philadelphia.

Representatives of the reform bureau, who will meet here December 9, inclusive, will ask amendments to the Harrison drug act to prevent the shipment of morphine from and through the United States, and even though this prohibition makes it impossible for England to ship it through this country, and prevents morphine from going to Japan from the United States.

"I am deliberately convinced that the Japanese are encouraging the use of morphine in China for two purposes: First, for profit and revenue, and second, to keep China parts of the world. I have been a defender of Japan for a long time, but I haven't the slightest doubt that the shrewd, crafty Japanese see that this is the way to keep the powerful giant China so weak she can work her will with her."

"Japan is regarded by missionaries as the Prussia of the East—the Hun of the Orient. This is the opinion of the kindly, Christian missionaries who have a hatred for nothing but the wrong."

Answer by Mr. Rosengarten

Frederick Rosengarten, of the Powers, Weightman, Rosengarten firm, made this statement today.

The act of January 17, 1914, controlled the exportation of narcotics by the federal government, and all exports that we have made to any destination have been made under government control. We have made no sales or shipments to China.

As the Japanese laws dealing with narcotics were not of a satisfactory character to our government all exports were terminated to that destination April 30, 1920, under a joint regulation issued by the secretary of treasury, and the secretary of commerce.

"We have made no exports to Japan since the business was terminated by the above regulation.

"In view of the statements appearing in the press we wish at this time to say that we are in complete sympathy with the movement to confine narcotic drugs to their legitimate uses, we manufacture them for medicinal purposes and sell in wholesale quantities only."

As the day wears on the list of state executives and executives-to-be will be augmented and before the conference closes its deliberations the number of executives—Miss C. Hiley, of Madison, Wis., secretary of the conference, says will be swelled to twenty-six, just a few more than half of the number originally scheduled to come.

Harrisburg, accustomed to the reception of gatherings of notables, has put on a few frills to bear out Governor Spraul's promise of "plain Pennsylvania hospitality."

Station Decorated

For the first time in the memory of the oldest inhabitant, the Pennsylvania Railroad decked its station with flags and bunting, and in the magnificent structure which houses the seat of Pennsylvania's government, the "Governor and per foot" furniture and chandeliers have been cleaned and polished until they shine and glitter like the beveled mirrors, symbolic of days past when the governor of North Carolina could speak to the governor of South Carolina without taking the precaution of ascertaining whether a enforcement officer was in hearing distance.

Numerous around the depot were the uniformed staff officers, booted and spurred and all ready to ride a horse if a comfortable taxi cab were not convenient. The clank of their swords and the clink of their spurs added a military note to the impending function.

Governor James M. Cox, of Ohio, is not going to be here and in his absence Governor Coolidge, the next Vice President, is the one to be attended. Second only to Governor Coolidge is Governor Allen, of Kansas.

OMAN OF 88 HURT IN FALL

Mistaking the head of a staircase for an entrance to her room in the dark, Mary Bowers, eighty-eight years old, fell from the top of the stairs at the corner of Mechanic street near Stenton avenue, Germantown, last night and plunged down an entire flight of stairs and was found unconscious by relatives some time later. She was removed in a passing automobile to the Germantown hospital, where it was said she would probably die as the result of a fractured skull and internal injuries.

GENERAL NIVELLE IS WELCOMED HERE

"Hero of Verdun" Declares Friendship Between Countries Is Kind That Binds

IS GREETED BY MAYOR

General Robert Georges Nivelle, the "hero of Verdun," was given a warm welcome on his arrival in Philadelphia today. And the "hero of Verdun" feeling just as kindly toward Americans as Americans feel toward him.

"The friendship between my country and your country, extending over just three centuries, too strongly founded, too firmly rooted, ever to be destroyed," he declared in response to a welcome given him by Mayor Moore.

"History shows that Lafayette—and France—came to the aid of your United States. And history shows how your country, and your men, responded when France was menaced. We will never forget," he continued.

The famous Frenchman arrived in Broad street at 11 o'clock, and was greeted by a large crowd. He was met by Director Lincoln C. Furbush and Director Ernest Tuttle, as the official representatives of Mayor Moore; by M. and Mile. Maurice Caillard, French consul, by Clifford Fincham, and by representatives of the Huguenot Society of America, the French Alliance and the American Legion. General Nivelle was accompanied by Colonel Paul Wass.

Speaks in Two Languages

Today marks the third annual pilgrimage to this city of the Huguenot Society, and it was planned that General Nivelle should be the guest of honor in conjunction with this pilgrimage.

The party proceeded immediately to City Hall, where General Nivelle was welcomed to the city by Mayor Moore, who emphasized the part France and Frenchmen have played in the history of the nation and the city. General Nivelle responded in his reply in French and then in English.

Included in the receiving party at City Hall, with the city officials and guests, were Mrs. Moore, wife of the mayor, Mrs. Rudolph Blankenburg, widow of Dr. Max Blankenburg, Mrs. Cornelius Stevenson and Mrs. J. Willis Martin.

Visits Liberty Bell

Leaving the Mayor's office, after the reception, the party went to Independence Hall, where General Nivelle paused reverently before the Liberty Bell, and sat for a moment in the chair at the table at which the Declaration of Independence was signed.

A brief stop was made in Christ Church, Fifth and Arch streets, where General Nivelle paused for a moment by the graveside of Benjamin Franklin. The party then motored to Fairmount Park. When they arrived at the statue of John of Arc the rain was falling in torrents and General Nivelle did not leave his car. From Fairmount Park the party started for Valley Forge, the shrine of American liberty.

A formal reception was tendered General Nivelle at the Washington Memorial chapel, after which the party had luncheon at the Martha Washington hotel.

Later today General Nivelle will be received by the Huguenot cross at the French Protestant Church of St. Sauveur, Twenty-second and De Lancey streets. Addresses there will be made by General Nivelle and the Rev. William Elliott Griffin. The subject of Dr. Griffin's address will be "The Pilgrims, the Walloons and the Huguenots."

A reception and supper at the Heidelberg Reformed Church, Nineteenth and Oxford streets, will take place at 8 o'clock. This part of the entertainment is under the auspices of the Social Club of the Reformed church, Philadelphia. Addresses will be given by the Rev. K. James I. Good, of Dayton, O., and General Nivelle.

General Nivelle is in the United States as the representative of the French cabinet and the French Protestant Church in the tercentenary Pilgrim celebration. He won the title of "hero of Verdun" in the battle of Verdun, the French offensive in 1917 after General Joffre's retirement.

MAN PURSUES MEDIA GIRLS

Nurses at Hospital Armed Against Mysterious Stranger

Media, Pa., Dec. 1.—The police are looking for a well-dressed man with an automobile, who has been terrorizing girls of the county seat for the last two nights and also has tried on both nights to enter the Media Hospital. Miss Maud Murphy and the other nurses at the hospital are not the least frightened, because Miss Murphy, who is quite a markswoman, has supplied herself with a large caliber revolver, as has Nicola Sacarita, a patient at the hospital and a former service man.

While Miss Nellie Caballero and Miss Sarah Nolan were returning to their homes on East State street at night they were attacked and chased by a man who jumped from behind a standing automobile. The man wore a long coat and a black cap and followed the girls to within twenty yards of their homes. A few moments later Miss Jessie Campbell, of East Third street, was chased by the same man after he had alighted from a Media Short Line trolley car. She had a glimpse of the man's face and believes she can identify him if he is caught.

MASON MATERIAL DEALERS HAD PACT

Up to 1919 Association Members Traded Only With Each Other

COMPELLED BY A BY-LAW

By the Associated Press

New York, Dec. 1.—The legislative committee investigating the "building trust" today resumed its inquiry into the activities of the association of dealers in masonry building materials.

Sidney Treat, secretary of the association, who testified yesterday, was questioned regarding the New York Lumber Trade Association, of which he was a former secretary. He said the association had a membership of 150 lumber dealers and had its headquarters in the same building with the Dealers' Association and Builders' Supply Bureau.

Before the hearing opened, Samuel Untermyer, committee counsel, announced he had arranged with Supreme Court Justice Hotchkiss to have the date of argument on the injunction restraining the committee from impounding the records of the Builders' Supply Bureau changed to late today. Unless the court vacates the injunction the committee's investigation of the bureau will be blocked.

Under cross-examination Treat testified to sell only to the dealers in the association, and took the matter to the provision that member dealers in masonry supplies agree to buy their materials from member manufacturers of brick, Rosendale cement, Portland cement, lime, lath and plaster. Under the provision the manufacturers also agreed to sell only to the dealers in the association. Members of the association who violated the by-laws were liable to fines or expulsion.

The witness was dismissed as a witness he attempted to take the documents and records with him, but was prevented from doing so by Mr. Untermyer, who said the documents "were in evidence."

SHIP "BRIBE" TALE DENIED BY CRANOR

Downey Company Official Disclaims Knowledge of Division of $40,000 Fund

PAID SANDS FOR CREDIT

By the Associated Press

New York, Dec. 1.—John Cranor, assistant to the head of the Wallace Downey Shipbuilding Corporation, today denied allegations of Tucker K. Sands, former Washington banker, before the congressional committee investigating shipping board affairs, that he loaned $40,000 "bribe" fund for procuring contracts of the board, in connection with which the name of R. W. Holling, shipping board treasurer and brother-in-law of President Wilson, had been mentioned.

He also denied that he had entered into any arrangement with Sands whereby Holling or Lester Slater, secretary of the board, were to assist in procuring a contract for the Downey Co. or the Providence Engineering Corporation, a subsidiary.

Cranor testified that while he was in Washington the Providence company was endeavoring to procure a contract for the construction of ten tugboats and that he learned the financial standing of the concern was "not satisfactory to the credit department of the shipping board."

Cranor said that after he had informed Mr. Downey of this he was sent to Washington to arrange a credit for the Providence Co. and took the matter to Sands, who then was vice president and cashier of a Washington bank. This institution, the Commercial National Bank, through Sands, then issued a credit letter to the shipping board for $125,000 to the shipping board for the Providence Engineering Corporation.

The witness said he had agreed to pay Sands $40,000 for arranging this credit, adding:

"Sands wanted 2 per cent of the entire contract price, which would have been about $7,000, but I cut it down to $40,000."

Mr. Downey and Sands eventually settled the payment, Cranor said. In reply to a question Cranor said he did not think $40,000 an excessive fee to pay for Sands' services in the credit arrangement, explaining that the entire contract amounted to more than $2,000,000 and pointing to the alleged fact that Mr. Downey eventually settled with Sands for $25,000, or about 1 per cent, which was about as cheaply as he could expect to do it.
