Committee to See Supt. Mills to Prevent Congestion That Marked Opening Night

CALL BOARD SUGGESTED

The executive committee of the Acad-my of Music Opera Corporation will neet Superintendent of Police Mills to-norrow in an effort to find some sat-sfactory solution of the traffic condons which caused the prolonged tie-up n Broad street after the opera last committee, which is headed Charlton Yarnall, includes Edward Bok. Samuels S. Fels, Harry Jordan, W. Sinkle Smith and William J. Turner. Hinkle Smith and William J. Turner.

The committee, which recently requested of Superintendent Mills that Broad street, in the immediate vicinity of the Academy of Music, be turned ever to the use of opera patrons at the hour when the performances are over, feels that some steps should be taken to avoid a repetition of the congestion and delay of last night.

Superintendent Mills said today that as far as his force was concerned, last as far as his force was concerned, last hight represented the best service that could be expected under the condicould be experient and already proposed an electric call-board plan to members of the committee, which was not adopted.

Reject Call-Board Plan He declares that a plan similar to that he has proposed is the only hope of remedying conditions and bringing order out of the South Broad stret chaos on opera nights.

Members of the executive committee have declared that Mr. Mills' plan is "I knew in advance that last night's onfusion was inevitable unless some steps to put in an adequate call system were taken," said Superintendent Mills. "There is nothing further the police can do in the way of speeding things up and getting the cars to the curb in better weder.

"It would not be fair to the theatres and clubs on Broad street to close the space in front of the Academy to all but patrons of the opera. If the operagoers expect to have the conveniences they wish in leaving the Academy, some nort of efficient call system will have to be put into operation.

Mills Makes Suggestion There are approximately 900 cars go to the curb at the Academy after he performance. All we can do now a drive them around and around and

"An electric system would mean that going east on Locust street, its number and the exact section of the curb at which it would stop would be flashed to a beard in the lobby of the Academy in plenty of time for its owners to go outside in time to board it.

"With ten loading sections working at the same time, this would greatly implify conditions and expedite omeward movement.

Man Built Home of Stolen Materials, It Is Alleged-Has Criminal Record

BAND LEADER IN WAR

Edgar A. Landin, twenty-nine years old, a Negro patrolman of the Fifteenth and Locust streets station, was ar-rested last night at his summer home in Lawndale, near Camden, charged with having stolen the material from which the home was built and other

Samuel Shoemaker, who lived in the house now occupied by Mrs. Emma Bergdoll, mother of the draft dodgers, at Wynnefield.

According to the detectives Landin that after he left the employ of the family jewelry valued at more than 3300 was missed. He was found guilty of the theft of the jewels and served years in the Huntingdon Reforms

y, from which he was released May 1914, police say. When the appointment of Landin to the police bureau was under consideration, several prominent persons ap-peared before the Civil Service Commission and urged the appointment.

Accordingly, Landin, whose father is a clergyman, was appointed. Later. in 1917. he enlisted in the army and served with distinction in France, where he was made director of a regimental Negro band. This band gave concerts at several theatres in this city on its return from France. Later, Landin re-sumed his duties as a patrolman at the Fifteenth and Locust streets station. Landin was arrested, the police say, after he had broken into a house that is being built on the White Horse pike in Haddon Heights. Chief Van Lear, of the Haddon Heights police, who nided in the arrest, said that Landin had stolen hardwood trimming valued at $400, more than $550 worth of tools from a garage on the estate and sixfrom a garage on the estate and six-teen bags of coment. This house is being constructed by Edward Stubbs and Charles Marshall, both contractors Woodlyn, N. J., who owned th stolen property. All of the material was transported in the seven-passenger touring car found in Landin's possession. The police are endeavoring to connect him with more than thirty robberies of building materials and furnishings that building materials and furnishings that have occurred recently in the vicinity.

The accused policeman was held under $1500 bail for court this morning following a hearing before Justice Gregory at Lawnside. The patrolman's father, the Rev. John L. Landin, of Lawnside, signed his bail bond.
