WE HAVE a busy day ahead of us tomorrow. There's to be the shop-Kennedy wedding at St. James' hurch and there's the luncheon which he Tom McKeans are giving for Cecily Barnes, who is, you know, engaged to Emile Geyelin and is to be married in the spring. Then in the evening we have the first meeting of the Supper Club at the Bellevue-Stratford. Mrs. Hutchison Scott is in charge of the flub, as in former years, and it will sertainly be a "go" again this year, as it has been for a number of years. It saly stopped during the two years we rch and there's the luncheon which stopped during the two years we supped during the two years we are at war, you remember, and was sumed last season. There will be ten estings in this series, the first beginning tomorrow night and the last being a February 6, the last Saturday before ent.

TARRY and Willie were discussing ardently. "Well." said Harry.
but what's the difference 'tween releft and recipe? I don't see it." Now. Harry is ten and Willie is a whole year older, and so he knows a lot more, of course, and accordingly he went into all sorts of deep explanations of what was which and why was when, and all the rest of it, and, finally, as I was getting off the train I heard Harry say in ab enlightened tone. "Oh, gee, I see it abow, a recipe is a receipt for something you cook."
