

JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Nancy Wynne Decides We Are a Much-Entertained People—Miss Jeanes to Be Introduced Tonight. Miss Carter and Miss Law Honor Guests at Dance

WELL, time is flying, isn't it? Two weeks and a day and Christmas will be here, and the school boys and girls will be coming home from boarding school to look for the holidays and there are lots of excitements for today, too. Elizabeth Jeanes is to be introduced at a musicale this evening which her mother, Mrs. Henry Jeanes, will give. There are to be several dinners before the dance which Mr. and Mrs. Carter will give for Virginia and Mary Law at the Ritz-Carlton. I suppose, after the debutantes and more will spend their time between the two affairs. The Jeanes musicale will start at 8 o'clock and Madame Eva Gauthier will sing, and another delightful part of the entertainment will be the dancing of Mademoiselle Virginia Maurer. I think it will be a beautiful affair.

The George Stuart Pattersons will entertain for Nancy McKean before the musicale. The Howard Rhoads will give a dinner for their daughter Esther. The Daniel Moreau Harringtons will entertain for Sarah, Dr. and Mrs. Le Conte will give a theatre party for Miss Carter before the dance and the Jeanes musicale, and Mary Bayard will be given a dinner by her uncle, Mr. James W. Bayard.

The Carter dance is given for Mary Law, as well as Virginia Carter. Mary, you know, is the daughter of Mr. Ernest Law and a niece of Dr. Carter. Mrs. Law was Miss Eugenia Carter, the daughter of the late Dr. Carter and she lives in Baltimore. You remember his first wife was Aurora Hanlehurst, who died not very many months after Aurora was born. I believe Aurora Carter will come up from Baltimore for the dance tonight. She came out last year.

MRS. TROTHER's class will meet for the first time this season tonight, and you know how popular that class is. Adelaide Souder's father and mother will give a dinner party for the girls before the debutants. Mrs. Muller will give a dinner for her daughter Gladys.

BT you need not think I am done telling you of today's gaiety, for I am not. There will be parties for the younger set, for there will be the meeting of Mrs. Charles Stewart Wurts' dancing class and the John S. Muckler is giving a dinner for Mary Virginia Allen before that class meets. William Cookman will give a large dinner for Josephine Rogers and Emily Cookman. There will be a party for boys and girls at the Cookman dinner.

THEN down in Wilmington will be the first Wilmington Assembly, which will be held in the Du Pont Hotel and which is the leading event of the season in that city. A great many Philadelphians are going down for that, and I think they will agree with me that it will be a much-danced, much-dined and much-entertained people this day.

I SAW the Sanders twins the other day on Chestnut street looking very well and dressed exactly alike in coats of gray squirrel fur, and their hats were fashioned of a soft gray-blue duvetyne and made to turn up in front of their faces. They are very attractive looking, I think, and very popular. They are cousins of Betty Scott Clark and Fanny Scott, too.

MOTHER and father had been to a concert and had talked it over, of course. Tommy came to meet them months later one day and said: "Mamma, how do you spell 'zolly'?" "O-L-I-Y, dear, but it is not a word to use. Tommy never went to bed in the want of niceness, for several times during the day mother heard him say to himself: "O-L-I-Y, that spells 'zolly', and now I'll be able to spell 'zolly' and I'll be able to spell 'zolly'."

NANCY WYNNE.
