The Glant Gees Hunting PEGGY was making snow babies in her front yard. She made them by rolling a stick in the soft snow to form the body and then fixing a hard-packed snowball on top for the head. She used little pebbles for the eyes and drew the nose and mouth with a black crayon. These snow babies she dressed in bits of colored tissue paper. When they were finished they looked so cute she felt very proud to be their mother and sang to them a song her own mother had The Giant Goes Hunting to them a song her own mother had hummed to her when she was tiny: Bye. Baby Bunting, father's gone To get a rabbit's skin to wrap Baby Bunting in."

The snow bables looked cold, which The snow battes tooked raid, which was to be expected of babies made of snow and dressed in tissue paper. No man who were such thick spectacles. Harvey Hunt knew, could read a newspaper without them. Hence he came to the conclusion that Linkman had been killed, and that his murderers in the attempt to make his death look natural, had staged the scene, placing the body in the chair. It was the tinish-rapper in the hands of a man who could not read without his glasses that proved their undoing.

More Than Eleven Million Dollars'

Worth of Groceries Sold Over Our Counters

since the first day of November! When we first announced our Eight-and-One-Half-Million-Dollars Sale, some folks thought it would take us months to sell such a vast amount of goods. The huge total of sales mentioned above, however, is mute evidence of what our Producer-to-Consumer Plan is accomplishing day in and day out.

Such a rapid "turn over" is the best guarantee in the world of the freshness of our merchandise. Our business, built on the confidence of the public gained by years of honest and faithful service, moves like the mighty torrents of Niagara. The goods come in trainloads direct from the producers to our four mammoth warehouses, from where our huge fleet of more than two hundred and fifty big motor trucks and wagons are kept working at top speed distributing the goods among our many stores. They are immediately placed on sale at low prices that cause them to be speedily disposed of. Rapid "turn over" at one small margin of profit is and always will be our policy, for it is the most sensible method of merchandising and the most economical to our customers. We are in close touch with the food markets of the world and every drop in price is passed on immediately and voluntarily to our customers.

-PRODUCERS!-

We wish to thank you on behalf of our customers for your willing response to our appeal to join with us in our movement to lower living costs. It is far better to keep your goods moving at a small profit than to let them accumulate while waiting for the larger profits that may never come. If you have not yet joined the ranks of those who see the wisdom of this policy, get in touch with us. If your merchandise is fresh and up to our usual high quality, we will pay you spot cash so that we may pass it on to the
