Gloss Finish Paint

Flat Finish Paint

Try this test yourself

Rub your finger over dirt resistant gloss paint. It will not leave a mark. Then note the smudge your finger leaves on the porous surface of flat finish paint.

Why flat paint collects dirt

ALL dull-finish paints have a rough, porous surface. In every square inch the microscope shows thousands of tiny pores and crevices.

These countless little holes collect dirt. That is why, when you try to wash flat paint, the result is seldom satisfactory.

The tile-like finish of Barreled Sunlight, the Rice Process Mill White, even when highly magnified, is smooth and solid. Its glistening white surface is highly resistant to dust and dirt.

After years of service, it still washes clean like glazed chinaware.

Today thousands of factory managers are finding that Barreled Sunlight will remain white longer than any other gloss-finish mill white on the market. Our exclusive process enables us to make this an actual guarantee.

Flows easily from the brush. Won't clog a spray, as it contains no varnish. Sold in barrels, also in cans.

Send for free panels so that you can make the test shown above—also our booklet, "More Light."

For shop and home, too

Barreled Sunlight, is also used in countless institutions, stores, garages, small buildings and in rooms in the home—wherever a white tile-like finish is desirable. It is much cheaper than enamel and easier to apply. Sold in gallons, half-gallons, quarts, pints and half-pints.
