Adverse Report Disregarded by Assembly on Lord Robert Cecil's Plea

COUNCIL AGAIN CRITICIZED

By the Associated Press

Geneva, Dec. 17.—Albania was elected a member of the League of Nations by the assembly of the league here this morning.

Immediately after the opening of today's session, Lord Robert Cecil, although appointed to make a report on the admission of Albania to the league, took the floor and declared he disagreed with the report of the committee, which was adverse to Albania. He asked the assembly to elect Albania a member.

N. W. Rowell, of Canada, also pleaded Albania's case and he, with Lord Robert Cecil, for the first time found support from other delegations of the British empire on a contested question.

After Mr. Rowell had concluded, H. A. L. Fisher, of Great Britain, took the floor and said that although the British delegation had voted against Albania in the committee it had since carefully studied the question and had decided to vote for her admission.

Delegate Inman, of India, dwelt upon the excellent impression the admission of Albania would make upon Mohammedans throughout the world. Rene Viviani, of France, and Signor Schanzer, of Italy, rallied to the support of the Cecil proposition. These factors broke down all opposition.

Differences between the council of the League of Nations and the assembly of the league regarding mandates were before the assembly when it met here today. After a long debate during yesterday's session, regarding the report of the mandates commission complaining of the council's refusal to submit a draft of the mandates for Syria, Mesopotamia and Palestine to the commission under certain conditions, the matter was left over for settlement today, if possible.

The original report of the mandates commission was a sharp arraignment of the council, but the language used was considerably softened by the full commission following the debate on the floor of the assembly. The council declined to submit drafts of the mandates except upon a promise by the commission that no reference to the provision of the mandates would be made in the report to the assembly.

Disposal of this question, action upon three more applications for membership and decision relative to the league budget were all that remained today to be disposed of during this session of the assembly. Hope was expressed this morning that this work might be finished today, so that tomorrow's session might be devoted to the ceremonies of closing. It seemed probable Rene Viviani, head of the French delegation, would appear tomorrow, he having been solicited by the assembly to make the principal closing speech.

The action of the committee in recommending the rejection of the applications of Baltic states and American influence. The committee had before it a document containing the note sent on August 30 to the Italian ambassador by Bernardino Cabini, American secretary of state, who stated the United States policy was that decision should be held in abeyance concerning territories carved out of the former Russian empire.

TURK NATIONALISTS FIRM

Mission Supposed to Mediate Joins Belligerent Force

Constantinople, Dec. 17.—(By A. P.)—Izzet Pasha's mission, which left Constantinople last week for the purpose of negotiating with the leaders of the Turkish Nationalists at Angora, in reality went to that city to escape "British tyranny" and joined the Nationalists, according to an official statement published in the Nationalist press of Angora on December 16.

This announcement is considered as an answer to representations from the Russian Bolsheviks, who are entertaining a suspicion that Mustafa Kemal Pasha, the Nationalist chief, is planning a compromise with the Allies in the event the latter offer certain concessions.

HOME RULE BILL CAUSES DEADLOCK

British Commons and Lords to Confer to Try to Arrange Compromise

By the Associated Press

London, Dec. 17.—Members of the House of Lords who have stood firmly against the Irish home rule bill as passed by the House of Commons, were in consultation with members of the government over night. It is understood, trying to arrange some sort of compromise relative to the measure.

It was asserted here this morning that the virtual deadlock between the two houses of Parliament must be compromised or the bill would be lost and the home rule measure of 1914 would automatically become a law as soon as ratification of the Turkish treaty formally ends the war.

Developments are being awaited with curiosity and anxiety. The action of the House of Lords in amending the home rule bill was tantamount to rejection of the measure, and the insistence of Commons upon the original bill seems to have placed the fate of the legislation in the balance. Parliamentary writers gave widely divergent statements in London newspapers this morning as to what might happen.

Many members of the upper House of Parliament object to the provision of the bill for the council of Ireland and oppose the clause providing that if Ireland declines to accept the form of government established by the measure, a crown colony government will be imposed. Some writers declare the irreconcilable peers will recede from their position and that when the House of Lords meets at noon Saturday, it will hear royal assent given the measure and see it placed in the statute books as a law.

Seen Chestnut St. Shops

One of Chestnut Street's best-known jewelry shops appears at the head of the column today. The store of Van Dusen & Stokes, at 1123 Chestnut Street, is noted for the quality of its wares and for the unusually interesting things one finds there.

Delorah Logan

ONE is always safe in giving a man a scarf pin, for, no matter how many he possesses, he is always so unaffectedly delighted to welcome another to his collection. I saw an odd pin today at the store of Van Dusen & Stokes, 1123 Chestnut Street. It was a moonstone surrounded by diamonds and had a diamond, too, in the center of the stone. This sort of pin can be worn with any tie. A black opal is another happy choice. The scarf pins in which platinum and diamonds are combined with enamels of various colors are most effective, and among the more inexpensive pins are some very good tourmalines set in green gold. Aquamarines are very much liked, too, and are very attractive when set with diamonds.

HAVE you visited the store of Bailey, Banks & Biddle Company during this holiday season? You will find there gift suggestions aplenty. For women there are bar pins, vanity cases, sautoirs, slipper buckles, lozenges, overnight bags, traveling clocks, fans, lingerie clasps, manicure sets, mesh bags, headed bags, bracelets, engagement books, opera glasses, etc. For men there are watches, desk sets, humidors, fountain pens, cigarette cases, playing cards, photograph frames, umbrellas, traveling bags, soft collar pins, scarf pins, shaving sets, pipes, crooks, tobacco pouches, cassettes, ash trays, etc. And there are any number of delightful gift suggestions for the home in the silver and crystal departments.

GIFT Baskets of Fruit—for your business friends they are most appropriate, and for a personal friend—you may be sure that few gifts will be given so warm a welcome. At the store of Henry Halliwell & Son, Broad Street below Chestnut the baskets are lovelier than ever this year—beautifully hand-painted and artistically filled with the most delicious of fruits, including those wonderful Hot-house Grapes from Belgium. All these fruits are of the most perfect imaginable and are carefully arranged to produce exquisite color effects. Price range is wide—$5, $8, $10, $12, $15, $20, $25 up to $50 and $75. And not only your friends here in town will enjoy them this year, for Halliwell's guarantee perfect delivery to any point within 1000 miles of Philadelphia.

FOR outdoor sports—and for some of the indoor sports for that matter—there is nothing like a heavy sweater. It gives the necessary freedom when you're playing a strenuous game like ice hockey and is warm and comfortable. At the store of A. G. Spalding & Bros, 1210 Chestnut Street, I saw some wonderfully good-looking sweaters. They are of pure lamb's wool and are hand-finished. Women will like the slip-over model with shawl collar which comes in white, navy, maroon, gray, cardinal and brown. There is another slipover model without collar which fits close about the hips, and one that buttons down the front. These sweaters make dandy Christmas gifts for the college boy or girl, or, indeed, for any one who loves the outdoors.

WHERE is some one on your list who will be the delighted recipient of a knitted silk muffler on Christmas morning—that is, if you once see those which I found this week at the store of MacDonald & Campbell, 1334-36 Chestnut Street. The girl who is wearing one of these new suits of English tweed will appreciate a silk muffler in which stripes of deep purple alternate with lavender stripes or a navy striped with lighter blue, and the men on your list will like the grenadines in dark colors. These scarfs are very finely woven and come in the dark blues and greens and browns that men like. For evening wear a man would appreciate an all-white muffler or a white muffler striped with black.

ONE seldom thinks of a thermos bottle as being decorative, but why shouldn't things useful be decorative as well? That is what the maker of these thermos sets which I saw at the store of J. Franklin Miller, 1012 Chestnut Street, must have thought, for they are most attractive. They include carafe, tumbler and tray, and come in the most attractive colors. You will find one to harmonize with any color scheme. One is often grateful for a glass of ice cold water during the night or in the morning, and so a thermos set such as this would be a welcome addition to the bedside table accessories. This is just a suggestion for a Christmas gift. You will find many more interesting things at Miller's.

IF YOU haven't seen the lovely new blouses at the Blum Store, 1310 Chestnut Street, you really must not miss taking a peek at them, for they would make the loveliest Christmas gifts. One lovely blouse is of satin and comes in navy, brown and gray. It has a collar of georgette edged with flit and its girldie wrinkles most becomingly at the waist line. Its price is $12.50. A georgette overblouse, in salt shades, embroidered in gold thread, is most attractive and a tricolette overblouse embroidered in contrasting color would look very well at most any time of day. At $5 there is a blouse of flesh-colored georgette with collar of lace. It has a wide full in front, edged also with lace. There is such an amazing variety of colors that it should not be difficult to find one in just the shade you desire.
