round of debutante dances this reck. Tonight there will be the dance or Charlotte Starr at the Philadelphia Cricket Club, which her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Ducoing Starr will give. Tomorrow evening there will be the Ashton ball at the Ritz-Cariton and Thursday night the Charles Francis Stratford. On Friday every one may stop and breathe a bit, though the Clarrie Dolans are giving a small dinner dance that night out at Rosemont, folowing a skating party for Rita. That is, of course, for the younger set, though. Then on Christmas night we can all go to the Supper Club, that is any of us who are members or are lucky enough

THERE will be several dinners tonight before the Starr dance. The Langdon Mitchells will entertain for Langdon Mitchells will entertain for Helene and the Oliver Boyce Judsons will give a dinner for Mary Bayard. Another dinner will be given by the Biddle Marsdens for their niece, Mary Hebard. The McKean Downs will give a dinner for their two debutante sisters, Atlee Downs, who is a sister of McKean, and Kitty Merrick, who is a sister of Mrs. Downs. The Downs moved into their new home. 201 West moved into their new home, 201 West Chestnut avenue, last month.

MARY is seven now and, of course, has been old enough to say her prayers all by herself, for some time. However, Father had a light the other day that it might be just as well to be present after this when the prayer time came. Mary went up to bed the other evening; and as he was about to go into the room she knelt down, and before he could take three steps was up again and ready to jump into bed. "Why dear," said Father, "you didn't say your prayers in that time?"

And said Mary, "Yes, indeed I did, Daddy, I can say 'em just as fast as anything now," NANCY WYNNE.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Mrs. Henry M. Hoyt announces the engagement of her nice. Miss Hope Mc-Michael, to Captain Ezio Garibaldi, voungest son of General Ricciotti Garibaldi and Senora Garibaldi, of Rome, Italy. Captain Ezio Garibaldi is the grandson of Garibaldi, the Italian patriot. He is the youngest of seven brothers, the sons of General Riciotti Garibaldi. All served in the late war, where two lost their lives. Of the remaining five, one is a general, one a colonel, two majors and the youngest a captain. Miss McMichael is the grand-

In SPITE of the fact that Christmas I was only five days off and many had not finished their shopping yet, the Morning Musicale yesterday was very well attended; only a few boxes and seats were vacant and the audience was most enthusiastic over the singing of Madame Stanley.

I saw some stunning clothes. Mrs. Stacy Lloyd I noted in particular. She was wearing a suit of blue duvetyne, not very dark nor very bright, but a warm shade of blue. The skirt was made on plain lines and the coat was box shaped, without a line. It was hip length and was finished with a wide band of dark brown fur which was headed with a broad band of blue and gold embroidery. Cuffs and straight collar were of the same brown fur, and her hat was a soft blue duvetyne toque embroidered in blue.

Mrs. Andrew Wheeler looked very well in a brown frock topped with a gunning toque of bright apple green velvet. A wonderful long green ostrich.
