Who he workered, was this man that Fete felt worth wasting the ammunition of jealousy upon, for that was what it amounted to? As to his going down there—hang it all, there were reasons, good reasons, why he should net go. There was his business. With 'nat va-cancy in the position of treasurer, he was keeping his nose to the grindstone, hoping to attract attention from the powers above. And he was building up a reputation for frugality which a trip down to Pete's fashionable—If poky— little hole would shatter irrevocably did it become known. And there was Mar-ion.

Hang it all'! Pote's plea couldn't have come at a more inconvenient time. His thoughts fluttered nervously between his business and his flancee, the while he slung things things into his bag. Then he sat down and wrote an explanatory note to Marion about his proposed absence from town which explained nothing. Pete met him at the station, a vision Pete met him at the station, a vision white from head to foot.

LET'S MAKE A RESOLVE FOR MORE HONESTY THIS YEAR

If Every One Would Strive for It There Would Be Fewer Robberies, Hold-Ups, Graft and Less Lying

A RE you making New Year's reso-lutions this year? Instead of telling ourselves and our world firmly this year that we are not going to ent so much candy or smoke so many cigarettes, not going to use so much slang, or swear so much, not going to buy such expensive lunches, or go to science.

to buy such expensive lunches, or go to the movies so often, according to our sex, why not make up our minds to bring more honesty into the world with 1921? We can use it, you know. There are so many kinds of dishon-

But we don't do anything about it personally.

WE CAN do something to make things better right in our own small circles at home, in the office, among the neighbors, wherever our life takes us. We can help stamp out the dishonesty

Then there is that smaller dishonesty that has been the outstanding feature which allows a person to reach out and take possession of small articles that to sign of it in our own lives.

It may sound small, it may sound ridiculous and impossible to say that you, personally, can affect the world ith your weentsy little resolution. But remember that there are several There is the dishonesty of speech-so many persons find it easier to lie millions or more or these "you's" the world.

first when asked a question. They lie when there is no need for it, when the truth would require less explanation, or evasion would be If you ALL decide that your New Year's resolution is for more plain, unadorned, unqualified honesty in your own life there won't be anybody left to nourish this greedy, selfish dishon

LACK of sincerity is another form not be called lying, but it is a second or third cousin. Petty graft—trying to get something
