of Joseph J. Ryan, son of Thomas Fortune Ryan, filed yesterday in the surrogate's court. The reason for the bequest to Miss Whiteford is not ex-plained in the instrument. Relatives say that she and Mr. Ryan had been friends for many years and that she was at the bedside of the financier's son

The will disposes of an estate estimated at $00.000. A bequest of $100 is made to Mrs. Nannie Morse Ryan, the widow, Mr. Ryan explaining that "ample provision has been made for her support and the support of our children during his lifetime by the separation agreement entered into between us dated May 6, 1915."

Bequests of $5000 each are made to Mr. Ryan's son, Joseph J. Ryan, Jr., and to his daughter, Eleanor M. Ryan. Bequest Will Total $60,000

Miss Whiteford is to receive $10,000 and all the residue of the estate, which,

and all the residue of the estate, which, in the opinion of her attorney, John Robinson, will total about $60,000.

Miss Whiteford has been at Rockledge, Fla., since January 13. according to members of her family. Her attorney said she appeared here in "The Royal Vagabond" a year ago.

Miss Whiteford lives with her parents, her sister Margaret, who is in the "Irene" company at the Vanderbilt Theatre, and her brother Jerome. One sister is married to J. M. Introduced by Brother

"Mr. Ryan was introduced to my daughter by my son Jerome, who was one of his friends. Mr. Ryan called frequently at our home, perhaps more often here than at any one clse's. This was because we all liked him and took a deep interest in helping him to try to solve certain problems that confronted him. What these problems were it is not necessary to state.

"Dorothy and Mr. Ryan and I often discussed these matters together and Dorothy showed a sympathetic interest that was of great help to Mr. Ryan." When we learned that he had made Dorothy his neir we were surprised We think he did this to show his appreciation of the friendship of the family."

party relative to the employment of violence to secure control of the government was expected to be reached by the organization's congress here today. It was forecast that if the Moderates, or those who hold that the Socialists can attain power by parliamentary means, should win, the Communists would withdraw from the party.

Yesterday's session eclipsed in vioence all the stormy meetings held by the congress since it opened, last Saturday. The tumult reached its culmination when Vincenzo Vacirca, a Sicil-ian Socialist deputy and a former resident of the United States, advised the ongress to follow the lead of the Mod-RYAN'S HEIR erates. There was great excitement in the theatre where the congress is beerates. There were quarrels all over the theatre, and many who attempted the role of pencemakers were drawn into squables by remarks east at them. "Red West Seventy-ninth street, falls heir Guards" and other epithets were passed up and down the aisles, and in the meantime the officers of the congress were trying to silence the meeting.
Their simple requests, however, were lost in the shouting, and Signora Altobelli, the woman president, who was in the chair, rang the speakers' bell without any effect whatever upon the quarreling delegates. The disorder continued until a Communist mounted the platform and in stentorian tones ex-plained the cause of the misunderstand ing, and brought order out of chaos.
