Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 25. "NEXT summer, possibly June or July, we expect to lay the cornerstone of the National Stadium at Atlant'e City." This was the optimistic statement of Mayor Edward Bader, one of the most progressive chief executives this famous seashore resort ever has boasted, commenting on the latest enterprise launched by Atlantic City's hustling business men. The mayor of the world's playground is a busy man, but never too busy to lend his aid to anything that will benefit this place.

He was up to his ears in work when the EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER representative horned mto his office in the sentative horned into his office in the city hall, guided by John Smith, state boxing commissioner, and Dan Mc-Laughlin, who gives about twenty-four hours a day to the service of his guests at the Traymore, and in addition boosts and assists any project that will add to the prestige of Atlantic City.

Hizzoner was slightly more than enthusiastic over the proposed stadium. "Atlantic City needs such an institution." he averred as he passed around the smokes, and when Harry Latz decided that now was the time to start it I agreed that he had made an interesting speech. We want to bring to Atlantic City such notable athletic events as the Army-Navy football game, the Olympics, the national lawn tennis tournament, big intersectional gridiron games; in fact, anything in which the people are interested. are interested.

'Atlantic City long ago ceased to merely a summer resort. It is a be merely a summer resort. It is a thriving metropolitan city, traveling in high spring, summer, autumn and winter. That being the case, it is necessary to give the people, residents and visiters the things they lack. This the visiters the things they lack. This they will answer the purpose. We expect to acquire something more than seventy-five mercs of ground and that territory will not be any too large. One site in of the project is that virtually every substantial citizen of this place is be-hind the enterprise. We already have made a bid for the next Olympics, and we have reason to believe the authoriies at West Point and Annapolis are favorably disposed toward staging their annual football classic here.

"It is one of the biggest things ever proposed for Atlantic City, but the growth of the resort warrants it, and it goes in for some form of athleties. They start in the case of the start in the proposed for Atlantic City, but the growth of the resort warrants it, and it is sure to meet with the approval not only of the visitors, who come here from only of the country and even section of the country and even colleges and find it so healthful and instart in the grammar schools, continue is sure to meet with the approval not only of the visitors, who come here from every section of the country and even Europe, but also of the home folk with an eye to business."

Promoters Big Men

The officers of the National Stadium of Atlantic City are: Harry Latz, president; Carleton Adams, vice president; Carleton Adams, vice president; Mayor Bader, treasurer, and Joseph McNamee, secretary. Mr. Latz is one of the proprietors of the Alamac Hotel, Mr. Adams is a prominent realtor and Mr. McNamee is city clerk. B. George Ulizio is chairman of the board, and the counselors are Joseph A. Slattery and Joseph A. Corio, amembers of the State Assembly.

Everybody in Atlantic City knows Harry Latz. As Dan McLaughlin says: He is one of the livest wires on the beach front, though he does things without beach front, though he does things without beach of the made of them, which is only another way of saying that Harry's middle mame is "Heas."

With this thought in mind we planned the stadium. When this project has the studium, where this project has the studium, where it is the they keed i

Maybe some one at some time thought of a stadium for Atlantic City, but the credit goes to Harry Latz, because it is a fact that he did think of it and, what is more to the point, put it over You can't blane Latz for being what is more to the point, put it over with the assistance of his fellow live wires.

"There is no end to the possibilities of the stadium," said Latz. We have done big things here, but much remains to be done and if our hopes and plans are realized most of the athletic activities of the United States will revolve around.

Southern Depends on Silver

Now that Silver has found himself and is shooting fouls a la McNichol, of Penn, the downtown youngsters look forward to the second half of the High School League series with high hopes of staging a comeback. Silver's foul shooting against Germantown High was a feature of the last game. He scored 17 out of a possible 20 points.

Coach Kerr loses Barney Barris, the forward. Goldblatt will take his place. The new combination worked so well in the game with Germantown there is no question but that this team will take no question but that this team will take the floor in the opening game of the second-half series against Frankford High. Northeast plays at Germantown High and West Philadelphia meets Catholic High on February 4, when the league season will again be in progress.

The House Behind the Car

The concern you deal with is the concern to which you must look directly for service and satisfaction. The dependability and stability of the organization that sells a product like an automobile is of vital and economic importance to the purchaser. The sale of an automobile continues throughout the life of the car.

In selling Dodge Brothers' cars we are fortunate in representing manufacturers who are scrupulously particular of the character and standing of their dealers. That we are the only distributors who have sold Dodge Brothers' cars in this territory since they were first manufactured six years ago we take as a distinct personal tribute and as an assurance to the public that we have served our customers well.

This company has a reputation of fifteen years behind it, selling automobiles and custom-built bodies. In that period we have handled only two makes of passenger cars.

With the same scrupulous care exercised by Dodge Brothers in selecting dealers we have selected our associate dealers listed below.
