"STRETCH" MEEHAN IS CAMDEN'S CONQUEROR

His Field Goal After Holman Ties Score Wins a Stirring Game for Germantown Five in Eastern League

GET this picture. The scene is in an Eastern League basketball game between Germantown and Camden, at Chew street and Chelton avenue. Only five minutes to play and the Skeeters in the lead by four points, score 20-16, having jumped from two points behind on successive baskets by Keer, Dolin and Campbell.

Captain Nat Holman calls time out. General Harry Houch, on his side-line, and the players in the game discuss the situation and the bell rings for the two minutes' allowance. The council of war continues and the Camden players grow more impatient as they see they are the game all sewed up.

Nat Holman immediately shoots a foul score 20-17. On the next play center in gets the ball to go. He takes a shot and the ball goes the length of the hall. Bingo! In the basket, score 20-19, and a minute later he ties the figures at 20-all on another one-pointer.

Then "Stretch" Meehan gets into the picture. Way back center he seizes the ball, but is blocked. No one around to pass the ball to. So he takes a shot and the ball goes the length of the hall. Bingo! In the basket, score 20-19, and a minute later he ties the figures at 20-all on another one-pointer.

An Excited Mob The excitement that attended this procedure beggars description. The largest crowd of the season was on hand and they certainly witnessed a wonderful game. From a Germantown scoring margin Meehan was the star, scoring eleven points on three field and five foul tosses, and Holman second, with eight points on a pair of single and twin twos. The only other points were a field toss by Glasgow and two fouls by Bruggy.

But while the latter did not count from the field he played a wonderful game of basketball, and Bill Donovan would not have been ashamed of his own catcher had he been in attendance. Bill would have known more about the game than a whole lot of fans yelling. "Take Bruggy out." "Frank sure is a field tosser." The article of ball he disputed under ordinary circumstances would have netted him four or five

VILLANOVA TO PLAY ALUMNI QUINTET

Marty McLoughlin Will Lead Graduates Against 1921 Team Friday Night

The Villanova basketball team has one of its most important games scheduled for Friday evening in new Alumni Hall, where the addition of a new gymnasium has made it possible for the Main Lineers to be officially represented in the case for the first time.

The visiting aggregation on Friday evening will be the Villanova Alumni. This is the first season that the college has had a recognized quintet. Heretofore there has been a squad here and there, but they have not been organized into a team.

Coach Mike Saxe, formerly of Pennsylvania, has worked wonders in a short time. Previous to the defeat by the Navy at Annapolis last week, the squad had come through with three successive victories.

Coach Saxe has taken a squad of unknown and developed the into a fast and dangerous combination and he expects to room off with victories in the remaining games with P. M. C., Lehigh Valley and St. Joseph's. But on Friday night his five will have to be at his best, according to Marty McLoughlin, coach of the Alumni five.

No doubt twenty-five would be more appropriate, judging by the turnout at practice in Alumni Hall tonight. The former athletes will endeavor to show the present varsity that Villanova had just as good basketball players in the days when it did not have any recognized team as at present.

McLoughlin has a wealth of material from which to choose his team. Included among the number are Johnny Dougherty, who starred with Gowdy's team last season; Joe Scully, Frank Peoney, Dick O'Connor, Joe Swinner, Dave Ward, Dr. Marty Connor, Joe Haney, Billy Shavin, Charlie McLoughlin. The alumni expect to make a good showing. The team picked to start is composed of Marty McLoughlin, center; P. Dougherty and Peony, forwards; and Lynch and McGuckin, guards.

THE YONKERS FAIR ASSOCIATION will hold a continuing barn for the race horses, 40 feet and built will be used for a 65 and concrete grand stand to seat about 18,000 people.

HEARY B. BOB, the Pittsburgh horseman, has signed Peter Dittie off, by Peter Dittie, to James McLintire, Lexington, Ky., to be given a "prize" for the coming season's racing career.

L. A. RUBEN, of McAfee, N. J., will have a good stable next season. The club has a fine race horse, He has just secured a mare in Ohio, Antwine, 2:14, by Indian Chief, which has been in 2:07 1/2, and is eligible to the 2:17 pace.

Gowdy Signs With Braves Boston, Jan. 26.—Catcher Hank Gowdy has signed with the Boston Nationals what was said to be one of the first completed contracts under the new regime in baseball. It is for one year.

CONDITION IS PRIME REQUISITE TO SOCCER

Referee and Linesmen Should Be as Physically Fit as Contestants to Be Constantly on Top of the Play. Speed Is the Thing

BY DOUGLAS STEWART Coach of the University of Pennsylvania soccer team, intercollegiate champion. ONE of the prime requisites in playing the game of association football (soccer) is that of being in physical condition. An experienced player can save his legs by the use of his brain, but with the usual run of teams there is not much done in the way of conserving energy—rather there is unnecessary waste of it.

The average player starts off in the fall in his first game, and discovers that the ball becomes very heavy, then the legs get heavy and the player becomes so tired he can hardly move around. It never occurs to him that his wind is not in shape and because of that his legs and feet become leaden.

The next day or the day after, he plays again and is amazed to find how light his legs are and how light the ball is. He finds he can last the second half as long as he can last the first, and he knows that the fact that he is getting into condition.

We know how much running the player has to do. The referee has to be in the best of condition. The referee has to be constantly on top of the play in a speedy game. The referee has to be able to do to get into shape. He can easily figure how much the referee or linesman must do to keep up with the ever-changing referee.

Another great advantage attached to being on top of the play is the fact that the referee is moving as quickly as the players, and restrains the contestants from introducing any unsportsmanlike tactics.

Below, therefore, that the referee should be in at least as good condition as the players; he has to travel more than any of them as fast as any of them and be able to take clearly at the time something no one can do when he is weary.

The same conditioning is required on the part of the linesmen. These referees will ever see the average linesman keeping abreast of the play at all parts of the game, and in position to tell the referee and the player exactly where the ball is, and to indicate which side is entitled to a corner kick, goal line throw in, or a free kick.

There would be fewer disputes, less friction and the referee could feel himself free to give his undivided attention to the middle of the field. Many a goal has been lost because of the referee's judgment by the linesmen. It is not always the referee's fault. The linesmen were too far away to see the ball, and it is not always the referee's fault. The linesmen were too far away to see the ball, and it is not always the referee's fault.
