Camden Physician, Going to Fix Fire, Discovers Two Thousand-Dollar Loss

DIAMONDS ALSO STOLEN

Liberty Bonds, silverware and jewels, valued in between one and two thousand dollars, were taken from the home of a Camden physician, last night or early this morning, before robbers forced their way into the house by breaking open the back door.

Dr. M. Segal, of 514 Kaighn avenue, reported his loss to the Camden police this morning.

He said Mrs. Segal woke him between 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning, and asked him to go down to fix the furnace, as the house had become very cold. To get to the cellar it was necessary for him to go through the kitchen, and he immediately felt cold air blowing in the room, and then noticed the door was open.

Finding it had been forced open, he ran to the dining room and discovered the loss of four sets of silverware, and two boxes and articles of jewelry.

The bonds amounted to $750, while the diamond rings, belonging to his wife and himself, the physician, catalogued at $200. The silverware, he said, consists of 100 pieces of tableware.
