JUDGE BONNIWELL, V.A., HAS RIGHT TO AWARD GRID CHAMPIONSHIP TO BOSTON COLLEGE, SO'S ANYBODY

By ROBERT W. MAXWELL

FINE Boston College football team has been awarded 1 the eastern championship of the United States for 1920. This was done by the Veteran Athletes of Philadelphia Thursday night, when Captain Lou Urban was presented with a championship trophy at the Hotel Adelphia. It was the gift of W. Freeland Kendrick and was presented by Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell.

Because there is no regular intercollegiate association in the East nor any sort of an organization which controls the gridiron sport, it always has been difficult to determine a champion at the end of each season. In the Middle West, where the Conference Association holds forth, they have a champion every year. In the East it the privilege of every critic and every coach to select

At the end of the 1920 season there were five candidates for the crown. Princeton, Harvard, Pittsburgh and Penn State went through the season without a defeat, but played in the games. Bestim College had a clean slate, defenting such teams as Yale, Fordham, Holy Cross, Georgetown and Marietta However, the New Englanders were not seriously considered because of the co-called "easy" schooled. I was pointed out that Princeton, Harvard, Pit and Penn State played harder games, but to us it looks as if Holy Cross, Georgetown and Yale were as good as any in the East and capable of extending any team to the Judge Bonniwell had a perfect right to award the championship to Boston Cologo. He was speaking for Veteran Athletes of Philadelphia, and that organization has as much to say about it as the critics or any one else. If the Veteran Athletes say that Boston College won the championship, then Hoston College is the champion selected by the Veteran Athletes.

The team did not lose a game, scored 183 points against 21 and detented Yate by the score of 21 to 13 when the Blue team was in top form. A remarkable record was made, and while there was no opportunity to compare the strength of Cavanaugh's eleven with the other four contenders, every one admitted that Boston College had one of the best teams in the East. It had to be good to be ranked with the other four leaders

THERE was much discussion among football men yesterday about the awarding of the championship trophy. To settle a lot of arguments, allow us to state that this in no scay is official. According to the Veteran Athletes, Boston Cullege is the cham-pion. Others may have different views.

Attacks "Closed" Competition

TUST the same, it did one good to listen to the midress of Judge Bonniwell when he fearlessly attacked the "aristocracy of athletics" and condemned the artificial barrier erected by three of our leading colleges, meaning Princeton, Harvard and Yale. He said that closed competition would ruin the sport in the future and characterized it as unsportsmanlike and un American.

It was Mr. Bonniwell who first conceived the idea of honoring the Boston College football team. He had his reasons, and they are good ones. Before presenting the trophy to Captain Urban he said:

The Veteran Athletes of Philadelphia have viewed with concern a widening endeavor to create an exclusive class in athletics. Mindful of the importance of clean athletics, not merely for the sport itself, but on the life of a nation, we have noted the menace that has begun to creep into even amateur and collegiate sports. As men who believe in the democratic influence of competition, we repudiate the theory that a man or team can justly claim a championship who refuses to meet upon equal terms worthy opponents, regardless of the aristocratic pretensions of a clique of colleges or the creation of a religious or a racial division. No man is a champion of world who refuses to meet any challenger to his title. and no team is entitled to rank as the best team in its class which, by a system of careful selection, provides in advance for a series of hollow victories, in order that it and one or two other colleges may between themselves pretend to decide the football or baseball championship of tern United States

"We view with contempt the boxing champions who, made so by the doubtful virtue of a referee's decision, remain champions by the easy expedient of locking up their title in a safety deposit vault; and we hope to arouse such a volume of sportsmanlike sentiment throughout the country as to either deny to these people the money that they seek to convert their honors into or to require them to surrender their crown to men who have the real idea of sportsmanship.

"I think I speak the united voice of our association-a udgment predicated upon a life-long experience both iu the direction and supervision of all kinds of athletic endeavor-when I formally proclaim that, in the judgment of the Veteran Athletes' Association, Boston College, on its season's record, having played out the strongest schedule that could be arranged for the team, success fully met and defeated all comers, including Yale, and both by the type of its performance and the total of points scored, appeals to all fair men as the strongest football team in the eastern United States. In no other form of endeaver could it be successfully maintained that any team whose record was marred by a tie game could be placed in the ascendancy over a team that had successfully defended its own goal line and crossed its opponents'.

66 TT 18 therefore with peculiar pleasure that we of Philadelphia proclaim our independence of ci. her a social or an aristocratic clique who would seek to confine the football championship of America to three certain colleges. It is not merely unaportsmanlike, but it is dangerously un-American, and as men icho are believers in fair play ice decline to assent to any such mere ricious standard."

Small-College Isolation

BOSTON COLLEGE played Yale in 1919 and wen by the score of 5 to 3. Last year the Blue was cut for revenge and again went down in defeat. The Bestonians n each case demonstrated their superiority and the vie tories were not flukes. Yale dropped Boston off her 1921 schedule. There was much adverse comment in New Haven when this was announced, and more protests were made when it was stated frankly that Boston College was entirely too strong for an early season game.

That didn't help Yale any, but it beested Boston.

The public always is with the under dog and felt that the game should be continued.

When a small college steps out with a high-class foot ball team it soon finds itself in an isolated position. The larger schools refuse to schedule games, giving the old excuse- 'we have everything to lose and nothing to gain.' They forget temperarily that football is a college sport, empetition keeps it alive and a real schedule should be Bringed instead of the usual "set-ups."
Princeton is the first of the "Big Three" to invite strong opponents. When Bill Roper took charge he challenged the world, so to speak, and in a remarkably short time had developed one of the greatest teams in the country. To my mind-and I am speaking only for myself-Princeton had the best team last fall. However, that's only my opinion. But the Tigers are not afraid to schedule hard games early in the season. (there should do the

It has been claimed that Boston College plays mucker football. That is not true. Frank Cavanaugh has taught his men to play hard, but indulge in no dirty work. In the 1919 Yale game Dr. Williams, the umpire, disqualified one player for unnecessary roughness. That player was a Yale man.

Last year Tom Thorp officiated in the game and I asked him if there was any rough work.
"It was one of the cleanest games I ever have seen," "Both sides played hard football, but I saw
