FISHING LICENSE URGED

Commissioner Buller Asks Anglers to Support Proposed Law
Nathan R. Buller, state fish commissioner today urged disciples of Izak Walton actively to support the proposed law requiring all anglers to pay a license fee of $1 to the state. The added revenue, he said, was to be used in populating lakes and streams with fish and in taking additional steps to prevent pollution of the commonwealth's waters.

Mr. Buller spoke at a meeting of the Philadelphia County Fish, Game and Forest Association at 2015 North Sixth street. The body previously had gone on record in advocating the measure, which will be introduced next week. The association is composed of representatives of seven bodies of men interested in the outdoor life of field and stream. The bill also provides that any surplus in the fund be used in purchasing bodies of water for the use of the public. Asked if he believed there would be any chance for Sunday fishing under the proposed law, Mr. Buller said he feared for the safety of the measure if any amendments providing for legalized Sunday fishing were added.

Deborah Logan

LET me tell you of some very dainty lingerie at unusually low prices which I saw the other day at the Individual Lingerie Shop of Bonwit, Teller & Company, at Thirteenth and Sansom Streets. Today and tomorrow, you know, are the last two days of their annual pre-inventory sale. Among the things that I thought particularly worthy of note were a Philippine embroidered nightgown at $2.95 which had been $4.95, a flesh-colored crepe de chine nightgown at $3.95 and a straight vest chemise of batiste with hand-embroidered shoulder straps at 95 cents. A satin chemise with band of tucked Georgette, trimmed with val lace and net footing, was remarkably reasonable at $4.95. It had been much higher.

CONSIDER your eyes. It is most important that they receive the proper attention at all times. If there is any question of your needing eyeglasses, you should be most careful in your selection of an optician, for your satisfaction with those glasses will depend upon the accuracy with which your eyesight is fitted and the degree of perfection with which the glasses have been adjusted. I am very glad to be able to recommend to the readers of this column the work of Fox Company, Opticians, 1719 Chestnut Street, who have recently removed from the corner of Chestnut and Seventeenth Streets. Forty years' experience as prescription opticians enables them to furnish you with the names of Philadelphia's foremost oculists, with whom they co-operate. The list will be given upon application.
