

LEGION WILL HELP ITS MEN GET JOBS

Special Plans Made to Meet Unemployment Situation for Veterans

CONFERENCE IS LIKELY

Under the direction of K. E. Hollenbeck, of Walter M. Gearty Post, American Legion, as chairman of the welfare committee, an effort will be made to alleviate, as far as ex-service men are concerned, the unemployment situation in Philadelphia.

This committee has been authorized by the executive committee to meet the necessary expenses for the promotion of this work. The committee will aid Legion members and world war veterans in obtaining positions. The preference will be given to members of the Legion.

Mr. Hollenbeck can be reached at 1504 Brandywine street, or through the new county headquarters, third floor, Tenth and Chestnut streets.

It would be beneficial if a conference of all employment officers were called to take up the problem. Such a conference may be called.

George A. Turner Post will hold its next meeting February 15. It has acquired a new home, at 1381 Ridge avenue. According to Arthur Lamartine, the finance officer, it has fixed its dues at $3 a year, and hopes to attract at least 100 members by 1921.

The national executive committee meets in Washington today to consider the soldier vote of bringing before Congress with a law supported by the former service organizations. It is represented by Franklin P. O'Connor, county chairman, and former national commander; David J. Davis, department commander, and William G. Murphy, state adjutant. The session will continue for three days.

Colonel Lewis G. Sorely, of the education division of the adjutant general's office, Washington, has accepted the invitation to address the Benjamin Franklin Post at its meeting next Wednesday evening in Houston Hall, Thirty-sixth and Spruce streets, and has even promised to arrange to give a demonstration of the effects of short-term intensive training upon illiterate recruits, provided platform facilities can be provided.

This post will begin a drive to bring its membership above that of 1920, when it stood third in membership in Philadelphia. The finance officer, Roland J. Lower, 150 South Thirty-sixth street, requests all delinquents to forward dues to him at once.

PHILOPATRIAN BALL WILL BE BRILLIANT

Human Card Deck Will Dance at Opening Number of Annual Event

OTHER FEATURES DUE

A unique feature, "Hearts Are Trumps," will open the annual ball of the Catholic Philopatrian Literary Institute tonight in the Bellevue-Stratford. There will be an elaborate set of scenery used in this dancing number, and brilliant costumes.

This opening number, it is promised by the members of the institute, will be one of the most brilliant things of the kind ever attempted. The dancers will be continued to represent the four suits of playing cards, and the Joker will lead them all. An elaborate card case that will open upon the stage will disclose the dancers, who will step from it in turn.

Charles S. Morgan, former dancing star of the Mask and Wig Club of the University of Pennsylvania, has drilled the performers, and there will be much clever dancing, both individual and collective. Members of the company have been selected from the institute and from among the patronesses.

Each year the Catholic Philopatrian Literary Institute gives this ball, and has done so annually during the entire time the institute has been in existence, almost a century.

Upon the general committee in charge of the affair are: Chairman, Frank P. Carr, president of the institute; treasurer, Gerald A. Dougherty; secretaries, James J. O'Neill, William J. Delaney and William J. Seymour; John F. Kelly, Thomas J. Kelly, James A. Hamilton, William J. McGlynn, William J. McCormick, James J. Hastings, Ignatius J. Horvath, M. J. O'Sullivan, Joseph J. Trainer, William E. Doyle, P. H. Kelly, Andrew J. Maloney, Joseph A. Cummings, William J. Wall and Michael J. O'Rourke.

Man Dies in Cell

Police Officer Charged with Intoxication

A man, who gave his name to the police of the Tenth and Buttonwood streets station as Robert Austin, forty-two years old, of 2232 Meredith street, was found dead in a cell last night, after being locked up on the charge of intoxication. The arrest was made by Clark, a patrolman, who had noticed Austin in a helpless condition at the corner of Darlen and Callowhill streets. At the Hahnemann Hospital it was stated that his death was due to alcoholism. The coroner's office is investigating the case.

Seen in the Chestnut St. Shops

There is a certain satisfaction in shopping at a specialty store. The specialist knows his ground, and one can rely upon the specialty shop for the best and newest things. Where can you find better things in the housefurnishing line, for instance, than at J. Franklin Miller's, 1612 Chestnut Street?

Deborah Regan

THIS has been such a delightfully mild winter that many of us have found it quite possible to dispense with the furnace fire except on the coldest days, using some auxiliary heating device instead. Just now, especially, such a handy sort of heater as the Perfection Oil Stove is most useful, and the announcement of a sale of these at the store of J. Franklin Miller, 1612 Chestnut Street, will be welcomed by the householder. A discount of 20 per cent is allowed from the standard price, which means quite a saving. The Perfection Oil Stove is well liked, for it is absolutely safe and very easy to handle. It is economical, too, and gives out a great amount of heat, warming a room in a very short time.

I'm not quite safe to say that "clothes make the man." Nevertheless, they count a great deal when it comes to making an impression—and accessories are most important. The effect of a traveling costume, however faultless, is spoiled if one carries a battered, unattractive traveling bag. It is one article on which you cannot afford to economize in any way but by buying the best. A well-made bag of fine leather, given an average amount of use, will last for years. If you're going south for the remaining winter months you'll most probably need a new bag, and it will be well worth your while to visit the leather goods department at the store of Bailey, Banks & Biddle Company before purchasing.

STRAWBRIDGE & CLOTHIER

A Splendid Selection of Dining-room and Library Furniture at a Reduction of 33 1/3 Per Cent and many things at 50 per cent reduction

When you are making comparisons of Furniture here and elsewhere, you will be sure to notice that the Strawbridge & Clothier prices, after the 33-1-3 per cent, has been deducted, are CONSIDERABLY LOWER than the February reduced prices elsewhere. Please remember that this is accounted for mainly by the fact that we HAD ALREADY REDUCED our entire stock from the 1920 prices; and the price from which you take off the 33-1-3 per cent, is the new lower 1921-price. But we have learned that in some instances the prices on the good old 1920 price-tickets to which some stores cling so fondly are about 20 per cent higher than prices on our regular tickets.

Our reserve stocks in our great warehouse at Ninth and Poplar streets are being drawn from very heavily every day—every day's selling far exceeding that of last February—but we shall have ample supplies for discriminating choice for days and weeks to come. It is only fair to say, however, that there are many single pieces and novelties, of which we have no duplicate warehouse stock, and which, when sold, cannot be duplicated.

Men's Neckties 25c
4200 Under Price

Not for many years have we been able to sell men's Neckties at this old popular price, and—as a matter of fact—we would not have been able to mark these so low were it not for a willingness on the part of the manufacturer to let us have the entire lot at a price concession. There are Four-in-hands and Half-wing Bow Ties, chiefly in a desirable poplin weave in many handsome patterns. Half price is a very conservative estimate of the value they present at 25c. Judge for yourself.

A new record! (on cards)

Library Bureau's latest additions to the many kinds of card forms are the stock record cards for phonograph dealers. (Catalog numbers 30-5551 and 30-5552.)

They show sales by the day and month. They enable a dealer to tell instantly whether a record is in stock—without going to the bins. Inventory can be taken, as one dealer says, "in about two hours and a half, whereas formerly it took as long as five days, with three sets of people, and even then was not taken correctly."

Library Bureau carries cards in stock for stock records, mailing lists, credit lists, follow-up records, card ledgers, sales records, etc.—for every conceivable kind of business.

L. B. cards increase the usefulness of any card record. They are uniform in weight, quality and size.

Tell us your requirements and we will send you sample cards.
