Breakfast Cloths, $2

Fluffy cloths of highly woven sized damask, a good weight, are 24 inches square, unhemmed.

Napkins, $3 a Dozen

They need to be cut and hemmed, but the white mercerized damask is in a good design and is excellent quality.

"Nice but too plain. I like fancy frocks"—so the young girl, speaking of her little old winter dress.

That's exactly what fashion says this Spring! "Let's change things," said she—"fuss them up a bit—make them express the spirit of dancing and song and happy Springtime breezes."

So fashion has created the most frivolously fluffy, swishy frocks—and the prettiest of them have just danced in at delightfully small prices.

Some of the makers heretofore created only for small specialty shops, but their one and two of a kind gowns are here now at $25, $27.50, $30, $32.50, $37.50, $39—a great deal cheaper than they expected to sell them.

Crepe de chine and taffeta frocks with rosettes—big and little rosettes and floating ribbons—one of the newest notes—at $22.50.

Taffeta frocks with panniers and naturalistic roses—reminiscent of Paris in the eighteenth century—at $25.

Twill frocks with slashed skirts showing glimpses of angel blue or copper-colored Georgette and with embroidered sleeves to match; imagine them at $25.

Charmeuse frocks with the new long bugle embroidery at $25. Taffeta frocks with the new scissor stitching at $22.50.

Taffeta with irresistible eyelet embroidery at $25. Nine-ruffle frocks of taffeta at $25.

Canton crepe frocks with eyelet embroidery in taupe, brown, flesh, silver and navy at $27.50. Long-waisted dresses—the newest fashion of Paris—have neckline girdles at $25 and $32.50.

"After Callot"—the frock pictured in navy taffeta with little sleeve puffs of henna Georgette and necklace beads at the sleeves and bead border at the very hem, priced $32.50.

Other frocks with ruffled aprons, with pocket draperies with many tucks, gleaming bits of metal, soft frills of dainty tinted laces—at $25 upward.

Black Hats for Evening

Made for gaiety and evening occasions, the hats are all light affairs. Many have transparent crowns of plain or fancy hair braid.

1200 Small White Towels, 10c

White cotton huck towels, of the sort that dentists and doctors use, are closely woven. 14x19 inches.

Men's Hats, $2.25

Tweeds and cloths, good-looking mixtures and the correct shapes for Spring. Some were bought specially and others were much higher in our own stocks.

Children's Princess Slips, $1 to $1.50

The nainsook is white and fine and the slips are well made. Pretty laces, tiny tucks, narrow satin ribbon and little flounces trim them.

Wise mothers will buy at least three, each, for their daughters.

A Sale of Flouncings $1.75 a Yard

The net flouncings are in two groups. One includes those that are 25 inches wide. These are ruffled ecru net, ecru net trimmed with lace and point d'esprit trimmed with blue, pink, white or yellow ribbon.

Organdie Flouncings

are 38 inches wide, in white, orchid, Nile, Copenhagen maize and pink with three or four pleated ruffles.

Lace Flouncing $2.50 a Yard
