A Good Plan Miss Florer

The system of "planting" in a na-ional tournament has never been per-nitted. For some unknown reason it has been considered unfair to place the players in opposite frames and draw the rest. As a matter of the present method of drawing the names is the unfair one.
By sheer luck, Bill Tilden and Billy observed a championship for the past we rears, but that isn't any sign that isn't any sign that isn't any sign that is will do so again. In fact it is uite a good sign that they won't. It is not likely that they again will be

In that event, their match would kill the interest in the entire tournament, because those two are considered today the greatest singles players in the world.

Even if two such players did not meet until the semifinals, the edge would be taken off the tournament if all of the real stars were drawn in one frame, not an impossibility by any means. This might result in some mediocre player meeting the next champion in the finals in a match that would be a super-ferce.

Philadelphia women usually get in good playing condition earlier than the players of most cities because they compete in the interclub league which begins its season early in the spring. The value of playing in this league has been shown by the excellent early summer form of some of our leading women players, notably. Mrs. Gilbert A. Harvey, Miss Molly Thayer, Miss Anne B. Townsend, Miss Phyllis Walsh, they again will be frames, although its worked out well, although there is still room for improvement.

> Intercity competitions always attract interest. In years gone by the high school athletes engaged in numerous contests with big schools in New York. Baltimore. Wilmington and Atlantic City. In late years the official heads have frowned on intercity competition and these trips, so cherished by the youngster have here placed under the youngster, have been placed under the Wednesday's contests.

Friends' Central School, however, has the policy of progressiveness mapped out by the principal of the school. Charles Burton Walsh, who has done such remarkable work in the develop-ment of scholars and athletes at Fifteenth and Race streets.

Friends' Central has made a very excellent showing in basketball, consider-ing the short time the school has engaged in interschool competition and the team this year compares favorably with quintets from the other private institutions. This will be a big week for the Quakers who look forward to the New York trip. New York Friends' the New York trip. New York Friends' will be played on Friday and the Brook-

The following day Brooklyn Friends will be played, and as these athletes were royally entertained here by the Blue and Gray, when they carried off the victory prior to their flying trip to Wilmington, the local squad hopes to get revenge. The Brooklyn game will be well worth witnessing. Coach Botsford will probably have Thomas in shape for this game. Lindsay, Ochser, Bonner or Thomas, Smith and Rowland will play in these games.

The Southern High School coach, Dr. Richard Kerr, really believes that when the downtown team plays West Phillies tomorrow they will win. Students and players share that opinion. Perhaps they are right. Southern has certainly made a remarkable recovery in the final series. The Potters, on the final series. The Potters on the final series of Barlow and Beckman.
