

Evening Public Ledger

NIGHT EXTRA

THE WEATHER Snow late tonight and Sunday; lowest temperature tonight about 25 degrees; colder Sunday; northeast winds. TEMPERATURE AT 10 A. M. TODAY

VOL. VII.—NO. 136 Entered as Second-Class Matter at the Postoffice at Philadelphia, Pa., Under the Act of March 3, 1879. PHILADELPHIA, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1921. Published Daily, Except Sundays. Subscription Price $4 a Year by Mail. Copyright, 1921, by Public Ledger Company. PRICE TWO CENTS

CARDINAL-ELECT OFF FOR ROME AS THROUGH CHEERS

Lipsing Good Wishes of Baby Grandniece Speed Archbishop on Journey for Red Hat

CROWDS LINE PARKWAY; OVATION AT HOBOKEN PIER

Cardinal-Designate Bestows Blessing on Philadelphia

The cardinal-designate was photographed this morning surrounded by his official guard of honor, prior to leaving for Hoboken. He will sail for Rome today to be given the red hat by the pope.

The leading good wishes of his two-year-old grandniece were among the enthusiastic outpouring of acclaim which Cardinal-designate Dennis J. Dougherty this morning as he left here on his journey to Rome.

The first Philadelphia train to be elevated in the College of Cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church, Archbishop Dougherty rode by special train directly to the pier.

The new prince-bishop of the church took on the rear platform of his special train as the train drew out of Broad Street Station at 8:42 o'clock.

He held his staff, hat in his right hand, exposing a red gaiter or skull cap of watered silk, as several thousand men and women, massed in the train shed, cheered his departure and wished him a safe and speedy return.

Conistory March 3 The Archbishop is the only American prelate to be raised to the cardinalate at a secret consistory in Rome.

Pope Benedict XV, will bestow the red hat on him formally at a public consistory one week later.

The Archbishop-designate, usually a reserved nature, fairly beamed his pleasure at the impressive greeting given him along the route of his passage from the Archbishopial residence on Chestnut street near Eighteenth to Broad Street Station.

But it is doubtful if any phase of the demonstration appealed to him as much as the low-voiced messages given to him by Mrs. Mary Boylan, his two-year-old grandniece, who saw her "Big Papa," as she calls the Archbishop.

Mrs. Boylan, 726 North Sixty-third street, was among the little group of relatives who still good-bye to their distinguished kinsman on the second floor of the Archbishop's house.

Heads Mass at 9 O'Clock A knot of men and women, some wearing buttons with the Archbishop's photograph, assembled before the residence before 9 o'clock. A detachment of the honor guard, including the Archbishop's knights, waited around the corner on Eighteenth street.

The Archbishop had read a low mass in the private chapel of his home at 9 o'clock, then had a light breakfast and a shower at a double line of waiting priests and novices in a reception room on the second floor.

At the first floor, in two ante-rooms, the Archbishop's knights, in full regalia of the Fourth Degree, each wearing a habit and a sword, some of which were also worn by novices.

A few minutes before 7:50 o'clock the light Rev. Michael J. Crane, junior brother general of the diocese, entered the second floor. A moment later the Right Rev. Nevin F. Fisher, senior vicar general, came in.

Through Arch of Vicars A group of 7500 o'clock James J. Ryan, a knight of the papal Order of the Holy Sepulchre, gave a brief report to the Archbishop. They formed a double line and bowed with gleaming dress swords, holding them in front of their chests.

The Archbishop, wearing a dark overcoat and a silk hat, walked back, passing the vestibule where some of the knights of the order were standing in the center of the hall.

A large number of pictures and with names was drawn on the picture as he passed to a vestibule, drawn by the Archbishop. The Archbishop on his way to Monsignor Fisher and

As the morning started slowly for the cardinal-designate, the sun was shining and the air was clear. The Archbishop, dressed in his habit and sword, walked back, passing the vestibule where some of the knights of the order were standing in the center of the hall.

As the morning started slowly for the cardinal-designate, the sun was shining and the air was clear. The Archbishop, dressed in his habit and sword, walked back, passing the vestibule where some of the knights of the order were standing in the center of the hall.

As the morning started slowly for the cardinal-designate, the sun was shining and the air was clear. The Archbishop, dressed in his habit and sword, walked back, passing the vestibule where some of the knights of the order were standing in the center of the hall.

ARCHBISHOP DOUGHERTY LEAVES FOR ROME

The cardinal-designate was photographed this morning surrounded by his official guard of honor, prior to leaving for Hoboken. He will sail for Rome today to be given the red hat by the pope.

MOTHER TAKES BLAME FOR SON

Philadelphia Man in Jealous Rage Had Shot New York Woman

"DIDN'T RAISE BOY RIGHT"

Mrs. Mary MacMonagle today is blaming herself because her son shot his wayward brother.

"I didn't raise him properly," she said.

Miss Dorothy Selzer, twenty-two years old, is in the Knickerbocker hospital in New York at the point of death.

The mother, an invalid, who for months has been able to be about only in a wheelchair, and just received a telephone message from another daughter who had come to New York.

"I was a terrible shock to me," she said.

"I got the news late last night, and Dorothy's sister, Mary, started immediately for New York. I'm so glad my girl has a chance to see her mother again."

Agostine had long wanted to take to himself a wife, and when his father and mother told him of the girl, he was overjoyed.

The young man was at Vine street when he shot his wayward brother.

Miss Alice Paul resigns

Leader of Women's Party Eight Years Says Goal is Won

Washington, Feb. 19.—(By A. P.) Miss Alice Paul, leader of the National Woman's party, officially resigned today from the organization.

In announcing her resignation, Miss Paul made known her intention to spend the remainder of her life in England.

The woman's party, which exists only in name, was organized in Philadelphia in 1913.

It was founded eight years ago to pass the federal amendment on franchise women.

The program will be strictly feminine to increase the power of American women.

LLOYD GEORGE MAN WINS Support of Coalition Elected in Carriagen After Tense Fight

Cardigan, Wales, Feb. 19.—(By A. P.) Captain Ernest Evans, coalition Liberal, who was supported by the people here, has been elected to the House of Commons.

SCHOOL CHIEF APPROVES "IT IS ME" AND "HE DON'T"

Chicago, Feb. 19.—(By A. P.) The expressions "It is me" and "He don't" are permissible for both school teachers and pupils in Cook County public schools.

Superintendent Tolson said the correct form "It is I" sounds stiff and even egotistical.

"It is me" is good old English," said Dr. Felix Schelling, professor of English at Penn.

"I has been foisted on the language by the grammarians, but I would like to see the old form return."

Volunteer members of the Haddon Heights Fire Co. burned two automobiles today.

Forty cars burn at Haddon Heights

Exploding Gasoline in Business Men's Cars Hamper Volunteer Firemen

Volunteers check spread

Within a half hour the garage, owned by David Hays, was in ruins.

The flames, which had been burning since 11:30, were extinguished by the Haddon Heights firemen.

Called in Half Hour

Within a half hour the garage, owned by David Hays, was in ruins.

The flames, which had been burning since 11:30, were extinguished by the Haddon Heights firemen.

Called in Half Hour

Within a half hour the garage, owned by David Hays, was in ruins.

The flames, which had been burning since 11:30, were extinguished by the Haddon Heights firemen.

Called in Half Hour

Within a half hour the garage, owned by David Hays, was in ruins.

The flames, which had been burning since 11:30, were extinguished by the Haddon Heights firemen.

Called in Half Hour

Within a half hour the garage, owned by David Hays, was in ruins.

FORTY CARS BURN AT HADDON HEIGHTS

Exploding Gasoline in Business Men's Cars Hamper Volunteer Firemen

Volunteers check spread

Within a half hour the garage, owned by David Hays, was in ruins.

The flames, which had been burning since 11:30, were extinguished by the Haddon Heights firemen.

Called in Half Hour

Within a half hour the garage, owned by David Hays, was in ruins.

The flames, which had been burning since 11:30, were extinguished by the Haddon Heights firemen.

Called in Half Hour

Within a half hour the garage, owned by David Hays, was in ruins.

The flames, which had been burning since 11:30, were extinguished by the Haddon Heights firemen.

Called in Half Hour

Within a half hour the garage, owned by David Hays, was in ruins.

The flames, which had been burning since 11:30, were extinguished by the Haddon Heights firemen.

Called in Half Hour

Within a half hour the garage, owned by David Hays, was in ruins.

The flames, which had been burning since 11:30, were extinguished by the Haddon Heights firemen.

Called in Half Hour

Within a half hour the garage, owned by David Hays, was in ruins.

The flames, which had been burning since 11:30, were extinguished by the Haddon Heights firemen.

Called in Half Hour

Within a half hour the garage, owned by David Hays, was in ruins.

The flames, which had been burning since 11:30, were extinguished by the Haddon Heights firemen.

SCHUCK VERGING ON COLLAPSE AS GRILL CONTINUES

"Give Me a Cigarette," He Cries as His Lawyer Wins Brief Respite

Verbal Pounding to Be Continued on Monday

Facts in Schuck's Trial for Murder of David Paul

The defendant, Ray in a red W. Schuck, nephew of well-known Camden family, former cashier of a Camden telephone office.

The victim—David S. Paul, messenger of Broadway Trust Co., Camden, who disappeared October 4 last, carrying $10,000 in cash and $2,000 in bonds.

The charge—First-degree murder. Schuck is accused as accomplice in the killing of Paul. Frank J. James has already been convicted.

The judges—Supreme Court Justice Katzbach, of Trenton, and Judge Kates, who opened the trial Monday.

Opposing counsel—Prosecutor Wolfertson, and J. Russell Carrow.

Raymond W. Schuck, nephew of well-known Camden family, former cashier of a Camden telephone office.

The victim—David S. Paul, messenger of Broadway Trust Co., Camden, who disappeared October 4 last, carrying $10,000 in cash and $2,000 in bonds.

The charge—First-degree murder. Schuck is accused as accomplice in the killing of Paul. Frank J. James has already been convicted.

The judges—Supreme Court Justice Katzbach, of Trenton, and Judge Kates, who opened the trial Monday.

Opposing counsel—Prosecutor Wolfertson, and J. Russell Carrow.

Raymond W. Schuck, nephew of well-known Camden family, former cashier of a Camden telephone office.

The victim—David S. Paul, messenger of Broadway Trust Co., Camden, who disappeared October 4 last, carrying $10,000 in cash and $2,000 in bonds.

The charge—First-degree murder. Schuck is accused as accomplice in the killing of Paul. Frank J. James has already been convicted.

The judges—Supreme Court Justice Katzbach, of Trenton, and Judge Kates, who opened the trial Monday.

Opposing counsel—Prosecutor Wolfertson, and J. Russell Carrow.

Raymond W. Schuck, nephew of well-known Camden family, former cashier of a Camden telephone office.

The victim—David S. Paul, messenger of Broadway Trust Co., Camden, who disappeared October 4 last, carrying $10,000 in cash and $2,000 in bonds.

The charge—First-degree murder. Schuck is accused as accomplice in the killing of Paul. Frank J. James has already been convicted.

The judges—Supreme Court Justice Katzbach, of Trenton, and Judge Kates, who opened the trial Monday.

Opposing counsel—Prosecutor Wolfertson, and J. Russell Carrow.

Raymond W. Schuck, nephew of well-known Camden family, former cashier of a Camden telephone office.

The victim—David S. Paul, messenger of Broadway Trust Co., Camden, who disappeared October 4 last, carrying $10,000 in cash and $2,000 in bonds.

The charge—First-degree murder. Schuck is accused as accomplice in the killing of Paul. Frank J. James has already been convicted.

The judges—Supreme Court Justice Katzbach, of Trenton, and Judge Kates, who opened the trial Monday.

Opposing counsel—Prosecutor Wolfertson, and J. Russell Carrow.

Raymond W. Schuck, nephew of well-known Camden family, former cashier of a Camden telephone office.

Wilmington Man's Cold Cured by $100 Prize

The winner of today's award had been suffering from a severe cold for the past few days, but the news that his limberick line had been chosen as the winner of the $100 prize had such a wonderful effect upon him that he was able to leave his bed and expect a total recovery within a few days.

LIMERICK NO. 51

A fellow who boarded a car Said, "How stupid these people all are;

For, night after night, They're jammed close and tight—

Like sheep, the poor lambs that we are."

There's Another Limpin' Lim'rick Today—See Page 2

2 BANDIT'S ATTACK WATCHMAN, STEAL MOTOR AND $500

Men Enter Auto Company's Place, 914 North Broad Street, Through Roof

PUT CASH REGISTER IN CAR AND ESCAPE IN DARKNESS

Bandits entered a garage of the Hatch Motors Co. in the rear of 914 North Broad street through the roof about 3 o'clock this morning, overpowered the watchman, put a cash register in an automobile and backed into the street.

The cash register contained more than $500.

The police were told by Thomas Walker, a Negro employed as a night watchman, that the two men stalled him for hours before they attached him.

He said that he was sitting in the office about 3 o'clock and found it too cold for him. He went into the garage part of the building to get a robe out of an automobile. As he passed a car a man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the building and seized him around the waist, pinning his arms to his side.

Dark in Garage

Walker said it was dark in the garage and that he could not see well. He said he was too startled and too frightened to shout for aid. A second man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the garage, took a cash register and a bag of money from Walker's pocket, searched his pockets, relieving him of his pistol.

Walker said that the two men went into the back of the building to get a robe out of an automobile. As he passed a car a man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the building and seized him around the waist, pinning his arms to his side.

Walker said it was dark in the garage and that he could not see well. He said he was too startled and too frightened to shout for aid. A second man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the garage, took a cash register and a bag of money from Walker's pocket, searched his pockets, relieving him of his pistol.

Walker said that the two men went into the back of the building to get a robe out of an automobile. As he passed a car a man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the building and seized him around the waist, pinning his arms to his side.

Walker said it was dark in the garage and that he could not see well. He said he was too startled and too frightened to shout for aid. A second man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the garage, took a cash register and a bag of money from Walker's pocket, searched his pockets, relieving him of his pistol.

Walker said that the two men went into the back of the building to get a robe out of an automobile. As he passed a car a man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the building and seized him around the waist, pinning his arms to his side.

Walker said it was dark in the garage and that he could not see well. He said he was too startled and too frightened to shout for aid. A second man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the garage, took a cash register and a bag of money from Walker's pocket, searched his pockets, relieving him of his pistol.

Walker said that the two men went into the back of the building to get a robe out of an automobile. As he passed a car a man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the building and seized him around the waist, pinning his arms to his side.

Walker said it was dark in the garage and that he could not see well. He said he was too startled and too frightened to shout for aid. A second man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the garage, took a cash register and a bag of money from Walker's pocket, searched his pockets, relieving him of his pistol.

Walker said that the two men went into the back of the building to get a robe out of an automobile. As he passed a car a man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the building and seized him around the waist, pinning his arms to his side.

Walker said it was dark in the garage and that he could not see well. He said he was too startled and too frightened to shout for aid. A second man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the garage, took a cash register and a bag of money from Walker's pocket, searched his pockets, relieving him of his pistol.

Walker said that the two men went into the back of the building to get a robe out of an automobile. As he passed a car a man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the building and seized him around the waist, pinning his arms to his side.

Walker said it was dark in the garage and that he could not see well. He said he was too startled and too frightened to shout for aid. A second man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the garage, took a cash register and a bag of money from Walker's pocket, searched his pockets, relieving him of his pistol.

Walker said that the two men went into the back of the building to get a robe out of an automobile. As he passed a car a man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the building and seized him around the waist, pinning his arms to his side.

Walker said it was dark in the garage and that he could not see well. He said he was too startled and too frightened to shout for aid. A second man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the garage, took a cash register and a bag of money from Walker's pocket, searched his pockets, relieving him of his pistol.

Walker said that the two men went into the back of the building to get a robe out of an automobile. As he passed a car a man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the building and seized him around the waist, pinning his arms to his side.

Walker said it was dark in the garage and that he could not see well. He said he was too startled and too frightened to shout for aid. A second man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the garage, took a cash register and a bag of money from Walker's pocket, searched his pockets, relieving him of his pistol.

Walker said that the two men went into the back of the building to get a robe out of an automobile. As he passed a car a man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the building and seized him around the waist, pinning his arms to his side.

Walker said it was dark in the garage and that he could not see well. He said he was too startled and too frightened to shout for aid. A second man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the garage, took a cash register and a bag of money from Walker's pocket, searched his pockets, relieving him of his pistol.

Walker said that the two men went into the back of the building to get a robe out of an automobile. As he passed a car a man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the building and seized him around the waist, pinning his arms to his side.

Walker said it was dark in the garage and that he could not see well. He said he was too startled and too frightened to shout for aid. A second man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the garage, took a cash register and a bag of money from Walker's pocket, searched his pockets, relieving him of his pistol.

Walker said that the two men went into the back of the building to get a robe out of an automobile. As he passed a car a man, dressed as a woman, stepped into the building and seized him around the waist, pinning his arms to his side.

HARDING TO IGNORE TIFLIS IN GRASP 'BITTER-END' POLICY OF SOVIET ARMIES

President-Elect Showing Indifference of Opinions of Senate Irreconcilables

Russian Troops Overrun Republic—Americans Flee to Batum for Safety

PUBLIC SENTIMENT TESTED GOVERNMENT FORCED OUT

By CLINTON W. GILBERT Staff Correspondent of Evening Public Ledger

Washington, Feb. 19.—The statement of President-elect Harding in St. Augustine, that he will not call an armistice conference, but will work for a settlement through the League of Nations, is a bold policy, and has little to be gained by the United States in the long run.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

The policy of the latter course has been to bring about a settlement of the Russian situation, and to remove a potent reason for the country's entering the League of Nations.

Harding Full of "Pep" President-elect Gets "Fit as a Fiddle" on Southern Golf Links. See Bob Maxwell's "Close-up" of the new Chief Executive on Page 14 of today's Evening Public Ledger

The Last Word "LADYFINGERS" Begin it at Once!