spreatic work. Catharine Morris dances very well, too, you know, and she and fement Kitson are to appear in a Chi-ner dance. More power to them, say I.

Time was when Philadelphia was famed for its little inner musical circles and dramatic societies. For a whole wister before the Sanitary Fair there was a succession of drawing rooms at which short plays were given, and on the programs of those days we find the names of Morris, Wister, Biddle, Lippiacott, Cadwalader and others. It is piacott, Cadwalader and others. It is refreshing to think that some of the reunger set are imitating the doings of the last generation and are making use of the talents given them instead of racing madly after unhealthful excitement and endless pleasure, as is most Time was when Philadelphia was
