Nancy Wynne Talks of Doings in Palm Beach—Miss Peggy Thayer Catches Large Fish Weighing Sixty-eight Pounds

IT DID try its best to snow yesterday morning, but somehow or other Sol was too strong for it, and it just naturally had to stop. And then what a day developed overhead! If a few of these keep up, we'll soon be going without coats, won't we? And talking of warm weather takes me down to Palm Beach in spirit, where it is warm and reminds me, I heard yesterday that Peggy Thayer who is visiting the Wardens down there, landed a sailfish which weighed sixty-eight pounds.

Furthermore, I hear that she caught it unaided. She could not have landed it unaided, of course, for it is longer than she is. It measured seven feet and three inches and it took half an hour to bring in. Isn't that exciting? Peggy Thayer and Rebecca Thomson are staying with the William Gray Wardens at their villa in Palm Beach. They are Bobbie Brockie's guests. Of course you know that Bobbie is Elizabeth Brockie, a sister of Mrs. Jack Mason, Jr., who was Agnes Brockie. They are the children of Mrs. Warden's first marriage.

SPEAKING of Peggy Thayer reminds me of Molly Thayer's book. Have you read it? It's really clever. I laughed and laughed over the description of the man whose hobby was color. Have you ever met anyone who told you that you represented a color to him or her? I have, and I know another person like that, who says that everybody she meets represents a letter in the alphabet to her mind. One of these told me one day that I represented a blush pink or sort of watermelon pink in her thoughts and the other that my letter was N. Watermelon pink I did not mind, because that is a lovely color; I rather took it as a compliment; but N— now what do you make of that, it might mean Nutty, Nothing, Nihil, Negative, Nonsensical—any one of those charming terms. I kind of question the compliment in that.

Well, in Molly's book there is a man who says that everything, not only people, but everything, represents color to him. Even a garbage can appears to be beautiful, for when he thinks of one, he sees squares of lavender trimmed in white. It's clever satire all right, and not a speck venomous. You will enjoy it, especially if you have met the types she describes.

I SAW Sara Penrose on the street the other day. She is looking very well these days. She was wearing a dark blue top coat, finished with a deep collar of squirrel fur which looked charming against her bright brown hair. Her hat was a sort of burnt orange toque and had an ostrich feather placed across the untumed front brim.

COLONEL and Mrs. John Muckle gave a delightful dance last evening at the Roosevelt. The guests of honor were the members of the Philadelphia Command of the British Great War Veterans of America and their wives. The Muckles will give a dinner on the fifteenth of next month for Floyd Tomkins Gibson before the meeting of Mrs. Stewart Wurts' class. Floyd Gibson is the son of Mrs. Percy B. Gibson, who is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Tomkins. Mrs. Gibson is perhaps better known as Dr. Gibson. She and her son live with Dr. and Mrs. Tomkins at 1804 Walnut street.

THE skating carnival was a great success last night. You know it was given under the auspices of the Delta Kappa Psi Fraternity which is one of the most fashionable of the girls' fraternities here. The frat supports Broomall Holiday House, which is kept up for convalescent persons who are dismissed from the hospitals and who really need rest before returning to their daily round of work. It's a great thing doing good work that way, and it reaches the younger girls as they join the fraternity, to devote themselves to good works.

LITTLE MARY is very fond of running in to see Mrs. R—, who lives next door. Her mother is very young and attractive and rather prides herself on her youthful looks, and as a matter of fact is not twenty-five years old yet. Well to make matters short, the other day Mary came running in to see Mrs. R— calling very loudly: "Oh, what do you think, it's mother's birthday today." "Is it, dear?" said Mrs. R—. "How" and was about to add "nice," but Mary forestalled her by saying: "How old? Oh, she's about seventy years old."
