Enforcement May Be Placed on Attorney General's Shoulders

Washington, Feb. 25.— (By A. P. A new plan for enforcement of prohi-bition is being discussed among Heoublican leaders as a prospective policy of the Harding administration. It contemplates abolishing the present dual enforcement machinery of the Treasury and Justice Departments and centrali nation of full responsibility and authority under the attorney general. Some leaders in the confidence of the President-elect say this plan may one of the early announcements in the new administration's program for reorganization of government agencies. Harry M. Daugherty, who is to be attorney general, is known to have dis-cussed the subject during recent conerences at the Capitol.

Whether the plan contemplates remissioner apparently has not been definitely determined. It is understood that all state prohibition enforcement agents would be dispensed with and the Department of Justice, through states district attornies and their local or augmented assistants.
