CHAPTER I TREAT HORNED OWL sat in a tre ontside Peggy's window, and hooted

"Hoo! Hoo! What shall I do? I'm far from home and hun-Great Horned Owl surely was far from home. Pergy and Billy had brought him with them from the South when they had flown back north the Wings of Imagination. Peggy and Billy hadn't wanted to bring him back with them, and he hadn't ed to come. But they had been olding him by his outstretched wings he couldn't nip them with his sharp beak, when of a sudden the Wings of Imagination had chrried all three to the North. Peggy had fled to her own bed Buly had darted home, but Great Horned Owl had been left outside in the tree, Peggy, roused from a sound sleep talked crossly to him through her closed window. She didn't dare have the winow open for feat ne might grab her "Go away, you bad bird!" she said disturbing all the babies in

Men's All-Wool Suits With Two Pair of Trousers Special at $32.50

Good Cheviots Flannels Some Cassimeres

If bought in the ordinary way, suits like these with only one pair of trousers would be cheap at $32.50 -not last year nor yesterday, but today! That gives you some idea of the extraordinary value.

The materials and the tailoring are something to be proud of. Every suit was made to our order. The collars are hand tailored, buttonholes are hand made and the finishing is carefully done by hand. The way the collar on each suit sets will be a satisfaction to the man who wears it, as long as that suit lasts (and that will be a good long while)!

All semi-conservative suits with two-button coats half-lined with mohair.

12 Different Patterns

The flannels are in plain dark green, blue or gray. The cheviots and cassimeres are in various good-looking mixtures in tones of gray, brown and green. Pleasant to feel such quality and know that it is again being put into suits within the reach of the average man's pocketbook!

All sizes 31 to 42-but remember the early bird!
