Nancy Wynne Tells of the Dancing in the Foyer After the Opera Performance Last Night—Charlotte Cushman Club to Have Benefit Next Week

BETWEEN opera last night and the second performance of "Why Not?" we had a lovely evening. And the first of the dancing in the foyer after the opera was inaugurated. That is, the Opera Supper Club is having a very successful season. The management has done well in the Academy of Music and light refreshments are served after the opera. Through the rest of the season, it seems to have been very successful. And it seems to have been very successful. And it seems to have been very successful.

MRS. SAM SHOBER has come on from the West again and she and Agnes have gone down to Atlantic City for a month's stay. The Shobers are in the Atlantic City. Mrs. Shober, who was Miss Agnes Hutchinson, has not been strong enough for this climate for a number of years. In the West she has here and now she is in Atlantic City. Agnes, her second daughter, made her debut this winter and has been living most of the winter with her mother. Mrs. Shober, who has also visited her Hutchinson relatives. She was introduced to society at a tea with her cousin, Dorothy Stearns, whose mother is Miss Margaret Huntington, a sister of Mrs. Shober.

HAVE you heard about the wonderful performance to be given next week by the various stars at the Charles Cushman Club? It is to be held at the Walnut Street Theatre on Friday afternoon, March 11, and John Drew, who has always been interested in the Cushman Club, will come over from New York to take part. Francis Williams and Miss Woff Hopper will appear. Mrs. Frank Timney, members of the Honeydew company, in fact every leading player in town of first-class standing will be there.

Mrs. Samuel Chase will give a box party and Mrs. James Elverson will have another box full of guests. Mrs. George Fales Baker will give a luncheon before the performance and will afterwards be in the show. Mrs. Chase and Mrs. Pope Ventman will give a large party, too. It sounds most interesting to me.

The devoted board of managers of the Charles Cushman Club is getting on the hunt for the new house which they recently purchased and have put into order. It is the house 1010 Spruce street, which was formerly the Sunday school building. It has accommodations for fifty-two girls and all those who have been there say it is a gem. The Charles Cushman club is for the women of the stage, principally the chorus girls and understudies whose salaries do not warrant their stopping at the leading hotels and who for a comparatively small sum may find at the Cushman club and have the safety and comfort of a good home. The nation of the house has been there since the club started and knows most of the girls who have stayed there. It is a gem. The Charles Cushman club is for the women of the stage, principally the chorus girls and understudies whose salaries do not warrant their stopping at the leading hotels and who for a comparatively small sum may find at the Cushman club and have the safety and comfort of a good home.

MEMBERS of the Junior League in this city will be interested in the report that the Junior League children school will be given at the Waldorf Astoria for the next three weeks. All the Junior Leagues are holding such schools in New York and show that members in New York are active and are doing such clever work.

The entertainment, which is called "Musical Chairs," will be one of the social events of the season and will consist of a series of various periods. It is illustrated by songs and dances, including Chinese, early English, Renaissance and Mid-Victorian. Eugene Cassatt, Rachel Price, Madeline Stewart, Polly Hancock, Mrs. Edward Ingersoll, Given Martin and a number of others are members of the Junior League in this city.

I SAW Mrs. Louis Landon on Chestnut street yesterday looking very pretty in a tailored suit of dark blue leather cloth. Her hat was a rather small model of dark blue and was trimmed with an ornamental band of blue ostrich, which was placed straight up the center of the hat over the crown and down beyond the narrow brim at the back. She wore a black lace gown with a cluster of that new Agnesella gray baby lamb, which is so fashionable this year. NANCY WYNE.
