

MARION FRIENDS BID HARDING GODSPEED

Present President-Elect and Mrs. Harding With Silver Plaque

GATHERING OF PLAIN FOLKS

Marion, March 2.—President-elect Harding's neighbors in Marion and nearby towns have gathered in the town of Marion today in a formal farewell to the President-elect.

Marion school and business houses closed their doors for two hours to observe the occasion, and as the first front porch meeting began, church bells and factory whistles mingled their voices in a sonorous message of good-will.

As part of the farewell ceremony, the city presented to the President-elect and his wife a silver plaque which bore the inscription "Marion's Blessing to You."

This presentation of the front porch meeting was Mr. Harding's last engagement for the day, which was held by the Marion friends, and which will be the last of his engagements in Marion.

The program in regard to the fare-well meeting was arranged by the Marion friends, and was held at the Marion school building, which was the scene of the President-elect's last public appearance in Marion.

For his last in the presentation address, Mr. Harding, in his address to the Marion friends, spoke of the many kind words and good wishes which he had received from the friends of Marion.

Before leaving last night for Chicago, Mr. Harding, in his address to the Marion friends, spoke of the many kind words and good wishes which he had received from the friends of Marion.

SLAIN SLEUTH HAD FORGED WARRANT

Defense in Mingo Trial Forces Prosecution to Produce Bogus Paper

FOR HATFIELD'S ARREST

William, Va., March 2.—Three weeks will be laid by the defense in the trial of Albert Felts for the slaying of a woman in Mingo, Va., when it is proved that the warrant for his arrest was forged.

The warrant was produced by the prosecution, and was found to be a forgery. The original warrant was produced by the defense, and was found to be a genuine one.

The defense attorneys, in their argument, stated that the warrant was forged by the prosecution, and that the original warrant was produced by the defense.

The judge, in his decision, stated that the warrant was forged, and that the original warrant was produced by the defense.

12-INCH STILETTO HIDDEN IN SLEEV

Chester Detective's Quick Action With Pistol Disarms Man Who Threatened Him

Media, Pa., March 2.—State detective James Melt probably saved a twelve-inch blade stiletto from a would-be murderer today.

The three detectives went into a restaurant and returning to the station they were again confronted by the man.

Latina was immediately locked up in the county jail by O'Toole and Deputy Sheriff J. Alfred Howard pending the trial.

On May 1, 1919, Mildred Melt, seventeen-year-old daughter of Detective Melt, was abducted from her home in Chester. She was held in a hotel in Philadelphia for two days.

She was unresponsive for days, but she was eventually released and returned to her home in Chester. She was also arrested, but he was not held.
