

JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Nancy Wynne Speaks of Philadelphians in the South. She Hears of Various Comings and Goings—The Biddles Move Into Fifth Avenue Home

WASN'T it wonderful yesterday? Such gorgeous sunshine until the middle of the afternoon! I hope the sick people (so many have the grippe, you know) will start getting well quick now that spring weather keeps up...

SPEAKING of those dolman coats, Mrs. James Francis Sullivan has a unique one of seal skin made with a side collar of sable and sable cuffs...

DID you know that attractive Mrs. Henry Lippitt has been on here from San Diego visiting her mother, Mrs. J. P. Almy? How so, you say? The elder, those two boys, Coleman, of Chicago, whose stepmother was that attractive Miss Nannie Wilkins, who formerly lived in Philadelphia...

I FAIRLY gasped yesterday when I heard that box parties for the Mask and Wig are already being arranged. But my goodness, it's only twenty-four weeks off. Even Lent goes fast these days, there are only twenty-four more days before Easter. It seems unbelievable to me. Why, it was only the other day that I was trying to decide what to give up for Lent. Well, I happened to hear Anne Ashton saying that she was going to have a Mask and Wig party, and then I suddenly came to, and the first thing you know we'll be hearing about the Savoy Opera Company and what Gilbert and Sullivan they will give this year.

I HEAR that the Tony Biddle, Jr., has moved into the house which Cordelia Duke formerly occupied on Fifth avenue, New York. You know, it's that beautiful white marble house, the Metropolitan Museum. The Biddles have made a number of changes in the furnishing and inside construction of the house, and I hear that to give up a bird who was over in New York recently told me she had seen Mrs. Biddle and that she was looking extremely well and in perfectly good health. A bird who has been such a happy marriage. Tony is an awfully nice fellow and Mary with all her millions, is totally unspooled.

THE prize plays of the Plays and Players are to be given at the clubrooms next Monday and Tuesday nights. I just love to go to these performances. They never give the names of the authors, but the best thing considered from all points of view, these three are acted and the audience votes for the three pieces of merit. The plays that have been chosen by the committee, which includes Mrs. Eli K. Price, Mrs. Joseph Conover, Mrs. Miriam Lippincott, Dr. Daniel Hoyt and John Luther Long, are "Among the Pines," "The Accomplish," and "The Return of the Spirit." It's great fun guessing who wrote them. I would not miss going to hear them.

I SAW her walking along Locust street just the other day. She was looking awfully fetching in a light brown top coat and a mushroom hat of velvet. And in her eyes was that far-away, unmissable look. Keep your eyes open and you may have a chance to see her soon. NANCY WYNNE.
