The underlying cause of the smouldering breach between the two bodies gues far desper than the matter of the reinstatement of Bhilling as a Jockey. He is getting up in years and at the age when his worth as a rider will be on the down grade. The milk in the cocoanut is that the New York bookmakers, who dominate racing in New York about the parl-muturis are in Yogu. The New Yorkers are tust as dead set against facing in Kentucky and Canada as they are in Maryland, because those races break the backbone of the bockmaking syndleats.

One of the propagandists of the book-parkets states that Kentucky and Canada ikely would side with the lockey club in a clash with Maryiand. The wish is evidently lather to the thought.
