RED SHANNON MITTS CONNIE MACK, SIGNS CONTRACT AND DONS TOGS; CARDS STOP A'S WINNING STREAK

BACK here at their spring home Connie's Mackinus Lake Charles, La., March 9. today are wondering how their winning streak, after three victories in a row over the St. Lose Cards, had been broken vesterday. But there isn't much of a puz-

ale. The four errors chalked up against the Athletics. three of which were costly miscues, solve the A's mystery, which is another way of referring to the D to 5 decision of Branch Rickey's baseballians. Manager Mack, the lean one, is not thinking of that defeat of yesterday so much as his hirelings are. What is of more importance to the tall tactician today is the outcome of his conference with Red Shannon. The brick topped person, who shortstops for a living when he has a Job in his favorite profession, has signed his contract. Shannon, who sometimes is called Maurice because he is known in tea circles as Red, reached the training camp here last night.

Maurice had 'Charley Horse' or something in his right, or writing hand, so he was unable to "sign them But at a conference with the Shibe Park salon all differences were adjusted and Maurice donned a uni-

While on the subject of late arrivals, it might be of interest to the folks in Philly that Izzy Hoffman also answered to the rollcall of "ham and ---Izzy isn't going to be of any assistance to Mack here The only connection between Counic and Hoffman is that the latter, who is a Philadelphian, was recommended by Mr. McGillieuddy as manager of the Lake Charles Club. Hoffman is here to consider an offer for that job. He is expected to start Connie Macking for the local aggregation some time today,

SHANNON evidently is alad to be here with the boys. He has been proving it all day by shaking the respective right mitts of every one here under Mack's guidance. Red is so pleased to meet some of the players that he has shuken them by the hand several times in his enthusiasm.

Macks Start Scoring Too Late

GETTING back to that game over at Orange, Tex., yesterday, fans, it just proves that you never eva tell in baseball. For three days it looked very much as if the Mackmen had the well-known Indian sign or the Cards. But the latter stacked us finally and they were entitled to the spoils and everything that went with the

The A's did some befty bitting, all right, but at a time when it was entirely too late. The St. Louisans sewed up the match, put it on ice and the Mackmen did not have a chance after the fifth inning. At the finish of that frame the National Leaguers took the field with a 9-love score in their favor.

After a scoreless session in each half of the sixth Connie's club wielders flared up, knocked out sufficient slams to garner three runs and added two more in the ninth round. It isn't necessary to state that St. Louis did not have to take its fling at the bat in the ninth. ?

Pitcher Moore, of the Mack staff, punched his was into the spotglare by busting the bulb for a circuit in the final inning. His four-ply wallop came with J. Walker on the paths, the latter having been given a walk by Schupp, who once upon a time used to be a New York Giant,

Sports Editor, Evening Public Ledger A low, heavy, dark and gloomy sky usually benefits the hurler. Such conditions did support the St. Louis moundsmen for seven innings; still there were a number of long hits that came in clusters—at times, mostly for the St. Leu batters. A home run, a pair of triples and as many doubles were the extra-base slams contributed by the Cards. The A's, on the other bat, could do nothing like that, excepting the aforementioned homer by Moore.

> INCIDENTALLY, it might be noted that Pitcher.
> Moore's circuit clout was the only Mack blow for extra bases. Also, this young heaver was the only Counte curver to blank the opposition.

A Good Start With a Dismal Ending

A good getaway means anything, we might hand the palm to the A's for that at least. They got under way nicely, and right away those who saw the Orange game resumed their howls of "Lemon," directing that unkind cut at the Heydler pastimers. Galloway was hopping around near first a few seconds after the game started. was a pretty hit. Then Griffin died, after which Hornsby, the Rogers, came in for a roasting when he oozled a hard grounder by the Tillie member of the

But Welch proved a good asset for the Cardinals when he dumped into a double play, and the Athletics did threaten thereafter until the seventh inning.

Hasty was bastened to the hill first for the American Leaguers, and he turned back the opposition in the first vo rounds. But he didn't fare as well in the third. Clemons opened with a bomer over the left field fence After two men were retired Mueller slashed out a double and the second run was chalked up on Fournier's scream-

Rollie ? aylor was the next man to get slammed. He cent into the box in the fourth, a brace of counters being made that round on hits by Hornsby and Dilheefer, nided and abetted by errors on the part of Dykes and Galloway The lifth was a nightmare for our A's and ruined Naylor. Solid slams by Fournier, Hornsby, McHenry and Dilhoefer were responsible for a five-run bunch to the Cards' credit, and the old ball game went flooie.

Naylor then fooled every one, including himself, by a reversal of form in the sixth. Only three men faced him that session, the St. Louis batters going down in one, wo, three order. Rollie worked so well that he was given the rest of the afternoon off. Then Moore stepped into the pitching picture and from then on the Cards were kept runless. The seventh found Mackmen slamming the pellet hard, T. Walker, Welch and F. Walker were the crowning persons in accumulating three runs, but Mays was sent in to relieve Haines and Dykes, J. Walker and Moore went out on strikes, consecutively and respectivel Ferdie Schupp was the St. Louis slabster to get dammed for the Mackmen's other two runs, after he had struck out Dykes and threw two strikes at J. Walker. Ferd lost control, however, and Johnny was passed, after which Lefthander Roy Moore stepped in with his crash over the right field wall.

TODAY the A's will attempt to get back in their stride of before yesterday. But the Cardinals have something to say, too. Their debate will be decided here in Lake Charles.
