SELECTION OF WOOD PLEASES STUDENTS

Penn Publication Points Out Election of General as Provost Is Still Unsettled

TRUSTEES ACT IN APRIL

The Pennsylvanian, student daily at the University of Pennsylvania, expresses satisfaction at the candidacy of General Leonard Wood as the next provost. It is also doubtful of the authenticity of the report of the general's coming election.

"That General Wood has been appointed," begins the editorial, "and has accepted the provostship of the University of Pennsylvania is another example of downtown publicity. The fact that nothing formal has been accomplished and although his candidacy will be considered at the next meeting of the trustees in April, the certainty of the announcement is absolutely without proof. News is the publication of facts, not the enlargement of rumor.

"To have General Wood as head of our institution would be beneficial and advantageous to the University, but before we can shout 'Long live the king' we must be certain of his succession."

Harrison Issues Statement

At the end of a two-hour session here yesterday, when General Wood met seven members of the University's board of trustees, Dr. Charles Custis Harrison, trustee and former provost, issued this statement:

"General Leonard Wood's name will be placed in nomination at the next stated meeting on March 21. It is necessary that two stated meetings take place before a provost can be elected. The second stated meeting will be in April. General Wood, therefore, could not be elected before April."

Beyond expressing his deep interest in the University, General Wood was noncommittal to interviewers after the meeting. He said that any announcement must come from the board of trustees.

General Wood left for Chicago en route to the Pacific coast. He has been detailed to investigate conditions in the Philippine Islands for President Harding. His task there, it is believed, will be finished by June. Should he be elected provost in April he will be notified by cable.

Members of the faculty expressed an unwillingness to be quoted on General Wood's candidacy, but it was the consensus of of opinion that he would be admirably fitted to carry out the plan for the enlargement of the University, with its attendant campaigns for money and its building program.

Penn Editor Approves

Charles I. Thomason, editor-in-chief of The Pennsylvanian, said:

"I think General Wood's selection would be the biggest thing that has happened to the University in a number of years. He would help largely in carrying out the new program for the extension of the University. He would, moreover, be a figure of which the University could be justly proud."

John C. Tebbasse, president of the senior class, said:

"I think General Wood admirably qualified to be provost. But, I see no reason for talking too much until it is certain he will be the next provost."

Samuel Bradley, a senior of the Engineering School, said:

"I believe General Wood admirably fitted to head the University in all ways."

Trojan Kodding, news editor of The Pennsylvanian, said:

"General Wood would be the man to carry out plans for the enlargement of the University, but a man of greater scholastic attainments, such as Dr. Penniman, would be better suited to head the scholastic phase of the University. It would be unfair to burden General Wood with both duties."

FIRE IN PACKING HOUSE

Felin & Co.'s Establishment Menaced by Early Morning Blaze

A fire broke out on the sixth floor of the pork-packing establishment of John J. Felin & Co., 4142 Germantown avenue, at 5:20 o'clock this morning.

The upper floor of the large concrete building is used as a storeroom for burlap and paper bags, rope and twines and odds and ends used in the packing of meats. The blaze was extinguished by means of chemicals and without causing any confusion among the scores of employes who were already at work.

The fire was discovered by an elevator operator. Its origin is not definitely known, but firemen believe that some one made a bed for the night on the burlap bags and smoked there.

FIREMAN'S RIBS BROKEN

Motorcar Hits Him as He Unhitches Horse

Frank Hartman, thirty-one years old, of 826 Morris street, attached to Engine Company 10, at Eighth and Morris streets, was standing outside the engine house unhitching a horse when struck by an automobile and knocked down. He suffered two broken ribs and internal injuries. He is in the Methodist Hospital.

David Steigerwalt, of Snyder avenue above Twenty-first stret, driver of the motorcar was arrested and held for a hearing this morning.

Company 10 responded shortly after 8 o'clock to an alarm from Eleventh street and Oregon avenue. When it arrived there it discovered no fire. Upon its return Hartman leaped from the apparatus and went to the head of the team when he was struck.

NEW SCHOOL HEAD TAKES UP DUTIES

Dr. Broome Studies Conditions Before Conference With His Four Associates

Dr. Edwin C. Broome, newly elected superintendent of Philadelphia schools, began his first actual duties in that capacity today, arriving at his desk in the Administration Building Nineteenth and Ludlow streets, at 9 o'clock.

His mail contained many letters and telegrams from educators in other cities congratulating him. At 10 o'clock he conferred with the four associate superintendents.

Dr. Broome announced he would devote much of his time the next few weeks to visiting the schools, meeting principals and teachers, appraising the school buildings and observing the methods used in conducting classes.

The new superintendent came here yesterday, lunched with members of the Board of Education, and attended a meeting of the board. Last night he addressed several women's clubs in Germantown and commended the women for their interest in educational problems, and moral and social questions.

On Saturday Dr. Broome will attend the annual meeting of the high school teachers in the William Penn High School. Roland S. Morris, ambassador to Japan, and Dr. Broome will speak.

Next Wednesday evening he will speak at the closing exercises of the evening schools of the William Penn High School and the Central High School.

On Thursday afternoon of next week he will address the Philomusian Club, and Thursday evening he will be given a reception at the Academy of the Fine Arts by the Philadelphia Teachers' Association.

WILL AIDS LITTLE SISTERS

Institution for Poor Receives $7000 From Henry Johnson

The Little Sisters of the Poor in this city was named as the sole beneficiary of an estate valued at $7000 in the will of Henry Johnson filed with the registrar of wills today. Mr. Johnson died at Vineland, N. J.

Other wills probated were those of Henry Wood, 4936 North Fifth street, dividing an estate valued at $16,000 in private bequests; Howard S. Vandegrift, 5016 Kingsessing avenue, disposing of an estate of $7500, and Margaret G. McGill, 5119 Kingsessing avenue, who left $5500.

Letters of administration were granted the executors of the estate of George J. Crumble, 1344 West Westmoreland street, who left property valued at $61,525. Mr. Crumble was for many years a druggist at Broad street and Allegheny avenue. The heirs to the Crumble estate are his widow, a son and two daughters.

The executors of the estates of Ella Johnston, 3129 Diamond street, who left $5350, and Katherine A. Leisenring, of 1740 Mt. Vernon street, who left $5125, were also granted letters of administration. Inventories of personal estates were filed as follows: Alice J. Wiltberger, $14,790.65; Joseph Hayes, $7160.69, and Effie Jamison, $5108.44.

Girl's Assailant Released in Bail

Judge Davis, in the Gloucester County Court, today agreed to release Charles Conners, convicted of an attack on a young woman of Gloucester, a year ago, on $10,000 bail pending his appeal for a new trial. Conners was sentenced to fifteen years and was to have been taken to Trenton Monday.

WOMEN ASK STATE RIGHTS AS JURORS

Schuylkill Group Leads in Preparation of Bill for Assembly

ALTER UPHOLDS THEM

A delegation of Pottsville women will attend a meeting to be held here in a few days to arrange for the presentation of a bill to the State Legislature affirming the right of women to serve as jurors.

The Pottsville women are indignant over the decision of Judges Koch and Berger, of Schuylkill county, that women have no right to serve on juries.

Rather than take their fight for jury representation to the Supreme Court, which would mean a year's delay, the women of Schuylkill county are co-operating for the preparation of a bill which can be put through the present Legislature.

Though there has been confusion through the state in regard to whether women have a legal right to serve on juries, Schuylkill county is the only place where the jury privilege has been denied them.

The women of the state plan to combine on the jury service bill in case the question is raised elsewhere.

An important development in the controversy is an opinion given by Attorney General Alter, which is interpreted as meaning that women have a right to serve on juries.

"The law relative to the qualification of jurors in Pennsylvania," said the attorney general yesterday, "provides that a juror shall be a qualified elector. I have already issued a decision on the eligibility of women to hold office."

Mr. Alter here referred to an opinion given Governor Sproul December 22, 1920. Judges of the Common Pleas Courts yesterday agreed with Judge Audenried that it would not be right for women to serve in certain cases. They said, however, they did not think the constitutional right of women to serve as jurors would be questioned.

These judges, interviewed yesterday, refused to be quoted on the holding of Judge Koch, of Pottsville, that women were ineligible for jury duty in this state.

The question was a topic of discussion in women's club circles yesterday. The Women's League for Good Government registered its opinion.

A resolution was passed urging Senators Woodward, Patton and Dalx to oppose Senate bill No. 1, which proposes to exempt women from jury service.

The resolution is as follows:

"Whereas, Women feel deeply their obligations to fulfill all the duties of citizenship, And

Whereas, Jury duty based on the principle of the right of the individual to be judged by his peers, should provide protection for both men and women, And

Whereas, Many of the court cases stigmatized as unfit for women's ears involve women who have the basic right to be judged by their peers,

Resolved, That the Women's League of Good Government ask you to oppose to the utmost Senate bill, No. 1.

SCHOOL FUNDS SOUGHT

Bryn Mawr Scholarship Holders Must Pay $200 More

Tuition rate increases at Bryn Mawr College may seriously affect the college careers of young women there on scholarships furnished by the Board of Education.

The board has paid $100 each for the eight scholarships won by high school girls of the city, and under the new schedules $200 additional is needed. As funds are low in the Board of Education treasury, it is declared the additional amount asked by the college cannot be provided.

Miss Mary K. Woodworth, a scholarship student, said the increase in tuition rates is a blow to many girls holding city scholarships, especially those just beginning courses. "The girls in their last year, she said, will be able to 'scrape through.'"

Miss Isabel Maddison, dean of the college in the absence of Dr. M. Carey Thomas, the president, declined to comment on the suggestion of Mrs. Anna L. Lingelbach, of the Board of Education, whose resolution has requested that Board of Education scholarship students now at the college be exempted from the new rates.
