

WHAT'S WHAT
By HELEN DUFFIE

came her daily task to finish at least one playing for her fellow sufferers. Today in New York, Mrs. Averill owns and superintends one of the largest doll hospitals in the United States. When she left the hospital, she determined to make her way despite her infirmity and her initial capital consisted of two undressed dolls and a couple of packages of dye, together with a packet of drygoods remnants. The first two dolls were placed on sale in the lobby of a Portland hotel, and before the day was over the management had contracted for her entire output. The venture paid for itself as it went along and now Mrs. Averill has the twofold satisfaction of knowing that she is industrious and also that she is helping children to find a new joy in life.

PHILLIPS-BARNETT RECITAL
Excellent Program Given at Concert in Foyer of Academy of Music
Miss Hossie Phillips, contralto, and Miss Gladys Barnett, pianist, gave an interesting joint recital in the foyer of the Academy of Music last evening before a large and manifestly friendly audience. Miss Phillips and Miss Barnett followed the excellent, but too seldom used, method of selecting their entire program from works which have proved their worth instead of following the modern method of overloading a program with "new" material of doubtful musical value. The result was a program of which every number was well worth both performing and hearing.

Miss Phillips opened the recital with a superb group of songs by Schubert, Schumann and Brahms. Her voice is a fine contralto, of abundant power and even in quality and strength throughout its whole register. It is no reflection on Miss Phillips' musicianship to say that she did not at all times get the full musical content out of her gigantic program, one which would have taxed the artistic capabilities of a Matzenauer. She has voice and method and all that is needed is more experience to make her one of our best concert singers. Besides the songs mentioned she sang an aria from "Samson et Dalila" and songs by Hahn, Massenet, Holmes, Gounod, Chabwick, Cowen and Beach.

Miss Barnett showed a fluent technique and considerable interpretative ability, with a pleasing tone of moderate power. She was evidently a little nervous in the Beethoven group, which resulted in an occasional wrong melodic note, but as a whole her playing was clean and forceful, both in execution and musicianship. Besides the three Beethoven numbers she played the Serenata Sonata in A, the "Rosamunde" impromptu of Schubert and smaller numbers by Chopin, Arensky and Tchaikowsky, closing with the D flat etude of Liszt.

THE QUESTION CORNER
Today's Inquiries
1. Describe a good-looking cover for the card table.
2. What makes some of the newest wool sports sweaters strikingly different?
3. In what cases may an ink spot be removed from a silk fabric?
4. How may the head and foot of a plain iron bed be made more attractive?
5. Describe an exquisite fan that would not be hard to make.
6. With the dark serge dress, what kind of sort of giraffe could be worn?
Yesterday's Answers
1. A pretty, low heel is a practical feature that is part of the newest French shoe.
2. For the baby, a quaint little fancy rib is embroidered, and has a row of leading attached to it at the bottom, through which pale pink ribbons are drawn.
3. When food must be cooled quickly, an easy method of accomplishing this is to put it in the top part of a double boiler, and place it over the other part, which has been filled with ice-cold water.
4. The type of waist-line seen on a number of up-to-date dresses is high, with a narrow giraffe placed at least four inches below it.
5. An unusually attractive and different-looking table lamp has an orange parrot, edged with tiny tassels for a shade, and this is held aloft by a Japanese lady. Putting edges a novel scarf for a hat.
