Riding Out to the Soldiers' Home One Day With Abraham Lincoln

his friend discovered that the President, like many others of us, had the habit of loading his trousers' pockets with little scraps of paper culled from the newspapers and magazines.

"A weaver sat at his loom

Flinging his shuttle fast,

And a thread that should wear till the hour of doom Was added at every cast."

Who wrote the verses the writer does not know. Possibly Mr. Cox in the Book Store will

Men's Spring Suits and Overcoats

What it is that makes all normal men more glad to put on new clothes in Spring than at any other time, there is no need to go into. Whatever it may be, it seems very natural and very good.

This is to let all men who feel this eagerness for a newer and fresher appearance know that new Spring suits and overcoats of the finest ready-to-wear kind made in the United States are shown in splendid variety in the Wanamaker Men's Clothing Store at prices on an average about 35 per cent less than those of last Spring.

A substantial lessening of price without any lessening of quality is a good proposition.

A substantial lessening of price with a distinct improvement in quality is still better. This last is what these suits and overcoats stand for. This season they are better and finer in fabrics, making and finish.

They come from those particular clothing organizations with intelligence enough to know that for their own interest it is good to put quality into their product. The one object of these organizations is to excel, and they know how to achieve it.

They surely have achieved it in the suits and overcoats that we are now showing in such fine force for men who want to walk in the front rank of fashion this Spring and Eastertide.

It is surprising, too, what good, firm silks are used in these ties. We haven't had anything like them at the price for years, Surely the opportunity for a man to get his Spring neckwear! Main Floor, Market
