

BASEBALL WRITERS WILL HAVE A GOOD REASON TO RAPP THE GIANTS' NEW THIRD BASEMAN GIANTS SHOULD WIN PENNANT IF TEAM CAN WALLOP THE BALL, SAYS OPTIMISTIC JOHN M'GRAW

By ROBERT W. MAXWELL,
Sports Editor, Evening Public Ledger.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, March 16.

THIS is the first pennant-winning training camp I have visited thus far, but there are thirteen others to be heard from. Connie Mack admitted he had hopes of finishing as high as seventh. Branch Rickey will be perfectly satisfied with third or better, but John Jay McGraw, manager of the Giants, has boosted the ante. He is out to win the pennant, and is not keeping it secret.

"If this ball club does any hitting," he said, "we will slide under the wire first and make our bow in the world's series. The stickwork is the only thing which worries me now. The pitchers are coming along better than was expected; the catchers are high class and the outfield is well taken care of. Therefore, all that remains is to develop a consistent attack and win some ball games. I believe we will do that."

All of which means John Jay is taking an optimistic giant leap forward for the upcoming season. He has made forty-two advances, starting around the diamond, down home, and there are some likely looking young stars on the map. He sees himself that the "Brookies" are of a much better grade than ever before, and his scouts did some swell ivory hunting in the past season.

There was but one place to be listed, third base, and Goldie Rapp is expected to step into the breach. He is the $15,000 prize captured from St. Paul, and nobody on the circuit has kicked off with a kind word. All agree he is the goods, and who can lay the blame on me? In words to that effect. All that now remains is for him to start the come-back.

The big study has been down here three weeks and is rounding into shape. The weather has been unusually good and the players developed rapidly, especially the pitchers. It looks as if the team will get away to a good start, which was not the case last year, when most of the important work was done in freezing weather.

"THE bad streak has got to end," said Mr. McGraw. "The pitchers did not measure up, and when they fell down, the rest of the club did likewise."

Good Hitting Needed

"BUT it is a different story. The boxers are going good. Last year George Kelly was an excellent example. Few believed he would stick through the season, but he did, and developed into one of the best fast boxers in the league. Frank Ellis is another. He now is the best infelder in the league and is a star at either second or third. Young has another year's experience under his belt and will be much better. The outlook is encouraging, and all I want now is some consistent hitting."

At that, the well-known manager is worried about his infidel, Barnesett, is not in the best physical shape and might crack at any time. The stellar shortstop is a fragile person, is hurt easily and can't stand the strenuous grind. He had stomach trouble twice and was sent to Syracuse. He worked under Patsy Donavan there and also in Newark in 1914. Last year in Toronto he won twenty-six and lost seven games. He is back now, the others are back, and he should be back to do a service.

Reserve Eddie Linn, from Akron, a man for himself. It is Ed Brown, recently of San Antonio, and he plays center field. Brown is a second edition of Bill Lange of the olden days. He hits well, is fast, a sure fielder, and if there is any weakness, it is in his throwing arm. McGraw says he is the smoothest-looking batter he has seen in years, and is perfectly satisfied with his work.

"I am reported that Brown has a weak arm, but this is not true because he has been able to throw as well as the others. He spent the winter with Bascomett in Acapulco, and when the flappers came, he said, 'It is such as this, he is sure to cap a regular health.'

Jennings Big Asset

ANOTHER young pitcher who looks good is Curtis Walker. He was with Atlanta in 1919 and part of last year, finishing the season with the Giants. He is fast and a good hitter. McGraw says he will try to keep him. Leo King still is on the job and probably will be used against left-handed pitchers the same as last year. Spenser is showing up well.

Alex Gustaf of New York, N. J., wherever that is, looks like a good catcher. He was purchased from Milwaukee, and his work this spring will win him a place on the Varsity. He is a smart backstop, something needed here for some time, and fits in with McGraw's system of play. He will be seen in minor games this summer. Snyder, Gomber and Smith are the veterans, and will remain. It is likely that Hendrie will be sent back to the bench for another year.

McGraw has one very good assistant in Hugh Jennings. The former Boston milie is full of pep, knows the men on their toes at all times, and does his work smoothly and without a trace of caginess. Jennings' own stake for McGraw, however, is a wax about him that will stick. He has been working with the pitchers and getting good results.

"THE old guard, consisting of Alvin, Boston, Tamm, Barnesett, Barnesett, Sherrill, Salliere, among others, Peacock and Weems, does not impress Bill. Peacock had a fair record, and was dropped by Barnesett, Peacock, Pat Sherrill, and the other club, and old-timers at Brooklyn. He seems to be good. Barnesett, Kelly, Tamm, Barnesett, Frank Barnesett, Barnesett, Bob Gandy, Jim Gandy and Charlie Dempsey, the leaders of Brooklyn Days, who is with us six seven weeks ago, took the door, are the others for the fast seven weeks back to do a service.
