

JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Nancy Wynne Chats About Miss Baker's Engagement. She Sees Several Smart Costumes—And Notices Rummage Sales on Chestnut Street

ARE there not funny coincidences or happenings in the world? Not really funny, but not the word I really put on my tongue. For instance, Miss Baker's engagement to a man from San Antonio, Tex., set me thinking about the other Baker girls and it suddenly struck me how odd, and how funny, it was that three of them, all of which begin with the letter B, should be married in July. You know, to Ethan Shepley of St. Louis, Linda to a man from St. Paul, and here is Juliana engaged to Dr. Nison, of San Antonio. It's funny how those things happen. There are the games were the same. Louise married Marshall Morgan and Anna married Marshall Seal, and they are unusual names, too. I and I know of another family name, the name of a married girl, whose name is Isabel. They must get terribly mixed at Christmas and Thanksgiving family gatherings, wondering which one should answer to the name. They are the nicest family of sisters. Six of them, you know—Rachel, Frances, Juliana and Jack Bell, and Linda, who is Mrs. Ames. Sophie is to be married in July, and I understand a definite date has not yet been set. Juliana's street on Tuesday afternoon, and she was looking very attractive in a sort of gray-blue, checked hat to match it. Her hair is bobbed, you know, and she has a bit of a droop in one eyelid, which gives her a decidedly piquant expression. Her most attractive hair is in curls, and very thick and curly, and her eyes are dark, too.

I saw Margaret Dunlap the other day and she looked perfectly lovely. Her color is so pretty and she has such a beautiful smile. She was wearing a golden brown duvetyne dolman and a large hat of henna-colored crepe de chine, which was trimmed with small henna-colored flowers. Margaret always wears large hats, and they are most awfully becoming.

I HEAR that Miss Louise Wood, Mrs. George Lormier and Mrs. George Fales Baker are to preside at the tea table at the Charlotte Cushman Club's tea tomorrow afternoon. You know that the board of managers will give a tea for the stars who took part in the benefit last week at the clubhouse. I think it will be an interesting afternoon.

RUMMAGE sales seem to have broken loose again. I haven't seen or heard of any for a long time, and then two weeks ago there was the one for the Seventh ward charities, and now yesterday and today there are two full-fledged ones going side by side, or almost side by side, at Seventh and Chestnut streets for the Wellesley College fund, and about four doors from here, nearer to Sixth street, there is a huge sale for the benefit of St. Edmund's Home for Crippled Children. And the things are fascinating. Furniture and clothes, and ornaments and books, and I can't tell you what all. I'm going to stop there today for sure, who knows but I may find a marble mantle clock or one of those lovely clothe trees, you know the kind that stands in the corner of your room and when you wake up at night and see it in the shadows with clothes hanging on it, you just about pass out because, as in the case of the spinster who spent her life looking under the bed for a possible burglar, you think: "Well there he is at last!"

But joking aside you do get wonderful things at rummage sales and there are a great many persons who use like things that others do not like and a rummage or white elephant sale gives you a chance to get nice things cheap. Besides all this these affairs are for very good causes. It's a wonderful thing to help along those poor little cripples out at St. Edmund's, and in these days when education means more than ever, it's certainly wise to keep up our colleges as best we can.

THE baby went to see her grandmother the other day and somehow she could not quite understand that "Nana" was expecting her hair dresser and so had put her hair up rather loosely, and that was why it was not in its usual well-groomed condition, and also, he said, that this "Nana" is young and very pretty. Well the baby looked her and looked at her, and could not make it out. "Nana" must be sick, and when nurse came to take her she said: "Well goodby, Nana, I hope you'll feel better soon, your hair does not look nice today."
