How to Prepare Garlic

The clump of garile looks somewhat like the bulbs of various plants. It has a thin white skin covering, which holds the many little clove-shaped sections that form the bulb. Remove this skin and separate the cloves. Remove the skin from each clove and drop each one in a pint fruit jar. To two bulbs of the garlie add one and one-half cups of boiling white wine vinegar. I am very glad you appreciate our efforts to help you. And I am sure "Hutch," "Jack" and myself will render to you any assistance we can possibly give you should you be in need of it. I have just given my "Three Cheers" for Cynthia's column, it sure is great. A KENSINGTONIAN.

Achieved Much at Twenty-five Dear Cynthia-In answer to "Wonder

ng" I agree with her about these jazz trards. I left home at the age of fourteen on account of undesirable conditions and since that I have always had a stronger passion for work and study han anything else. Dancing to me is all right for those who make their living at it, but I have found that the most ordinary boy or girl can dance, and not much of anything else, so naturally their progress is very limited. I never cared to learn it, as I have seen some of the results. Soon after the war three of us started in business, and the employing end was left to me to build up a good organization, all applicants were thoroughly investigated as to their habits, the company they kept, and how they used their spare time.

Of course, it won't be too late for you to learn, in fact it may be a little early, as many of the hospitals require eighteen years as the age limit. But there is a great need for nurses and it is fine that you want to take up this work. You can go into training to become one at any of the hospitals in the city.
