

CHARGE STILLMAN USED FALSE NAME

Banker Alleged to Have Posed as the Husband of a
Mrs. Leeds

SHE HAS 2-YEAR-OLD SON

New York, March 17.—The possibility of "peace without publicity" in the James A. Stillman family appeared most remote today and both sides in the banker's divorce action evidently are getting set for a bitter-end fight.

On Mrs. Stillman's part it became evident that efforts were not to be confined to defending her own reputation and defeating her husband's attack on the legitimacy of her baby son, Guy. An assault upon the banker's behavior was made, it transpired, in an affidavit obtained by Mrs. Stillman's lawyers connecting the banker's name with that of Mrs. Florence H. Leeds, formerly of 64 East Eighty-sixth street, present whereabouts not disclosed.

Mrs. Leeds is represented as a woman of humble origin and good looks, whose sudden rise from small parts in Broadway shows to mistress of luxurious town and country establishments, will be made the subject of inquiry when the issue is joined in court. Mrs. Leeds is the mother of son, born in September, 1918.

Coincident with the revelation of the existence of this affidavit came the declaration that the defense was possessed of another, made by a chauffeur who represented himself as able to identify Mr. Leeds and James A. Stillman, president of the National City Bank, as one and the same person.

Of interest in connection with the existence of this affidavit was the statement made here yesterday by a former maid of Mrs. Leeds that she, too, had asserted that photographs of the man she had known as Mr. Leeds and published pictures of the banker depicted the same person.

While neither side made an overt move in the court battle yesterday, lawyers appeared to be less optimistic of bringing the whole controversy to private conclusion than they had been for several days and the prospect was that Supreme Court Justice Morehouse would be called upon to hear arguments on motions either the end of this week or the first of next.

Incidentally the justice made it plain yesterday that there was to be no "in camera." Taking a definite position against star chamber proceedings, the justice declared himself determined to hear all arguments in open court after he had conferred in White Plains with John F. Brennan, of Yonkers, one of Mrs. Stillman's legal staff.

CAPE MAY TAXES HIGHER

Slight Increases Noted in New Jersey Township Rates

Wildwood, N. J., March 17.—The tax rates for the various cities, boroughs and townships in Cape May county were made known today by the county tax board. The county and school rates will be made known later.

In most of the places there has been an increase over last year, the state bonus for soldiers and the appropriation made for the Delaware River bridge and North Jersey tunnel being one of the main factors in the increase over last year. Ocean City, Upper township and South Cape May rates are a little lower than last year. The rates are as follows: Avalon, 3.515; Cape May City, 4.420; Cape May Point, 4.80; Dennis, 5.10; Lower township, 3.265; Middle township, 5.022; North Wildwood, 4.542; Ocean City, 4.31; South Cape May, 3.19; Stone Harbor, 5.100; Upper township, 2.774; West Cape May, 4.411; Wildwood, 4.654; Wildwood Crest, 3.551; West Wildwood, 4.072; Woodbine, 3.523. These rates are on the $100 valuation.

AWARD CAN'T MEND HER BROKEN HEART

Divorcee Says $30,000 Doesn't Pay Her for Being Disillusioned

BARED SOUL IN COURTROOM

Pittsburgh, March 17.—Even when the man "pays and pays and pays," it isn't worth a woman's while.

This is the opinion of Mrs. Emma Snyder, golden-haired, violet-eyed young divorcee who was awarded $30,000 damages by the jury which heard her breach of promise suit against Thomas J. Stephens, prominent engineer and the father of three children.

Mrs. Snyder smiled bitterly yesterday as she recalled her love affair with the engineer, and its disastrous ending.

"Money cannot pay a woman for the loss of her name and her self-respect," she said. "Money can't restore a woman's faith in human nature. Money cannot make up for the ordeal through which I went—baring my very soul to those twelve men and that judge and that awful courtroom full of people. I told things on the stand which, two years ago, I wouldn't have told my mother. I permitted the exhibition of those pictures of myself in negligee-pictures which were made because I loved Mr. Stephens in such a way that everything he asked of me was a sacred duty."

"Do you suppose $30,000 can pay me for that? No."

"When I sued Mr. Stephens, I sued him because I wanted to hurt him a little, because he had hurt me as only a man can hurt a woman."

"Of course, I am grateful for this money. I should be utterly ridiculous if I did not admit that it means a great deal to me."

ART GIFT TO READING

Sixty Fine Paintings Presented to City by Philadelphia Woman

Reading, Pa., March 17.—At the meeting of the Reading school board last night it was announced that a collection of sixty paintings, valued at $90,000, had been presented to the public museum and art gallery by Mrs. William Littleton Savage, of Philadelphia, as a memorial to her parents.

Mrs. Savage is the youngest and only surviving daughter and child of George de Benneville Keim, who was president of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, and a granddaughter of the late George May Keim, of Reading.

Among the paintings presented is a beautiful Corot. Diaz is represented by three superb examples, and there is a French scene by Gasin. Troyon, Jules and Rousseau are represented among the Barbizon artists, and also Michetti, Vinck, Corrodi and Achenbach.

When General George May Keim died in 1901 he had a very large and extensive art collection. It was sold in New York city. There were 285 numbers in the catalogue. Among the paintings was a sketch of Salvatore Rosa, a famous Italian landscape painter, born in 1615, which had been the property of Bertel Thorwaldson, Danish sculptor, who presented this sketch to the sculptor Patrich, from whom General Keim received it.

FREED OF WHISKY CHARGE

Pennsylvanian Arrested for Having Booze in Auto

Baltimore, March 17.—(By A. P.)—Isidor Zelman, of Pennsylvania, arrested by Maryland state police on a charge of violating the Volstead prohibition act by entering the state in an automobile containing a bottle of whiskey, was released on a writ of habeas corpus yesterday by Judge William H. Harlan. Following his release, federal prohibition agents followed Zelman from this city to Belair, Md., but no report of his rearrest had been received here last night.

Judge Harlan said he had freed Zelman because he did not believe the state police had authority to make arrests for Volstead law violations unless requested to do so by federal authorities.
