

The Soiled White Sox Having Fouled Out, State's Attorney Crowe Is Now to Have Inning

DODGERS BOAST FEW STARS, BUT ROBINSON BANKS ON TEAMPLAY

Pitching Staff, Which Was Biggest Factor in Winning Pennant Last Season, Expects to Repeat This Year—Hard Club to Beat

By ROBERT W. MAXWELL,
Sports Editor Evening Public Ledger.

New Orleans, La., March 18. YOUR Uncle Wilbert Robinson is standing pat this year. He has decided to play the cards when he wins the 1920 pennant and allow the others to try to fill their hands. In other words, the same line up which was used in the previous pennants in the world series can be substituted this year, and the round robin is perfectly satisfied.

"What's the use of changing?" he asked. "We have a good pitching staff, a good outfield and fair infield and catchers. Not many stars, but the team has been together for four years now."

For his part, the veterans are working out twelve day in the marks, either down in Detroit or for two seasons. The regular championship derby starts on April 13, but before that time some twenty-six exhibition games are played. It is the Ringers, which is another way of referring to the New York Yankees. Therefore the Ringers have to put 180 games under their belt before anything can happen.

Robins does his best to add weight over the chances of his club in a permanent run. He figures the other entries have not been strengthened to any great extent. The Red Sox, in my opinion, are winning the hard and well wrangled. However, the players are human and the manager is human, so we will have them in play—but not at the expense of the pending game.

There was no change in the staff, save the change of the manager of the stars' special to myself. Zeb Wagner, Harry Meigs, Sam Sisler, Burleigh Grimes, Outfielder Head and a coach with named Miller, who is passed off from Atlanta, and first base coach with named Ely. Head, Ely, and I decided to prolong the winter vacation before signing the papers. This should have made things easier for Robinson. But it didn't. He'd admitted his strength lies in the marketing department and he devoted most of his time to the blues.

G. A. and additional big team stars to the staff this year. Walter Johnson has been recalled, as well. Masone's place, and already on the shelves, is that Robinson put the better of the deal. "It's all right," with the new with Paddy, George, Smith, Matchett, Gehrke and Mooney, with Duke, Miller, and George Hobart to fill in.

Post a Fixture

THERE was no change in the stars, but only one will stick. His name is Sam Post and he has been with Post with the Pittsburgh club, but Brooklyn claimed him at the waiver price, and it looks as if it's history. But Brooklyn claims him at the waiver price, and it looks as if it's history. He is a right-hander—meaning Post—and has a lot of stuff. Eddie Phelan, a left-hander, is poised up from the sand lots of Buffalo, and Schneider, of the Cleveland League, are not yet ready for the big show.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the water polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Intercollegiate League Final Swim Standing

SWIMMING		M	W	L	P.C.
Team		8	6	3	1,000
Princeton		8	5	3	.625
Yale		7	4	3	.521
Pennsylvania		7	3	4	.357
Cornell		6	2	5	.250
U. N. Y.		8	0	8	.000
*One Columbia-Penn game not played.
WATER POLO		M	W	L	P.C.
Team		8	6	2	1,000
Princeton		8	5	3	.625
Yale		7	4	3	.521
Columbia		7	3	4	.357
C. N. Y.		8	2	6	.250
Pennsylvania		6	1	5	.100
*One Columbia-Penn game not played.

QUAKER SWIMMERS DEFEAT PRINCETON

Penn Mermen Win Tank Victory, but Lose Water Polo Match

CAPTAIN ARMSTRONG STARS

The University of Pennsylvania's swimming team scored an impressive victory over Princeton last night. Coach George Kistler protégé beating the Tigers 22 points to 21. The meet, which was staged in the Weightman Hall, was won by the visitors, this over the Tiger tank team. Princeton won the polo game.

Miller Armstrong, captain of the Quaker team, was the individual star, winning two first places. Armstrong's first victory came in the fifty-yard race, when he beat Shriver, the Princeton star, to last place in a stirring finish.

Princeton's swimming team, however, did its favorite event, the relay, running the tables on H. Driscoll, Princeton, who recently beat the Quaker star in the meet at Tigueon. Frank Kohler continued his good work in the plunge for distance, covering 74 feet in nine before the minute had elapsed.

The Princeton chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the water polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and Shrank Stars 1 to Princeton, while Collins, Holloman and Farnham did the best work for the Quakers.

Robins spends much time with his pitchers. He gives them a thorough course of practice, paying particular attention to the fielding. Every pitcher is taught to have the ball hit to the left of him. Then they must learn to hold runners on the bases, especially at second. Fielding and throwing to the cards are the two forms of exercise, and before the training season ends, the young men will be ready.

The Brooklyn chapter was the 1920 masters as far as the polo team is concerned. The regular polo team defeated the Quakers 49 to 11. Butler and