Levy Proposed as Means to Raise New Revenue for Highway Purposes

HAS SUPPORT OF SPROUL

By the Associated Press

Harrisburg, March 24.—Establishment of a state tax of one cent a gallon "on all gasoline sold in this commonwealth except for the purpose of re-sale," to furnish funds for highway purposes, is provided in the administration gasoline tax bill introduced into the House of Representatives today by Chairman Dawson, of the ways and means committee.

All revenue raising measures must originate in the House and the ways and means committee takes charge of them. If passed the tax becomes effective September 1.

The gasoline tax revenue is to be paid into the general fund of the state and half of the money collected in each county is to be returned to it "for the purpose of the construction, reconstruction, maintenance and repair of roads and highways and for the payment of interest on county bonds issued for road purposes."

The payment to counties is to be made February 1 and August 1 each year. The other half is to be used by the state Highway Department for construction, maintenance and repair of roads, being specifically appropriated for the purpose.

Every person or concern selling gasoline at wholesale or retail must make a report to the auditor general under oath by the fifth of each month, of the sales of gasoline, except what was sold for resale, during the preceding month, and at the same time pay the tax. Failure to report or pay is penalized by a 10 per cent addition to the tax to be estimated by the fiscal officers of the state.

The auditor general and state treasurer are given authority to send agents to inspect books and papers of persons or concerns in the business to verify returns. Refusal to furnish information is made a misdemeanor as is failure to make return, the making of a false or incomplete return, avoidance of a full return or of payment of the tax.

The penalty for conviction of violation of the act is a fine not exceeding $1000 or, in the case of an individual, imprisonment not exceeding six months or both. This penalty is to be in addition to the 10 per cent to be imposed for not making a return or failing to pay.

TO CLASSIFY RAIL MEN

I. C. C. and Wage Board Preparing Scientific Alignment

Chicago, March 24.—(By A. P.)—Scientific classifications of railroad employees are being prepared by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission's Wage Board.

A force of experts has been engaged in compiling the classification data for the labor board for the last six months. An attempt has been made to secure a uniformity of designations for all occupations doing exactly the same work. Classifications now in existence have been criticized, it was said, because men of varying degrees of skill were placed in the same class and the same occupations were designated by different names on different roads.

"RAIDING PARSON" QUIT

Pittsburgher Says He Resigned as Dry Agent When Term Ended

The Rev. Dr. W. M. Wootton, Pittsburgher "raiding parson," denied today as he passed through this city on his way to Atlantic City, that he had been dismissed from the promotion fund $200 today in the court of his attorney. He said he resigned voluntarily.

"Mine was a special appointment," he said, "and was for six months only. I consented to remain there until longer, when my term expired last December, so I might open up the court work. That three months has now expired. I am on my way to Atlantic City to re-appear."

"It was an injustice to say I was dismissed. I might add also that all the time I served never presented an expense account, all my expenses being paid by my congregation."

In reply to an interjection from Representative Alexander, Representative McBride predicted the 5 per cent tax on gross receipts of boxing matches and the license fees would yield $350,000 a year.

MAGISTRATE IN ROW WITH POLICE CHIEF

Carney Threatens Lieutenant Marple With Arrest in Hearing Dispute

TELLS HIM TO LEAVE BENCH

During a verbal tilt today between Magistrate Carney and Lieutenant Marple, in the twentieth and Walnut street station, the magistrate threatened to place the lieutenant under arrest for breach of the peace. Lieutenant Marple then left his station house until the hearings were concluded.

The trouble arose when Lieutenant Marple objected to the manner in which the magistrate was handling several cases that had come before him. Magistrate Carney then ordered the lieutenant to leave the bench. He made his threat when the lieutenant hesitated.

One of the cases in dispute between the lieutenant and the magistrate was that of William Gallagher, thirty years old, 407 Brighton street. According to Louis Duboney, 2313 Fairmount avenue, entered the shop with a revolver in his hand and demanded $100. He was arrested after a chase. Magistrate Carney discharged the man. It had been testified the revolver was unloaded, the man intoxicated, and the butcher not directed.

Lieutenant Marple wanted Gallagher held for court.

Another case grew out of the arrest of Joseph W. Wilson, 2222 Walnut street, on a charge of operating a still. He was accused of disorderly conduct and discharged by Magistrate Carney. Lieutenant Marple wanted Wilson held for court.

Following this District Detectives Peurson and Layton returned home and arrested John Norvick, forty-five years old, 254 North Forty-third street, and Stanley Chinsky, thirty-five years old, 307 North Forty-third street. The men had gone to the house and Norvick had a jug of liquor, it was charged. Chinsky put up a fight and was clubbed. It was further charged that the next day a man called at the station house and tried to bribe the detectives to get the men off.

Louis Solomon, 2208 Fairmount avenue, was arrested, charged with offering the bribe.

The three men were held by Magistrate Carney under $1000 bail for a further hearing Sunday. Lieutenant Marple wanted them held for court. This precipitated the argument.

CENSOR NODS AS CORYPHEES

SHOW PEP AN' EV'RYTHING

Display of Nether Limbs by Agile Danvers Fails to Shock

Because They Are Only Male Mimmers From Penn

Here's a more trouble for Mayor Moore.

A performance that smacked of sea dogs and salty scenes, and which, incidentally displayed some gown creations that were evidently designed to display the ankle and the wrist, to give plenty of opportunity for strenuous dancing was staged this morning on two blocks from the City Hall and without the slightest censorship.

These was one green gown, with pink ribbons, and incisions, or something like that, at the sides pretty nearly up to the knee, which caught everybody's attention as they walked.

The Atlantic City Boardwalk last Sunday is not likely to have anything better, and there were others, too.

There were Mrs. and Mrs. Weak Fish, played by F. H. Lydard and J. H. Hoff, who portrayed Sancho Panza and Dolores in last year's production of "Don Quixote." A facelike pair and they drew the laughs.

Watch for That Green Gown

But it remained for 12:15 to bring out the feature. A Russian dancing troupe, six playing costumes, all rigged up in Russian gowns, in a perfect whirlwind of motion, and some results till the audience's collective head swim.

That was fine. Charles Morgan, the director, who usually has a chat to say at dress rehearsal, kept very much to the wings today, but he came out to watch that dance, and he seemed pleased, which is a compliment that means something.

Except for the fact that when an eloping pair tried to climb over the rail, they found the ladder missing, and on another occasion some of the chorus came in and some did not, the show went smoothly.

And, to come back to that green gown—well, as we said before—it was some gown, even for these days.

MAY ASK BRITISH TO GET BERGDOLL

Washington Considers Requesting Ally in War to Demand Slackers of Germany

DIRECT DEMAND POSSIBLE

By a Staff Correspondent

Washington, March 24.—Developments in the Bergdoll case have taken a definite turn in the direction of accomplishing his return to the United States.

Inquiry at the State and War Departments today indicated that the report that a formal request for Bergdoll's surrender by Germany may have been premature, but that this will undoubtedly be made very shortly if the notes have not already gone forward.

Secretary Weeks announced he had turned over all the Bergdoll information to Secretary Hughes, and asked for advice as to the method to be employed in bringing Bergdoll back.

In addition to asking Bergdoll's return, the administration is about to take steps to obtain the release of Carl Neuf and Frank Heimster, the army intelligence agents who were captured in their abortive attempt to kidnap Bergdoll.

Three Moves Likely

Today's developments indicated that three separate movements are likely to be set on foot to bring Bergdoll back. The State Department will seek to enlist the aid of the British Government to bring Bergdoll back to England on a forged British passport. Great Britain and Germany are at peace, and such a move would be possible.

If England gets her hands on Bergdoll she will surrender him to the United States on a request from this government.

If it is found feasible under the terms of the armistice, the War Department, through General Henry T. Allen, commanding the American army of occupation in the Rhine area, will make a formal demand on the German military authorities for Bergdoll's return as an escaped military prisoner.

Direct representations will possibly be made to the German civil government through Commissioner Diesel, representing American interests in Berlin, in an effort to accomplish his return.

One of these methods is certain to prove successful in the opinion of government officials here, and it is regarded as only a question of time until Bergdoll is brought to this country, probably to stand a new court-martial and an extended term in a military prison.

The three men were held by Magistrate Carney under $1000 bail for a further hearing Sunday. Lieutenant Marple wanted them held for court. This precipitated the argument.

Today's winner was selected by 517 members of William P. Roche Post, No. 21, American Legion, at a meeting held at the Paschal Free Library, South Sixth street and Woodland avenue. Photograph on back page.

Tomorrow's winner was selected by a jury of Quaker City taxi drivers and office employees, 1211 Vine street.

Under cover of darkness and without any other protection than a smoke screen from heavy fog, a team of men from the Paschal Free Library, South Sixth street and Woodland avenue, attacked ten limps in limps near a city line Tuesday night, and as a result nine were beaten. No. 2 position on the ballot is intact and at present writing is flying a hundred case note. This indicates, according to the other winners, that the limerick was written to enter into conversation with the butcher, the baker and the milliner—particularly the milliner—with a view to arranging a temporary truce.

Today's winner managed to land—despite an unwritten law against winning twice—because this line got on the ballot other lines but one got at least a vote apiece from the jury of fifteen, so it was no chinch for the winner.

After the Evening Post was formed were limerickers themselves for some time. Their judgment was certainly critical enough.

It seemed to take out of the old head and our dignity out Darby was for those little season, because many of those fellows under $1000, in my own mind and cognate to taste like, and we could save reminiscences about "combin des oeuvs" it took to make a run omelet.

An Uncertain Moment

The minutes of the last meeting had just been read when Mr. Roche said, "Something like a salute was given the commanding officer. That's a good one, and for a minute we had an awful hunt, that we had gotten in where we don't belong. Saluting is what helped to make us bald and worried for about fifteen months. We feared about it because we were afraid of getting it, and we were standing at attention."

Joyously we hobbled forward and distributed the ballots.

It was a good evening for the Evening Public Ledger, which had been chosen, the Post held a private limerick contest. First prize went to Lewis Greenstein. Two guesses as to what this limerick is about:

A certain young man wouldn't hitch To the draft because Emma was rich. Then the fatherland did And your Uncle he cried, "Be a pick."

As for the second prize, what is it?

NATIONAL R. R. PACT UPHELD BY JEWELL

Negotiating Rules on Each Road Would Cost Workers $6,000,000, He Says

PRESENTS LABOR'S CASE

By the Associated Press

Chicago, March 24.—Negotiating rules and working agreements on each individual railroad as proposed by the railway executives would cost the railroad workers more than $6,000,000 and require the services of more than 3000 men, it was stated before the railroad labor board today by B. M. Jewell, president of the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor, in presenting the labor side of the controversy over national rules and agreements.

The request of the conference committee, composed of the Association of Railway Executives was granted," said Mr. Jewell, "and the national agreement abrogated by decision of the board, remanding the subject matter of rules and working conditions to the respective railroads and committees of their employees for conference on individual lines, the employees' conference committee on each railroad would necessarily be composed of at least one man from each craft at each point on the railroad."

"For the 107 roads listed, the figures show that the services of 3158 committees would be required at a total daily expense of $55,770 and a total expense for ninety days of $5,018,442, besides additional expenses."

Proposes Conference Committee

"Much of this enormous expense on both railroad management and railroad labor, together with the consumption of valuable time of the highly skilled and essential railroad officials and railroad employees, should be eliminated by cooperation between railroad management and the recognized railroad labor organizations through the creation of a conference committee authorized to represent on the one hand railroad management and on the other railroad employees of their particular crafts."

He cited figures to show that 95 per cent of the 65,770 railroad management men and the recognized railroad labor organizations through the creation of a conference committee authorized to represent on the one hand railroad management and on the other railroad employees of their particular crafts."

PENN HAS GOOD PROPHECY

Cattell Says Words Spoken Years Ago Have Made Good

City Statistician Cattell cited William Penn as a man of foresight, in an address this morning before the student body of Harford College.

The city statistician declared that Penn in his time, had prophesied that 150 years hence, Broad and Chestnut streets would be the center of the most valuable real estate of the city.

Mr. Cattell declared the government of the United States to be the most firmly seated in the world, because of the individual responsibility of the people.

URGENT UNIVERSAL AGREEMENT

As representing the federated shop crafts employees, we hold that an agreement applying alike to all railroads will be a great benefit to the workers in assisting the establishment of efficient and economical railroad operation.

"It will remove the costly labor turnover, which always has existed to a greater or lesser extent and is due mostly to the fact that wages and conditions of employment on one railroad were more favorable than upon another railroad."

Mr. Jewell's statement is expected to occupy several days in its presentation to the labor board, following which the labor side will present numerous exhibits on the various rules and principles of the national agreement.

ASK HARDING'S AID IN DISARMAMENT

Philadelphia Friends Inform President Time is Ripe for U. S. Leadership

Washington, March 24.—Asserting the time is ripe for the United States to take the lead in bringing about world disarmament, a Philadelphia delegate of the Society of Friends called upon President Harding yesterday, presenting him with a memorial urging immediate action in that direction. The delegation was composed of W. B. Harvey, George M. Warner, Walter T. Moore, Dr. Edward G. Rhoads, Harold Evans, Dr. Arthur C. Jackson and J. Henry Scattergood, all of Philadelphia, and David H. Forsyth, of West Chester, and William Hiddle, of Lansdowne.

President Harding is understood to have taken the delegation very sympathetically, but he did not comment beyond that he did not comment himself. The question of disarmament is known to be a part of the President's plan for an association of nations, but at no time, before or since his inauguration, has he indicated a definite intention of calling a disarmament conference in the immediate future.

A score of disabled war veterans, representing the National Disabled Soldiers' League, called on President Harding to urge him to proclaim the week beginning March 29 for the consideration of legislation for wounded and sick soldiers.
