With Paulette Barred, Art Fletcher Is Only Dependable Infielder on Donovan's Staff-New Manager Must Reconstruct Team-Not Hard to Get Players

> By ROBERT W. MAXWELL Sports Editor Evening Public Ledger Gainesville, Fla., March 28.

WERE it not for seven other ball clubs, we could come right out flatfooted today and say that the Phillies would win the National League pennant. But the secon other clubs on the Heydler circuit have something to say about it. hence soft prdal on the opening chorus.

Having taken a look, we can assert without reservation that the Phils will be a pennant winning ball club in the season of 1921. It will try to win the pennant for a lot of ball clubs, just as our noble Athletics have assisted other American League teams in the past. As matters stand, there is every reason to believe that Willyum Donovan, the new manager, will be wilder and more ferecious before the season is over. In other words, the Phils would look good if one hadn't seen the other National League clubs.

There is a reason for this. In the past, the Phils have not developed any new talent, apparently made no effort to add any reserve strength, took few rookies of ability to the training camps and stood pat on the few regulars on the President Baker has been blamed for all of this; he has been panned payroll. and reasted for not going out and getting a ball club, but I do not think he is to blame. He has been badly advised ever since he stepped into office. True, he made some big mistakes, but in a way he couldn't help it.

THIS is no alibi for the boss of the Phils, but a plain statement of facts. With all due respect to his former managers, they were unable to help him. Coombs did not last long enough to find out what it was all about. Crowath lacked executive ability and Baker and Pat Moran never could get along together. Therefore, the scouting system was allowed to go to seed, the managers did not insist on getting new players, and now the club is paying for if

Bill Has to Build

TN A way. President Baker and the Phils are on trial this year. Bill Dono van, the new manager, has the confidence and respect of his bess and Bill has been told to go ahead and rebuild the ball club. When Bill ultimately finds out where new blood should be inserted in the make-up of his club he will make every effort to put it there. He says in his constructive program he will spare no one. He has taken the job as manager and will do everything in his power to build up a club which will not drag in the mire of last place

And here is where President Baker comes in. If he backs Donovan to the limit, it will not be long before a lot of new faces will be in the line-up, for Wild Bill will go out and get the men by trade, purchase or draft.

They say it is hard to get players. Chicago didn't find it difficult when the "Black Sox" were kicked out and seven positions had to be filled. Cleveland didn't sit still and howl about hard luck when a new shortstop and a lefthanded pitcher were needed to win last year's pennant. Anybody who travels round the big league training camps will see many high-class players who were lifted from the minor leagues and semipro ranks. The players can be pro cured if an effort is made to get them. This talk of not being able to get good

There is no use denying the fact that right now the Phils look no better than a seventh or eighth place club. We are willing to concede that they might go through the senson with the present line-up and not finish last, basing the conclusion on the fact that the spirit of the club is by far the best that has been evidenced since the departure of Pat Moran.

THOUGH Donaran is as new to the Phils as they are to him, they A have confidence in his ability. They realize he knows baseball and is a real leader. They also know he intends to strengthen the club. which means that some time somebody will have to go, and apparently none scants to depart. However, the seventh-place stuff is based on the assumption that the other clubs are the same as in 1920.

Looks Like Cellar Again

A 5 A matter of fact, there has been a big improvement all along the line, after allowing the Phils to stay in seventh place for a couple of paragraphs, we will now drop them to the eighth notch. The Phils must show a big improvement to finish any place this season.

The outfield, with Williams, Neale, Meusel, Stengel and Lebouryeau, looks good, although there are too many left-handed hitters.

The other departments are weak. Paulette has been canned by Judge Landis and Donovan now needs a good first, second and third baseman 'Greasy'' Neale may do at the first sack. He also needs a couple of real pitchers and a high-class catcher. Fletcher is the only dependable infielder, as Rawlings, Ralph Miller, John Miller and Wrightstone cannot deliver the goods.

The only new infielder Donovan has down here is Frank Parkinson. Frank
