

POOR RICHARD CLUB MAY ADMIT WOMEN

Mr. Bloomingdale, President, Will Ask Directors to Receive Them as Members

NO GROUND FOR EXCLUSION

The Poor Richard Club may accept women as members. Mr. Bloomingdale, president of the club, today declared his intention of bringing the matter before the board of directors Monday and at the monthly meeting next Thursday in the Ritz-Carlton.

Women Successful in Business

"In this era it is impossible to keep the women down. They have reached such a point that the modern woman, in preference to the home, has taken up politics, law, medicine and business. They have displayed unusual ability in every undertaking and have been exceedingly successful and have made conditions better and cleaner in each of their projects."

There is no difference between the two sexes from a business angle. Both are employed in the same occupation. Therefore, why not co-operate? Why keep the women out of the Poor Richard Club?

"There is absolutely no reason why the women should not be admitted as members. They will get in eventually, as they have got into everything else, so why waste time and keep them waiting for such a small matter as a few months?"

"Advertising men and women are all eventually 'advertising men,' the only difference being that one group wears skirts and the other trousers. It is a recommendation for the admission of women into this club at the next meeting of the board of directors, and also at the monthly meeting to be held next Thursday at the Ritz-Carlton."

Such a move would be most beneficial to the advertising business as a whole. Advertising men and women could meet and exchange views and make suggestions. Women see things and know things that men do not know and their ideas on advertising would help the men. Hereafter, we have always looked at things from a man's angle; now it will be different, I am sure.

"When I was a reporter, I was assigned to cover a charity ball in the Bellevue-Stratford. In my story I gave an elaborate description of the various gowns worn. I thought I did rather well, but was later told by one of the women present that my description of the charity ball was like a man's viewpoint. A woman, on the other hand, would probably notice something in the hem and something here and there that would escape the man. They can help us in our chosen occupation immensely. Let us not be too proud to admit it. We must wake up and realize the truth, instead of having it hammered into our heads."

NURSE ROBBED OF SUITCASE

Young Woman's Instruments and Valuables With $500 Taken

A suitcase belonging to Miss Helen B. Wilson, a graduate nurse of Green Tree, Pa., was stolen today from the platform of the Philadelphia and Western Railroad Co., at Bryn Mawr as Miss Wilson was walking into the waiting room.

The suitcase, Miss Wilson told police, contained clothing and jewelry, medical instruments and a small quantity of drugs. She valued the contents at $500. Other persons at the station said they saw a Negro pick up the suitcase and run.

Success Merits Success

You are usually safe in dealing with a successful concern—it is a case of "survival of the fittest" in these trying times.

Our March business was larger in dollars and greater in the actual number of garments sold than in any previous year.

Success has come to us (we are assured of this fact) because we deserve it.

Suit and Overcoat prices are $30 and upward, with exceptional values at $45 and $50.

SOLDIERS ACCUSED OF INJURING MAN

Four From Camp Dix Arrested on Charge of Running Down Pedestrian

DISREGARD ORDER TO STOP

Four Camp Dix soldiers, thought to be responsible for running down a man in Camden and fleeing from a volley of shots fired at them by two patrolmen, were arrested in a motorcar at Moorestown, N. J., this morning.

Harry Koons, of 235 North Twenty-second street, Camden, was struck and injured by a motorcar as he stepped from a trolley at Thirtieth and Federal streets at 2:30 o'clock this morning.

Patrolmen Joseph Schweser and Raymond Stark, of the Camden police force, were riding on the rear of the car and witnessed the affair. They jumped from the trolley and commanded the motor to halt. Its driver disregarded the summons, and both drew their revolvers and fired several shots.

Word was sent by the Camden police to all cutting losses, and within an hour the arrest of four men was made in Moorestown. They were sent to the Camden police station.

They gave their names as Earl Parks, twenty-two years old; Joseph Thompson, twenty; John Leonard, twenty-two; and Thomas Jumps, twenty.

Parks, driver of the machine, was charged with operating a motorcar while intoxicated and with driving without license. Leonard, Jumps and Thompson were charged with aiding and abetting.

Koons was hurt about the head and back and was taken to Cooper Hospital. He will be able to appear in court to try to identify the soldiers today.

CITY OFFICIALS SUED

Taxpayer Charges Dismissal of Laborers Violates Charter

William H. Kreider, former secretary of the Civil Service Commission, today filed a taxpayer's suit in Court of Common Pleas No. 3, against the present Civil Service Commission.

Kreider attacks the legality of the dismissal of a number of laborers and the appointment of others to fill their places in the municipal employ.

Mr. Kreider, who represents Michael Kellman, a taxpayer, contends that the dismissals and appointments were in violation of the new city charter and the civil service rules.

It is explained that between April 2, 1920, and March 12, 1921, the Civil Service Commissioners and the several directors "dropped" laborers belonging to the classified civil service without complying with the provisions of the new charter in that the men dismissed were not furnished with written reasons for their discharge and given a chance to make a written reply.

Housing Bill Hearing Here

EDNA MURPHY, FREE AGAIN, RESUMES HOUSEWIFE'S ROLE

Routine of Domestic Duties Seems Less Irksome After Acquittal on Charge of Plotting to Kill Husband

Acquitted yesterday afternoon of a plot to kill her husband, Mrs. Edna Murphy today gladly took up her market basket and went out to select the delicacies "George likes best" to cook for her husband's dinner.

She has settled down again to routine domesticity, only it doesn't seem so much like monotonous routine now, because she is so glad she was acquitted and given the chance to play housewife again.

At present she and "George" are living with her mother at 2625 Wernock street. They have not lived at 330 North Lawrence street, their old address, for months.

"Of course, I love George," Mrs. Murphy said, as she referred to her husband. "I have loved him ever since I was a girl. He knows Colinton—that other fellow—with blame, and that I'd rather live with him, George. I mean."

4 YEARS FOR MANSLAUGHTER STILL IN WELL

W. H. Henderson, Who Shot Man in Restaurant Row, Jailed

William H. Henderson, a Negro, who pleaded guilty to homicide, which the court fixed as voluntary manslaughter, was today sentenced to a term of four to five years in the Eastern Penitentiary by Judge Quigley in Quarter Sessions Court.

Henderson shot and killed William J. Gorman in a restaurant on Twenty-second street above Arch, December 3, 1920. Gorman was twenty-four years old. Henderson was watchman in charge of a garage across the street from the eating house, and took offense at one of Gorman's companions when he, in trying out an automobile, was with a car under the care of Henderson.

Hot words were exchanged, as some of the men had been drinking, and Gorman and his companions went to the restaurant, while Henderson went home and secured his revolver. Later he went into the restaurant. The row between Henderson and Gorman and his four companions was resumed, and it was charged Henderson started firing at the men, one bullet hitting Gorman and causing a fatal wound.

TWINING CRITICIZES P. R. T.

Shunting of Cars at Sixty-third Street Pronounced Dangerous

The shunting of market street elevated cars at Sixty-third street was called "potentially dangerous" today by Director of City Transit Twining, who testified before Public Service Commissioner Clement in the complaint filed against the P. R. T. Co. by the Philadelphia and Western Railway Co., which maintains a suburban trolley service radiating from the Sixty-ninth street terminal.

Twining said the "cross-over" of cars at Sixty-third street was "potentially dangerous" because the cars run so close together there. There is a 4 per cent grade at that point, he said, meaning the incline there equals four feet to every 100 feet.

R. H. Horton, traffic engineer for the P. R. T. Co., testified that his company gave adequate service beyond Sixty-third street.

MANY N. J. BILLS SENT TO EDWARDS

Republican Leaders Want a Chance to Repass Measures Governor Vetoes

"DRYS" RELENT SLIGHTLY

State Dispatch to Evening Public Ledger

Trenton, April 1.—Forty bills passed by the Legislature this week have been turned over to Governor Edwards. Republican leaders say to it that measures in which they were vitally interested were delivered to the executive department so that bills vetoed may be acted upon during the final week of the 1921 session.

The Anti-Saloon League's bill for the state board of pharmacy to supervise permits for sale of intoxicants for non-beverage purposes, including sacramental wines and beverages for medicinal purposes, is also in the governor's hands.

Dry leaders have found it expedient to relent in state prohibition legislation to the extent of permitting retail druggists to withdraw more than five gallons of "medicinal liquor" at one time. The bill to take care of this situation was offered this week at the instance of the Anti-Saloon League. The league authorized this statement:

"The purpose of this act is to allow retail druggists of this state to withdraw more than five gallons of liquor at one time. The limitation to five gallons imposes an undue hardship on re-

fall druggists. The amendment has the approval of all parties interested. Among the more important measures before the governor are those for the board of public utility commissioners to regulate jitneys, abolishing the state board of chiropractic examiners and the state board of barber examiners, the annual appropriation measure for approximately $16,000,000 and creating a state employees' retirement commission. A retirement act, for half pay after twenty-five years' state service at sixty years, when disability is proved, is also before the governor for disposition. Other bills awaiting approval or veto provide: Change warrants to carry firearms, making gunning licenses $1.50 and fee for nonresidents $3; county governments to organize January 2, game refuge in Warren and Sussex counties, judicial salary raises for judges in Atlantic county, fresholders to offer $5,000 reward for capture of murderers.

To Discuss Waste in Building

The Elimination of Waste in the Building Industry will be the subject of discussion at a meeting called by the Council of Associated Building Trades, to be held at the First Baptist Church, Seaventh and Sanson streets, April 8. The principal speaker will be Sanford E. Thompson, of Boston, consulting engineer and field director for the building industry on the Hoover American Engineering Council. This committee is conducting a national assay of industrial waste.
