Nancy Wynne Sees Smart Suit Worn by Mrs. George Tyler—She Tells of the Unique Opera Co.'s Performance for Orphanage Next Month

I SAW Mrs. George F. Tyler the other day wearing a stunning street suit of bright bottle green silk duvetyne. The coat is hip length, one of the new straight box models with stole collar and narrow shoulders which are so fashionable this season, and the sleeves are full length and tight. To relieve the severity of the plain lines, a broad band of embroidery done in platinum gray silk encircles the coat and the same motif is carried out around the sleeves on an even line with the band on the coat. She wears a turban of gray grosgrain silk devoid of trimming, but very smart in shape and to further add to the symmetry of the costume her slippers are of gray suede strapped with darker leather of the same shade. Really one of the smartest costumes I have seen for a long time.

I KNEW that the Unique Opera Co. would not be allowed to disappear from the face of said earth after that performance at the New Century Club in March. It was too good for that and so Catherine Morris and her co-workers have consented to repeat it and this time for the benefit of the Philadelphia Orphan Asylum at Wallingford. That asylum is one of the oldest institutions in the State and there is a present need for funds which must be met. A committee of women, Mrs. Minturn Wright, Mrs. Horatio C. Wood, Mrs. S. Rowland Morgan and Mrs. Francis R. Strawbridge, has the affair in charge, and it will be held on Friday evening, May 6, in the ballroom of the Germantown Cricket Club.

You remember they gave scenes from "Aida" and "La Forza del Destino" and several other operas in appropriate costume and really Catherine Morris was wonderful and the Schauensee men, too, and Ernest Kitson and Nancy Cope and George Hunt and several others. I can't remember them all. Rosalie Hawkes was in the chorus from "Carmen," I do recall, and altogether it was fine.

The officers and managers of the Wallingford Orphanage include Mrs. John Markoe, honorary first directress; Mrs. De Witt Cuyler, first directress; Miss Elsie Bettle, second directress; Mrs. Horatio C. Wood, treasurer, and Mrs. J. Henry Scattergood, secretary. The other managers are Miss Coleman, Miss Christine Biddle, Mrs. Strawbridge, Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. John H. Gibbon, Mrs. Robert C. Wright, Mrs. John Marshall Gest, Mrs. Edward D. Toland, Mrs. Heatley C. Dulles, Mrs. James G. Biddle, Mrs. W. H. Fulweiler, Miss Dorothea Wood, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. John A. Brown, Jr., and Mrs. Frank Packard.

MEMBERS of the Barney family, including Mr. Charles Barney, the Henry Miller Watts, the Archibald Hubards and Mrs. John Hammann Whittaker and other relatives of that large and extensive family connection came home yesterday from New York, having gone over on Wednesday to attend Catherine Harding and Lorillard Suffern Tailer's wedding in St. Bartholomew's Church. Catherine Harding is the daughter of the Horace Hardings. Her mother was a Miss Barney, a sister of Mrs. Watts, Mrs. Hubard and Mrs. Whitaker, and Catherine and her sister Laura both made their debut in New York.

The wedding was a beautiful affair, I hear, and Catherine looked perfectly lovely. Laura Harding, who came over here last week to receive at Marian Watts' tea, was maid of honor at the wedding, and looked sweet in a pink taffeta frock embroidered in flower designs. Betty Tailer, who is Lorillard's little sister, was flower girl, and looked perfectly darling in a white lace frock over blue satin. It was altogether a lovely affair.

I HEAR that the Fitz-Eugene Dixons and their small daughter, Eleanor Widener Dixon, will sail for England on the 20th of this month and later go to France, where they will join Mrs. Alexander Rice, who has been over there with Mr. Rice for several months. Mrs. Rice, you know, was formerly Mrs. George D. Widener and is Mrs. Dixon's mother. Mrs. Rice's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Widener, who live most of the time in New York or at their place in Whitemarsh, have been abroad most of the winter, so they will have quite a family party in France, as I understand they are all to meet there.

THE tea at the Emergency Aid yesterday afternoon for Mrs. Douglas Robinson was interesting. Mrs. Robinson has a decided likeness to the late Colonel Roosevelt (which is certainly not remarkable, as she is his sister) and she is decidedly charming to meet. It was a great evening altogether, was it not? The parade and the speechmaking and the school children in the afternoon at Independence Square.

One feels sometimes that it ought not to be necessary to have an All-America Day to show our patriotism; that patriotism, if it is the right kind, is in the heart and should show in our every action and thought, and the mere waving of the flag, unless the heart is back of it, means little, but an outward show of honest patriotism is always good, and so we all cheered and waved to our heart's content, and some of us cried and enjoyed ourselves thoroughly, as I heard a woman spenking of "Smilin' Thro," say the other day. "Oh! it was just wonderful; I cried the whole time."

NANCY WYNNE.
