

MRS. WILSON DESCRIBES HOW HOUSEWIFE CAN MAKE MONEY

There Is a Ready Sale for Such Things as Real Home-Baked Beans and Jam of Rhubarb and Strawberries. Roadside Markets

By MRS. M. A. WILSON

THE car coming today takes me on rides during the growing season along the national roads highways. In this way I can see how the pleasure and brings to the home fruits and vegetables straight from the farm. While there is very little in the making of money, the pleasure and satisfaction it really brings a home. You begin to wonder what product you can sell on the road and find it is a good purchase from 10 to 20 cents for each until you find out that the others have. Then, too, they will not let you have the food fresh from the farm to take table.

MRS. WILSON'S TIPS

Beans.—Take one quart of beans, wash them, and soak in water overnight. In the morning drain off the water and add one quart of water. Cook until tender. One quart of beans, when cooked, will make two quarts of beans.

Jam.—Take one quart of rhubarb, wash and cut into small pieces. Add one quart of sugar and one quart of water. Cook until thick. One quart of jam will make two quarts of jam.

Strawberries.—Take one quart of strawberries, wash and remove the stems. Add one quart of sugar and one quart of water. Cook until thick. One quart of strawberry jam will make two quarts of strawberry jam.

Home-baked.—Take one quart of beans, wash and soak in water overnight. In the morning drain off the water and add one quart of water. Cook until tender. One quart of beans, when cooked, will make two quarts of beans.

CHARMING DRAPERY LENDS ORIGINALITY

By CORINNE LOWE

There is a certain famous wartime slogan, the waif and the orphan, that is being frequently used. It is frequently used in the design of the day. Many of the draped frocks of today just wrinkle here and there, but they know what it is all about. It is the charming drape. It is the fashion that is being worn. It is the fashion that is being worn. It is the fashion that is being worn.

THE DAILY NOVELETTE

A Lost Lover
By Anna I. Metellan

Old Mr. Williams was seen now in the parlor, and Del knew he had come over to ask her to marry him. There seemed to be no escape for her, because her aunt, who had done everything for her, favored his suit.

"I don't want the horrid old thing!" sobbed Del to her brother, Jim, as they discussed the matter in the shade of the lawn.

"Well, now, if you follow me," said the young man, "I'll make Mr. Williams forget all about proposing."

"Wondering what he meant, she followed him into a room next to where the aged lover was sitting. They could hear the noise of his rocking-chair.

"And," said Jim, as if continuing an argument, "I think it is downright wicked of you, Del, when Aunt Jane has been so kind to try to get you to attract the only man she ever loved."

"Del's eyes widened. Only for a moment, though, in answer to Jim's broad grin, she said:

"But Jim, Mr. Williams is so rich, and I do so want to wear diamonds and pearls!"

"But if he should not be generous?"

"That is what I'll do for Mrs. Murray does; I'll run up bills and he will have to pay them. He'll get mad, I suppose, at first, but I can get up a temper, too."

"You can, indeed," said Jim, sighing, as if his exclamation confirmed her words. "He won't want to see you in one of your gowns, will he?"

"What Jim, Mr. Williams is so rich, and I do so want to wear diamonds and pearls!"

"But if he should not be generous?"

"That is what I'll do for Mrs. Murray does; I'll run up bills and he will have to pay them. He'll get mad, I suppose, at first, but I can get up a temper, too."

Things You'll Love to Make

Tucked Organie Gilet

Here is a chemise frock made stunning by the addition of a TUCKED ORGANIE GILLET, fashioned after the style of 1875. It offers a smart way of remodeling a plain serge chemise frock. The gilet has straight pieces of tucked organie curved to form the new broad neckline and a row of wide pearl buttons down a front half-inch box plait. Tack the gilet to the lining of your frock. Sew snap fasteners under the buttons of the frock, so that you can readily remove the TUCKED ORGANIE GILLET when soiled, and replace it with a clean one. F. G. G. G.

Nothing about P. But all the Milton folks know it's ours. You can tell Harry's and the pair went off into it, of merriment.

But what had come to Aunt Jane. All her usual courtesies were gone from her countenance. She fairly beamed upon Jim, whose visits in the holidays were semiannual purgatory.

"My dear Delphine," she said, "you have your hair with Jim. Have you wanted no?"

"No, my dear child, no. I was unimpressed, Delphine, with regard to Mr. Williams."

"Here Jim rushed to the window and looked out, extreme agitation betraying itself in his shivering shoulders.

"Dear me, James," said his aunt, "do you move so quickly?"

"I thought I saw a pig in the garden," he said. "I'm in a bad temper."

"I'm in a bad temper," he said. "I'm in a bad temper."

"I'm in a bad temper," he said. "I'm in a bad temper."

"I'm in a bad temper," he said. "I'm in a bad temper."

"I'm in a bad temper," he said. "I'm in a bad temper."

"I'm in a bad temper," he said. "I'm in a bad temper."

Making More Money

Starting at $8 a Week

No one who enters Miss Margaret McCann's very imposing office in the heart of New York's financial district would dream that the woman whose name appears in gold letters under the door worked as a cashier—and in a butcher shop, at that—for the sum of $8 a week, for that such a minute is closer to the present earning capacity of the only independent woman broker on Wall Street.

But the facts in the case cannot be denied and every now and then Miss McCann finds her thoughts drifting back to the days when her weekly wage seemed almost as big as her monthly income appears at the present moment.

Up until the time her father died, the McCann family lived in California, but they moved east and settled in Jersey City, she securing her first position when she was fourteen by acting as an embroidery dresser and emergency clerk in a neighborhood butcher shop, where she remained until she was nine months old. McCann was born in the month she passed, however, she grew less and less satisfied with her work.

For she had determined that some day she was going to have a business of her own and it was necessary to lay the foundations for it as well in advance as possible.

A position in a steamship office was secured for her but she found it difficult. This was followed before long by another in a broker's office—and it was here that Miss McCann's career began.

The work fascinated her and, little by little, she picked up the details of the work until increasing salary and a constantly growing bank account enabled her to branch out for herself.

Planning the storage places in the kitchen and the main factors to be considered are to keep each article clear of the place where it is most frequently used and to place the closets, shelves, and drawers where they are easily accessible and easily kept clean.

To insure clean, frost-free storage places should be made of good wood, free from knots, knots, or other roughness likely to catch dirt and harbor insects. A further help in making shelves easy to clean is to leave a small space, say half an inch wide, between the back edge of the shelf and the wall.

Corner closets provide an excellent method of utilizing space, which is otherwise of little value. Narrow shelves sometimes economize space better than wide ones, for all the articles on them can be easily reached whereas on the wide shelves either part of the article must be moved or the things in front must be moved to get at those behind. United States Department of Agriculture specialists suggest a shelf not more than four inches wide will conveniently hold spices, flavoring extracts, baking powder, and material of this kind.

Putting deep shelves with shallow boxes or "trays" (light wooden boxes with sides about four inches high and with a knob or handle on the front end so they can be conveniently moved) is often worth while. These shallow boxes can be filled with bottles, cans, and other small articles neatly arranged. To take out the tray, select the article desired, and replace the tray in much more convenient than moving a large number of things about on the shelf itself. One finds something which may be near the back. It also leaves the articles in much better order. Such a device has been tested, and its usefulness proved. It can easily be made at home.

In Gunmetal—Three Smart Styles

Gunmetal is an ideal color for gloves—gentle, serviceable, and harmonious with gowns in so many shades. Originated by Centemeri years ago, it has been one of the most popular shades in our French Kidskin gloves.

The Seville at 3.50, with piquant band effect, embroidery and stitching in the contrasting white, is a stunning gunmetal glove. 123 So. 13th St. (New York Store, 400 Fifth Ave.)

Other smart styles in this shade are the two-clasp Florine at 3.00, and the lovely Bandolette with two-tone embroidery and two pearl clasps, at 3.50.

AWARD THREE FELLOWSHIPS

Haverford Grants Honors to Students of Graduating Class

President Conover of Haverford College has announced the awards of several important fellowships to members of the graduating class. The Clementine Cape Fellowship, an award previously given for a year at some time, is awarded to Ann Woods Hastings, of Persimmon, Mass. Hastings has been the recipient of a number of awards from the Haverford College.

Two other fellowships awarded on the Clementine Cape Foundation are the two traveling fellowships, involving certain duties at Haverford College and involving for two graduate work, leading to the degree of master of arts, and a number of awards. They were given to Robert Anderson, of Mt. Airy, and Raymond Theodore Hill, of Avonlea, Md., as a recognition of their scholarship and of the hard work of the season's term.
